MOVE TRIAL TO GIRL'S GRAVE

RAKES CHICAGO AS 'WIDE OPEN,' RULED BY GANGS

U. S. Official Blames It on Dry Law.

DRIVE ON RACKETS

Coincidental with the Wickersham report on Illinois and Chicago were the following activities in Chicago yesterday:

A woman who formerly was an investigator for the police department was put in jail for a time after she had refused to answer the questions of the special grand jury which is inquiring into police graft. Details on page 3.

An inquiry develops that 75 lives were imperiled by the dropping of the fifteen pound bomb in a Blue Island gambling house. Details on page 7.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 3.—[Special.]—A smashing exposé of lax prohibition conditions in Illinois, principally Chicago, was placed before the senate by the Wickersham committee today.

The report, made by an attorney for the prohibition bureau, charges that graft, political intrigue, bootlegging and racketeering are larger than the city of Chicago itself, "having apparently steadily increased since the enactment of the prohibition law."

Continuing indictment of conditions that have followed in the wake of prohibition, the investigator says:

"Instead of prohibiting in the Chicago district, this law has served to create untold opportunities for personal profit among the lawless element. These opportunities have been taken advantage of to the fullest extent by bootleggers, political grafters, and racketeers."

Lists Police Graft $10,000 Week.

One piece of evidence in the report is a letter from a policeman, in which the payoff to detective bureau squads is set as high as $10,000 a week. The letter listed resorts where Capone booting products are handled and the allegation is made that of all the police districts on the south side, the only one honestly run is the stock yards district under Capt. Allman.

While prohibition enforcement was found inefficient in downstate Illinois in a separate report, Chicago was lambasted by the investigator, Guy L. Nichols, special agent. He pictured Chicago as a gang ridden city where politicians, gangsters, the police, and even judges conspire to permit every type of crime to flourish. He said that organized crime is a giant octopus which is sucking millions of dollars annually from the people of Chicago.

Lists 300 Gangsters.

The report carries a list of 300 gangsters in Chicago, giving their affiliations and rackets. They are the names of those involved in arrests, shootings, and bombings in recent years. A number of the names are of men who have been killed in gang wars. The rackets include bootlegging, labor affairs, prostitution and many other similar activities.

Nichols asserted that many millions of the profits of illicit alcoholic sales went to finance the spread of anarchistic doctrines which strike at the root of self-government.

"Organized crime in Chicago," he said, "consists of a series of lawless operations practically syndicated by rival gangsters and it draws into its elusive web of crime many public officials and politicians who avail themselves of this way to make easy money."

While praising George E. Q. Johnson, United States attorney of the northern district, and the three federal judges, the Nichols report smears the Illinois Criminal court with the charge that "many Criminal court judges are unsympathetic with liquor laws and fail to mete out proper justice."

Calls Criminal Court Political.

"The Criminal court is a political court," Nichols explains. "The candidates are proposed and supported by the machine. The civil bar is good, but the criminal bar is alert, shrewd and without ethical sense. The handling of a felony liquor case by the Criminal court is practically 'a lost art.'"

Nichols added that the three federal

'HOLY MAN' AND GREAT BRITAIN AGREE ON TERMS

Natives Gain Right to Make Salt.

BULLETIN.

NEW DELHI, India, March 4 (Wednesday).—(AP)—Viceroy Lord Irwin and Mahatma Gandhi, Nationalist leader, today formally signed an agreement which brings to an end the civil disobedience campaign by which Indian Nationalists sought to win independence from Great Britain.

[Copyright: 1931: By the Associated Press.]

NEW DELHI, India, March 4.—[Wednesday.]—Peace at last has come to India, racked for a year by a civil disobedience movement and the salt revolt, which defied all the authority of the British raj, filled the jails of the country and was responsible for millions of dollars of economic loss.

After nine hours of almost continuous discussion, lasting until 1:30 o'clock this morning, Mahatma Gandhi and Viceroy Lord Irwin agreed upon formulas for settlement of all points in the dispute which hitherto has menaced the fruits of the London round table conference.

Will Draw Formal Pact.

A formal agreement will be drawn up later today, when the little Nationalist leader goes for a final talk with the viceroy. Its contents will then be made known. In the meantime observers presume that the civil disobedience campaign will be ended and that Gandhi's followers in the All India National congress will help in obtaining the qualified dominion status promised by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald at the round table conference.

No more amazing setting or atmosphere for a peace conference could be imagined than that in which these midnight pourparlers occurred.

Rain was pouring down in torrents upon the viceregal building and a fierce gale was howling through New Delhi's streets. Prowling hyenas and hungry dogs whined through the cold, wet night.

Puny Figure Emerges in Rain.

Suddenly the puny and white clad figure of Gandhi emerged from the huge stone gate of the viceregal palace, resembling a specter in a dream rather than a human being.

"Will you sign an armistice today?" he was asked.

"Better ask the viceroy," replied the Nationalist leader with his habitual diplomacy and thus the news of an agreement came from others than him.

With that the crooked legged little man, who, with a spinning wheel as his only weapon, brought the British empire to terms, started on a six mile walk over darkened water soaked roads to old Delhi, where lie the remains of potentates who once ruled India before the British came. In the pelting rain he held a huge black umbrella over his bare head, resembling a lilliputian under a canopy.

Reports to "War Council."

Arriving an hour later at his house, Gandhi plunged into a long conversation with his cabinet from the congress working committee, who, despite the fact it was already 3 a. m., had waited patiently throughout the night for the glad tidings which their idol was to bring them.

The mahatma was weary, but he was happy over his great achievement. He snatched a little sleep upon his coarse straw mattress on the stone floor, but he was up again an hour later for his regular morning prayer.

It was noticed that he remained upon his knees longer than usual, and his devotees declared that the mahatma was offering special prayers and thanks to his maker for vouchsafing peace to unhappy India at last.

Viceroy Praises Gandhi's Nerve.

Far from being exhausted by two successive midnight conferences, the frail 93 pound leader plunged immediately into piles of accumulated correspondence and telegrams.

That this puny slip of a man could have borne almost the entire burden and responsibility of this peace conference has amazed even his sternest English critics, and nobody was more impressed than Lord Irwin, who declared that the man he imprisoned only nine months ago for defying British authority not only was an able peace negotiator but had established

THE ANESTHETIC

Both men were attending a meeting of the senate committee on highway transportation, Mr. Gorham, as legal representative of the Chicago Motor club. Dr. Robertson had appeared to seek the passage of Senate Bill No. 1, which would require the licensing of auto drivers. He was displeased when a sub-committee was named to study the bill and only one Chicago man was placed on it.

When Mr. Gorham approached him at the end of committee hearing, Dr. Robertson remarked.

"I don't want to talk to you. You've been scheming around all afternoon when I thought we were in agreement."

With that Mr. Gorham's fist went into action. Dr. Robertson fell over. Friends assisted him to the Abraham Lincoln hotel. They reported that he had collapsed on the way.

STABS DOORMAN AT NIGHT CLUB; FLEES WITH GIRL

A Negro doorman of the Club Racine, a night club at 534 North Racine avenue, was stabbed, probably fatally, shortly before 6 o'clock this morning by one of the guests, who fled with a young woman whom he was escorting. Police arrested all the guests in the place, including six women, and held them for questioning in an attempt to learn the identity of the man who did the stabbing. All denied knowing him.

The doorman is Edward McBride, 50 years old, 58 East 30th street. He was on duty near the entrance when the guest stopped at the check room to get his coat and hat and dropped some pennies on the floor as he pulled a coin from his pocket to tip the attendant.

Turning to McBride, the man called: "Hey, nigger, pick up that money."

McBride retorted: "After using that kind of talk to me, I won't pick it up."

"You won't, eh," shouted the man and lunged for McBride with a knife which he imbedded in the doorman's chest just below the heart.

Panic among the twenty guests followed, and during the excitement the man and his woman companion escaped. Acting Lieut. Thomas Kelleher of the West Chicago Avenue station ordered the arrest of all in the place when the police arrived. The club is owned by Robert Petrone, who was among those arrested. McBride was taken to the County hospital, where it was said he probably will die.

Mother Slain, Daughter Kills Self in Shame

New York, March 3.—[Special.]—Benita Bischoff, 16 year old daughter of Vivian Gordon, slain witness in the vice investigations which have stunned New York, committed suicide by gas today because she could not "face the world any longer."

The child, who had been transformed over night by the tragedy that befell her mother from a laughing, carefree schoolgirl to a brooding neurasthenic, took her life at the home of her stepmother in Audubon, N. J. She left no farewell note to explain her act, but her diary, found on a table in the dining room, contained four references to the murder and left no doubt about the cause of her act.

Too Much to Face.

Under today's date she had written:

"I just can't live any longer. This has gotten to be too much for me. I cannot face the world any longer. I am going to end it all. Every one has been so nice to me, especially mother."

By "mother" the child meant her stepmother, Mrs. Eunice Bischoff, with whom she had lived for the last eight years since her father, John E. C. Bischoff, obtained his divorce from Vivian Gordon.

Mrs. Bischoff, who found Benita's body in the kitchen when she returned from her work in a Philadelphia department store late in the afternoon, said the killing of the girl's mother and the exposure of her mode of life had made a deep impression upon the child.

Shamed by Notoriety.

Once Benita had remarked, Mrs. Bischoff said, that her mother had "gotten herself into an awful mess." Another time she suggested that she might change her name and on Saturday when the father came home from Lorton, Va., where he is business manager of the penal institution of the District of Columbia, she seemed pleased at his promise to send her to business school in Philadelphia so that she would not have to return to Audubon High school.

Last night the girl went to the community skating rink. She was a member of the girls' hockey team, but schoolmates recalled that last night she skated alone. She had remained home from school, where she was in her first year, since Thursday, when investigation of her mother's death turned attention upon her life in this quiet little town, but this morning she returned to turn in her books and said she would not be back.

Finally she learned that she had been the innocent cause of disputes between her mother and father—disputes which led eventually to a divorce in 1923, when she was but 2 years old. Since then she had been in the custody of her father, and she had not seen her mother, who had wanted to bring her up for the stage, for more than two years, but the courts had held the mother was unfit to bring her up.

Mrs. Bischoff knew of the effect Vivian Gordon's death had had upon her stepdaughter. She had noticed that the child ate but little and lay awake long hours at night, dropping off into fitful slumber at times only to awaken with a cry. She had tried to divert Benita's interests, she said, but the child remained moody and melancholy.

Finds Doors of Home Locked.

When Mrs. Bischoff approached her home late in the afternoon she noticed that the blinds were drawn. She found the door locked. Mrs. Bischoff called a patrolman.

The child was lying on the floor of the kitchen, in front of a gas stove. Gas was escaping from all the jets. The windows were shut and a rug had been rolled up against the crack between the door and the doorsill.

Benita was a plain girl with a dark complexion and black hair. She had been popular at school, until her mother's tragedy cast a shadow over the girl. Only this afternoon, however, the principal of the Audubon High school, Mrs. Estella Cramer, had attempted to persuade Benita not to quit school, but the girl turned in her books and walked across the campus to her home and to death.

Kirkland Case Judge Orders New Autopsy

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Pictures on back page.)

Valparaiso, Ind., March 3.—[Special.]—Judge Grant Crumpacker entered an order late today for exhumation of the body of Arlene Draves shortly after he denied a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal.

CAROLYN DRAVES.

In accordance with that order the scene of Virgil Kirkland's trial for the murder of the Gary high school girl will be transferred tomorrow morning from the Porter county courtroom here, with its turmoil of clashing lawyers, harried witnesses, and morbid crowds, to the country cemetery at the outskirts of Reynolds, Ind.

Soon after dawn tomorrow a party of lawyers, medical experts, and newspaper men will start the trip down to Reynolds, a quiet village in the valley of the Wabash where Arlene, the youngest of eight children, spent her early childhood until, at the death of his wife, Charles Draves took his family north to try the family fortunes in Gary.

Prosecution Offers no Objection.

The court party will stand where Arlene's mourning relatives stood on a chilly afternoon last Dec. 1, when the girl's gray casket was lowered to a grave beside her mother's with the blessing of a rural pastor, three days after she met a violent death at a Gary liquor orgy.

The exhumation order was demanded by the defense with the prosecution entering no objection. Although Judge Crumpacker readily granted that the cemetery proceedings are properly part of the trial, young Kirkland will not witness the opening of his alleged victim's grave.

Kirkland will remain behind the bars in the Porter county jail and the jury will continue in custody of the bailiff until the lawyers and medical experts return to court Thursday with the new evidence the defense hopes will impeach important state testimony and save their client from the electric chair.

Sisters Faint After Order.

Upon issuance of the court order this afternoon one of Arlene's sisters, Carolyn fainted almost unnoticed in the crowd around the judge's bench and another sister, Mrs. Lillian Clemens, toppled over on the courthouse lawn as the family left for Gary.

The news was kept from the father until some minutes after the exhumation order was entered. Two of the four surviving brothers, Elmer and Carl, gently told him of the import of the order and his legs began to sag as he leaned upon a table reflecting on this second mutilation of his dead daughter's body by surgical knives.

Hear Five Witnesses First.

During the morning the defense put on five witnesses, meanwhile keeping Prosecutor John Underwood and his associates in supposed suspense as to whether the exhumation would be demanded. Attorney O'Hara announced that the defense strategy would be determined at a noon conference.

As its first afternoon witness the defense called Dr. H. E. Seipel, Valparaiso physician and former coroner, whose testimony the defense expected would lay the basis for impeaching the testimony of Dr. J. B. Burcham, Lake county coroner's physician, who performed an autopsy on Arlene's body and declared her death due principally to the shock of repeated ravishment.

Dr. Seipel took the stand, but got

SENATE BACKS HOOVER'S VETO OF SHOALS BILL

Measure Is Killed by Action.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 3.—[Special.]—The senate failed tonight in an attempt to pass the Muscle Shoals bill over President Hoover's veto.

SENATOR HUGO BLACK.
[Acme Photo.]

The vote, which was taken at 10:30 o'clock after several hours of debate, was 49 to 33. The affirmative total fell seven votes short of the two-thirds necessary to overrule a veto.

Failure of the senate to pass the bill over the President's veto made it unnecessary to take action in the house, which would have been certain to sustain the veto.

Of the 49 who voted to overrule the veto 32 were Democrats, 16 Republicans, and 1 Farmer Laborite. The 34 to sustain the President were 31 Republicans and 3 Democrats.

Deficiency Bill Approved.

After sustaining the veto the senate approved without discussion the conference report on the second deficiency bill, which completed the appropriation program so far as the session was concerned. The report later was approved by the house.

With the appropriation bill out of the way, the necessary business of the session was completed. Senators prepared to talk indefinitely with a view to filibustering to death the maternity bill, the Vestal copyright bill, and the Jenkins resolution, which seeks to cut immigration 90 per cent for a period of two years. Late tonight, however, the senate recessed until 9 a. m. Three hours after it meets again the Seventy-first congress will come to an end. There is slight hope that any of the three bills will pass. Senators Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.] and Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.] led the filibuster.

For hours tonight the house refused to recess, supporters of the veterans' hospitalization bill declaring they would not go home until their measure had been adopted. Finally, when an agreement had been reached that the bill would be voted upon tomorrow before adjournment at noon, the house recessed. It went on the record as a victory for the Democrats and insurgent Republicans over Speaker Longworth and the administration.

Senate Gets Message.

President Hoover's veto message reached the senate this afternoon less than 24 hours before the seventy-first congress was scheduled to take final adjournment at noon tomorrow.

The message was read to the senate late in the afternoon and precipitated a debate in which Senators George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.], Hugo Black [Dem., Ala.], Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] assailed the President for his action, with Senator Otis F. Glenn [Rep., Ill.] defending him.

Senator Norris, author of the bill for government operation of the power and nitrate plants at Muscle Shoals, denounced the veto as "vicious and unfair." He disputed figures given by the President as to the probable cost of producing electric power at Muscle Shoals.

Glenn Defends Figures.

Senator Glenn defended the accuracy of the figures, which were furnished to the President by Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of engineers of the army.

The President in his message, after declaring himself against government invasion of the field of private business and asserting that the government could not operate the power or fertilizer plants profitably, suggested a new method of disposing of what he termed the "wartime relic."

He proposed that congress vest in a commission, composed of representatives of the states of Alabama and Tennessee, the corps of engineers of the army, and national farm organizations, full authority to use the plants at Muscle Shoals in the interest of the local community and agriculture generally.

The President said that the federal government should, as in the case of Boulder canyon, construct Cove Creek dam as a regulatory measure for the flood protection of the Tennessee valley and the development of its water resources, but on the same basis as those imposed at Boulder Dam. The construction should be undertaken, he said, only after the proposed commission is able to secure contracts for use of the increased water supply to power users or the lease of the power produced as a by-product from such a dam on terms that will return to the government interest upon its outlay and amortize the capital cost.

"On this basis," said the President in concluding his message, "the federal government will have cooperated to place the question into the hands of the people primarily concerned. They can lease as their wisdom dictates and for the industries that they deem best in their own interest. It would get a war relic out of politics and into the realm of service."

Objections Are Outlined.

In his veto message, President Hoover offered the following objections to the scheme proposed in the Muscle Shoals bill:

That on the basis of a capital investment of 127 millions there would be a loss in power production of nearly $2,000,000 annually.

That the power and fertilizer projects would require as much as 100 millions of new money.

That the most responsible and experienced firms have refused to make a bid for the leasing of the fertilizer plants and in consequence the leasing provision is of no utility and the bill in effect provides for government manufacture of fertilizer as well as government operation of power plants.

That the fertilizer plants are now more or less obsolete and that many millions would be required to modernize them.

That no chemical industry can be successfully conducted by the government.

That the requirement for the appointment of members of a board of directors in sympathy with the project necessitates selection of men on the basis of their beliefs rather than their experience and competency.

That the government should not go into business in competition with citizens except in cases of national emergency.

Sees Ownership Issue.

That the bill raises squarely the issue of federal government ownership and operation of power and manufacturing business, not as a minor byproduct, but as a major purpose.

That the power problem is not to be solved by the federal government going into the power business or by the project in the bill.

That the history of Muscle Shoals demonstrates the ineptness of the federal government to administer an enterprise of this character.

That the bill distinctly proposes to enter the field of powers reserved to the states.

That the real development of the resources and the industries of the Tennessee valley can be accomplished only by the people in that valley themselves.

Valued at $42,000,000.

The President estimated the total present valuation of the property to be taken over for the power portion of the project after making deductions for depreciation at $42,000,000. The new expenditures from the treasury applicable to the power business he estimated at $90,000,000, less $5,000,000 which might be attributable to flood control, or a total of 127 millions of capital in the electrical project. Additional millions, he said, would be required for modernizing the nitrate plants, bringing the total new money up to probably 100 millions even if no further extensions were undertaken.

Using figures furnished by army engineers, the President said that the estimated cost of production and distribution of Muscle Shoals power is 9.1 mills per kilowatt hour, which would mean a loss to the government inasmuch as power now being sold at wholesale by power companies in that area brings an average of only 7.2 mills per kilowatt hour.

Produced Cheaper Now.

The President said that he had been advised by the department of agriculture that "the plants are now more or less obsolete and that with power at even 2 mills per kilowatt hour, with proper charges included, could not produce the products for which they are constructed as cheaply as these products are now being sold in the wholesale markets."

"It can be stated with assurance," said the President, "that no chemical industry with its constantly changing technology and equipment, its intricate problems of sales and distribution, can be successfully conducted by the government."

"I am firmly opposed to the government entering into any business the major purpose of which is competition with our citizens," said President Hoover in dealing with the underlying policy involved. "There are national emergencies which require that the government should temporarily enter the field of business, but they must be emergency actions and in matters where the cost of the project is secondary to much higher considerations.

"There are many localities where the federal government is justified in the construction of great dams and reservoirs, where navigation, flood control, reclamation, or stream regulation are of dominant importance and where they are beyond the capacity or purpose of private or local government capital to construct. In these cases power is often a by-product, and should be disposed of by contract or lease. But for the federal government deliberately to go out to build and expand such an occasion to the major purpose of a power and manufacturing business is to break down the initiative and enterprise of the American people; it is destruction of equality of opportunity amongst our people; it is the negation of the ideals upon which our civilization has been based.

LEAPS TO DEATH IN RIVER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 3.—[Special.]—Constant controversy with President Hoover, record breaking peace time appropriations, enactment of legislation for relief of unemployment and drought suffers and passage of the veterans' bonus loan bill over an executive veto have been high points of the third session of the seventy-first congress which ends at noon tomorrow.

Throughout the two years of the life of the congress, coincident with the first two years of the Hoover administration, the President has been at odds with the senate but usually has had his way in the house.

Three sessions of the entire congress and a fourth session of the senate alone have marked the two year period. The farm relief and census and reapportionment acts were the principal product of the first session, and the tariff act and a one year tax reduction measure of the second session. In the special senate session the London naval treaty was ratified. Prohibition discussion has forced its way into all of the sessions of congress.

Make Peace Time Record.

Total appropriations for the two year period of the seventy-first congress have amounted to more than ten billion dollars. Appropriations for the session just closing will amount to about five billion 180 million dollars, which represents an increase of more than 300 millions over the total of last winter's session of $4,874,401,096. The two exceed the ten billion dollar mark, a record for peace time and a total which undoubtedly will be capitalized by the Democrats. The total in the last session of the seventy-first congress was $4,665,236,768. The figures include deficiency acts as well as annual appropriations and include expenditures for the postal service payable out of postal receipts.

Legislation of the third session of the seventy-first congress has centered around conditions growing out of the business depression and the 1930 drought.

Business Depression Grist.

The measures growing out of these conditions which became law include the following:

The veterans' bonus loan bill to increase the loan limit on adjusted service compensation certificates as a means of aiding soldiers of the world war.

An emergency construction bill appropriating 116 million dollars for speeding up river and harbor improvements and highway construction.

Various bills to cut red tape in public buildings construction.

A bill authorizing the appropriation of $45,000,000 for loans for seed, feed, and fertilizer to farmers in the drought stricken areas.

The Wagner bill for advance planning of construction programs for periods of business depression.

Increased appropriations for all sorts of construction work in the regular annual supply bills as a means of aiding unemployment.

Other Recently Made Laws.

Among miscellaneous measures which became law during this winter's session were those for additional hospital facilities for world war veterans, providing a 44 hour week for postal employes, granting government employes a half holiday on Saturdays the year around, extending the authority of the treasury to issue bonds, and creating various additional judges, including two in the northern district and one in the southern district of Illinois.

Measures which were before congress this winter, but which failed to receive final approval, included the Muscle Shoals government operation bill vetoed by the President, the Norris-Gifford resolution proposing a constitutional amendment abolishing "lame duck" sessions of congress, the naval construction authorization bill, the Capper-Kelly resale price maintenance bill, the Philippine independence bill, and bills for an embargo on oil imports and bills for an embargo on various agricultural products.

Discussion of prohibition featured all three sessions of the Seventy-first congress. The only prohibition bill which reached the statute books at this winter's session was one which provided for a relaxation of the Jones law with respect to penalties for minor violations.

Prohibition Bills That Failed.

A number of prohibition bills included in the program recommended by President Hoover, Attorney General Mitchell and the Wickersham commission died in the senate after having been approved in the house.

The first session of the seventy-first congress, featured by the farm relief and reapportionment acts, was the special session convened by President Hoover in April, 1929, a month after his inauguration.

The second session was marked by the lobby investigation of the Caraway committee of the senate and by the start of the inquiries of the Nye campaign funds senatorial committee.

In the third session there were lights over nominations for the powers and tariff commissions and over Eugene Meyer for governor of the federal reserve board.

FAIL TO PASS FEDERAL BUDGET FOR CHICAGO FAIR

Washington, D. C., March 4, 1 a. m. —[Special.]—The bill authorizing appropriation of $1,725,000 for government participation in the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago in 1933, failed of passage in the house shortly after midnight.

Representative Carl R. Chindblom [Rep., Ill.], moved to suspend the rules to pass the bill, but after opposition developed he withdrew his motion. A two-thirds vote would have been required to pass the bill. Representative Thomas L. Blanton [Dem., Tex.], one of those opposing the bill, asserted that there were enough votes to kill it.

The senate passed the bill some time ago and its Chicago sponsors have sought for a week to obtain action in the house. The failure means that nothing can be done toward enactment of the legislation until next winter.

Others opposing the bill besides Representative Blanton included Representatives J. F. Byrnes [Dem., Tenn.], and Albert Johnson [Rep., Wash.].

Representative John C. Schafer [Rep., Wis.], in interrupting Representative Chindblom, said that the funds would be for the benefit of "the Capone-Thompson crowd."

FORMER CONTRACTOR BANKRUPT.

J. E. McElligott, a labor foreman, 1186 Main street, Evanston, formerly engaged in the construction business, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the federal court yesterday, listing assets of $20,952 and liabilities of $805,704.

SENATORS TALK ALL DAY TO PASS TWO LITTLE BILLS

Vote 'Star Spangled Banner' National Anthem.

BY JOHN HERRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 3.—[Special.]—Bills and resolutions pressed and milled today in a struggle to pass through the narrow straits of congress before tomorrow noon should bring the seventy-first session to a close.

DAVID WALSH.

In the senate the maternity bill shouldered the copyright bill out of the road. The immigration bill clawed for a foothold. Armed with the irresistible weight of executive authority the Muscle Shoals veto message steamrollered in and lesser matters scrambled out of the way of its consideration.

By a vote of 59 to 16 the senate laid aside the copyright bill, on which it had worked until three o'clock this morning, and took up the conference report on the maternity bill.

Victory for Administration.

The maternity bill, as it now stands, represents a house and administration victory. Instead of the million dollars a year to be expended under the direction of the children's bureau in helping the states to help mothers and infants the bill, as it comes from the house, sets up a federal health coordinating board, with the surgeon general as chairman, and, in addition to the children's bureau appropriation, provides that by the end of five years more than three million dollars shall be appropriated annually for rural health work in conjunction with the states.

Senator Walsh [Dem., Mass.] didn't like the bill. For two hours and a half he talked about the economic depression. Senator Joe Robinson [Dem., Ark.], minority leader, helped him.

Idaho's insurgent Borah, wearing a vermilion tie, argued for an hour on behalf of Russian recognition. Indiana's Robinson spent an hour answering him.

Standing beside his desk, Senator Thomas D. Schall, Minnesota's blind senator, had the clerk read page after page of canary colored manuscript attacking the President and the attorney general for their refusal to agree to Senator Schall's recommendation for a federal judgeship.

Nye on Money in Politics.

Senator Gerald P. Nye, North Dakota insurgent, famed for the $96,500 expense account put in by his special committee on campaign expenditures, followed a report on the Pennsylvania campaign with a speech on the evil of money in politics.

Senators Goldsborough and Tydings played hide and seek in and out of the swinging doors. They were trying to get through a very important bill. Somebody would object. They would dash out and placate him. They would come in and try again. Some one else would object. Out they would go. At last Senator Tydings came in.

"The senator from South Carolina has withdrawn his objection," he announced with weary pride. The bill was passed. It was "The Star Spangled Banner" bill, and "The Star Spangled Banner" becomes the national anthem by act of congress as soon as President Hoover affixes his signature.

Vote Park at Isle Royale.

The calendar was called under rule 8, which means that one objection can stop consideration. Senator Vandenberg's bill to make a national park of Isle Royale in Lake Superior went through. Oct. 11, 1931, was made Pulaski Memorial day. Bridge bills, bills that are giving the right to bridge navigable streams, were passed by the half dozen, and private relief bills by the dozen.

Vice President Curtis was relentless. He was not going to let things get out of hand. Putting on his official scowl, he barked: "No business will be transacted until the senate is in order." The gavel banged and banged.

Senator Walsh of Massachusetts rumbled and roared. His voice was hoarse, he gulped water, mopped his brow. The maternity bill must not pass. He bellowed a rallying call to all good Democrats. They must adopt a program based on economic rehabilitation.

Walsh Hammers at Hoover.

Over in the Mayflower hotel Al Smith already was on hand for the Democratic conference next Thursday. Prohibition, Senator Walsh warned, must be submerged in favor of more pressing problems. He hammered at Hoover and the administration and the "monopolistic money powers." They had caused the country's plight.

Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, caught up the theme. Senator Fess of Ohio, pink and white and anxious, had taken the chair. Senator Fess wrote an article recently giving the Republican party credit for national prosperity. Senator Robinson banged away at him.

"Even in the present period of depression," he declared, "when business conditions generally in the United States are worse than ever before during the lifetime of the senator from Ohio or, for that matter, during the lifetime of the oldest senator, the senator from Ohio undertakes to carry forward at this time propaganda to convince the country that it really is prosperous and that the blessings of prosperity which the people of the United States now are enjoying are attributable to the mysterious and matchless measures and policies of the present occupant of the White House."

Calls Depression the Issue.

Senator Walsh defined the political problem facing the Democratic party as an "economic issue that reaches into every home, that reaches into every life, that ought to be the dominant controlling issue of the great Democratic party."

"We ought not to set up a straw man relating to religious matters or relating to racial matters or relating to the wet and dry issue," he continued, "when men and women are starving, are suffering, are unemployed, and when business is broken down and the country is on the verge of bankruptcy.

"The great problem, the political problem of the next few years is the reconstruction of a political agency in this country that will build a new economic system which will forever separate government from business and elect to public office officials who will observe a regulatory attitude toward greed and selfishness of organized wealth."

Came Senator Schall's diatribe.

Borah Pleads for Russia.

Then it was Borah's turn. He started with a schoolboys' litany. "Russia covers one-sixth of the earth's surface. It contains 150 million people. It extends from 65 north of the arctic circle as far south as the latitude of Richmond, Va." Russia, he said, had huge resources of wheat and timber.

"This is the government, this is the people that our government does not know exists," he said.

"There can be no permanent peace, no real disarmament until Russia is admitted to a place among the family of nations."

A problem? Yes, of course, Russia presented a problem, he admitted. But so long as it remained without, struggling alone, so long would it furnish the chief factor disturbing the world's economic balance, he warned.

The stability of its government? It had lasted for twelve years, had resisted invasion from without, revolution from within. Despite the many and various false reports of its fall, it had withstood such attacks as no other government in recent years had been called on to withstand, he declared.

"The secretary of state eight years ago," Senator Borah recalled, "termed Russia an economic vacuum. Well, the products pouring out of that economic vacuum furnish the world's greatest economic problem today."

Without the government assistance, possible only through recognition, small American business men could enter Russia and compete with foreign interests backed by their governments, he explained. That meant, he said, that the Russian market was open only to the powerful corporations in America. As for convict labor, he would guarantee to prove, with the class of witnesses so far produced, either that convict labor was or was not used in getting out manganese and timber and other products.

Can't Coerce 150 Million.

"One hundred and fifty million persons can be coerced and prevented from revolution," he asserted, "but they can't be forced into one day's decent work.

"The three greatest human instincts," he concluded, "are the instincts for religion, for family, for property—something to believe, something to love, something to possess. Russia seeks to uproot and exile all three as we seek to foster and strengthen them. There is an irreconciliable difference between us.

"But how strong is our faith? Are we afraid of contact with communism? We cannot place an embargo on ideas. Our difficulties arise not from communistic propaganda, but from the unsolved problems of capitalism."

There is a Russian problem, he declared, and since there is, it can be most readily settled by granting Russia recognition.

TWO FINE CARS

Declines to Divide Foes of Thompsonism.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Two events yesterday determined the final form of the contest for the Chicago mayoralty which will culminate in the election of April 7.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen announced his decision not to become an independent candidate and the deadline for filing petitions and certificates passed when the board of election commissioners closed its doors at 5 o'clock without the appearance of any new candidate of any importance.

Therefore the contest is to be a battle between the nominees of the two old parties, Mayor Thompson, Republican, and A. J. Cermak, Democrat. None of several extremely minor candidacies is expected to have any bearing on the outcome of this duel.

Bundesen Declines to Run.

Dr. Bundesen's announcement that he would not run was acclaimed by Democrats and independent Republicans as an extraordinary act of good citizenship.

"The paramount need in Chicago," he said, after telling of the movement to put him in the race, "is the eradication of Thompsonism and all that it stands for. The attainment of this result is greater than individual aims or ambitions, greater than political party designations, and far greater than the question as to which individual is to carry the standard in the battle and lead the city during the next four years in its triumphant course.

"In the opinion of many good people, if I should enter the mayoralty race there would be a grave possibility that by some cruel twist of fate the vote would be so split that Thompson would be reelected.

A Risk He Cannot Take.

"For Chicago's good that is a risk that I cannot afford to take. Four more years of Thompsonism would be too much to ask of even such a virile city as Chicago.

"I have, therefore, decided that I will not enter the race, and I trust in my God that by such action I am doing the right thing and am contributing at least my full share to redeem Chicago from the grasp of Thompsonism.

"In taking this step, I want to express my profound thanks to that loyal body of men and women who have so faithfully stood by me and have so generously given of their brains, energy, labor and time to help me. To disappoint these people who have encouraged me so wonderfully is the hardest and most regretted task of my life. Yet, I feel sure they all knew I have the welfare of Chicago in my heart."

Cermak Praises Bundesen.

Saying that he spoke as a citizen and not as a candidate benefited by Dr. Bundesen's announcement, Mr. Cermak issued a statement saying that the coroner's action was "as fine an example of unselfish and splendid citizenship as has been shown in this city in a long time.

"He subordinated his desire and ambition for the good and safety of the city," read a part of the Cermak statement. "My hope is that the community will not show itself ungrateful for his sacrifice.

"Dr. Bundesen felt that he could win, but even with that feeling he determined not to run the risk of dividing the vote that is against the continuation of the present city government and by his action he has assured the defeat of this blight on Chicago and my election."

Letter from Randolph.

One of the first commendations of Dr. Bundesen's procedure was made public in copies of a letter written to him by Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

"Permit me," ran that letter, "to express my appreciation of your wisdom and generosity in withdrawing from the mayoralty campaign.

"Your action has left the issue of the campaign clearly defined. It has enabled those who are opposed to the election of Thompson to register their opposition effectively by voting for the Democratic candidate.

"I think you have done a real service to your city and have increased your influence and the high regard in which you are held throughout the city."

Sprague Makes Statement.

Several statements were issued from the Cermak business men's committee headquarters in the Hotel La Salle.

"Every once in a while in time of peace as in time of war," said one from Col. A. A. Sprague, chairman of the committee, "an important decision must be made for the good of the people. Dr. Bundesen has made that decision for the good of the people. Chicago will benefit much from the decision."

"The most patriotic thing I have ever witnessed," was the way Melvin E. Traylor of the First National bank was quoted.

Another statement came from Prof. Charles E. Merriam of the University of Chicago, independent Republican.

"I don't think a man could perform a more serviceable deed for Chicago than that performed by Dr. Bundesen today," the statement said.

The final list of filings with the election board showed that besides the Republican and Democratic tickets there will be twelve party headings on the ballot unless there are withdrawals. The filings which supplement the nominations in the Republican and Democratic primaries are as follows:

SOCIALIST—Mayor, John M. Collins; city clerk, Clarence Senior; city treasurer, Hyman Schneid; municipal judge, Morris A. Gold.

COMMUNIST—Mayor, Otto H. Wangerin; city clerk, Lydia Bennett; city treasurer, A. E. Poanstoe.

INDEPENDENT EX-SERVICE MEN LABOR—City clerk, John L. Duffy; city treasurer, H. G. Rossell; municipal judge, R. J. Alvares.

NONPARTISAN—Municipal judge, John L. Nelsen.

PEOPLE'S NONPARTISAN—Mayor, Herman N. Bundesen [to be withdrawn]; city clerk, Paul A. Helwick; city treasurer, C. V. Muscarello; municipal judge, J. A. Jutchings.

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYMENT AND HOMES—Mayor, Ernest Stout; city clerk, J. B. Collins; city treasurer, L. B. Michaux; municipal judge, G. E. Sankstone.

ABATE CRIMES—Municipal judge, Joseph L. McCarthy.

ANTI-CHAIN STORE—Mayor, C. J. Micheal.

PEOPLE'S RIGHT PARTY—Mayor, John Maynard Harlan.

At the election board offices it was said that Harlan's name, like Bundesen's, had been filed without authorization by him.

Tucson, Ariz., March 3.—[Special.]—Ben Bernie, whose band is playing hymns at the College inn in Chicago this winter, was accosted on the dance floor the other night by a pluperfect stranger.

"Hello, Ben," said the latter. "Maybe you don't remember me."

"Your face is familiar," replied Ben, blushing painfully, "but I can't recall any of your names."

"Well," said the stranger, "I'm the fella that sells your records in Memphis." RING LARDNER.

HERO OF HILLMAN HOLDUP DIES OF BANDITS' WOUNDS

Eugene Toro, 21 years old, 146 North Parkside avenue, died at the Passavant hospital early today of wounds inflicted by the bullets of three robbers who made an unsuccessful attempt to steal $18,000 of the receipts of Hillman's Pure Food store, 30 West Washington street, on Jan. 24.

Toro was a guard in the store. He and Max Axelrod, another employé of the store, were wheeling a small chest from an elevator at the third floor level, preparatory to taking it into the office, when three masked men confronted them. Axelrod was attempting to draw a pistol when he was shot and killed. Toro, bending over to seize his friend's weapon, next drew the bandits' fire and was struck behind the left ear.

May Fall Today

A light snow began falling in Chicago late yesterday afternoon, and by midnight there was enough on roofs and vacant lots to give the city a wintry aspect, such as it had almost wholly escaped in January and February.

The official forecast, however, indicated that no heavy storm is due. Light snow may fall this morning, but temperatures today and tomorrow will be moderate, according to the prediction. Partly cloudy skies today and mostly cloudy tomorrow are expected, with rain probable by tomorrow night.

Light snows were general over the great lakes region yesterday and in parts of the Missouri valley. Elsewhere the weather was mostly fair.

WOMAN POLICE SPY JAILED FOR DEFYING JURORS

Alcock Again Testifies in Graft Inquiry.

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock and his former investigator, Mrs. Shirley Kub, were witnesses before the special grand jury yesterday. Alcock and the grand jurors who are investigating the police department parted amicably, whereas they had differences on the previous day, but Mrs. Kub spent an hour in jail and faces a contempt sentence on Friday.

Alcock and Mrs. Kub were the principal witnesses of the day in the hearing, which began two months ago after there had been charges of police collusion with gangsters and criminals. Solomon T. Kiddo, foreman of one of the grand juries which recommended an inquiry by a special jury, and Walter Walker of the Employers' association also were before the jury.

On Monday Alcock was instructed to return after the intervention of Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court had been sought to decide a dispute. Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller, in charge of the inquiry, said the questioning of the commissioner yesterday proceeded with harmony.

Woman Refuses to Testify.

Mrs. Kub refused to testify. She had been before the jury on Jan. 19, and it was said she displayed a wide knowledge of the operation of vice resorts on the west side during the days of Jack Zuta as vice boss. She left the city that night and it was not until Saturday night that she was found in Indianapolis and brought back. She had in her possession $17,000 in cash, according to Sergt. Michael Ahern, head of the police staff assigned to Prosecutor Mueller.

A writ of attachment was issued for her arrest by Judge McGoorty as a result of her failure to reappear in January. Her refusal to testify yesterday is a separate offense, Mueller asserted. When brought before Judge McGoorty on the writ, she and her attorneys, Harry A. Silverstein and Benjamin Copple, asked the court to give them an hour to furnish the required bail of $10,000.

"Madame, you have only to go before the grand jury in the furtherance of the interests of public justice and answer questions," Judge McGoorty told her.

Is Taken to Jail.

Mrs. Kub declined and was taken to the county jail. An hour later a surety bond was furnished for her by the Grand Central Surety company. On departing she told newspapermen: "I am no squawker."

The grand jury adjourned until tomorrow when it will meet at the offices of the city civil service commission to be spectators at the trial board hearing for 15 policemen.

Prosecutor Mueller's raiding squads seized liquor and beer and made arrests in five south side places yesterday. The addresses were 9446 South Wabash avenue, 10840 South Michigan avenue, 754 East 64th street, 505 East 63d street, and 110 East 110th street. Federal operatives coöperated in the raids.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, March 3.—[Special.]—A gift of $160,000 from the Chicago public utilities operator, Samuel Insull, to the London Temperance hospital in memory of his parents, who many years ago were interested in the hospital, was announced tonight in a meeting at Downing street in connection with the hospital's appeal for $200,000.

Mrs. Green Injects Some Color Into Court Routine

Mrs. Leon Green, 43 years old, 2421 Marcy avenue, Evanston, couldn't see a red traffic light because she was wearing black glasses necessitated by a violet ray lamp with which she was giving treatments to her baby, whom she hoped to make brown instead of a pale white. Magistrate Harry Porter, after listening to her chromatic story, held that it was a good one but that driving past a red light on a blue Monday in Evanston was still illegal and that her fine would be $1.

LEVINE FLITS INTO PARIS; HE SEEMS TO BE IN A HURRY

Is Sighted Racing Away from Two Hotels.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 3.—Charles Levine, trans-Atlantic flying junkman, whose antics have amused two continents for the last three years, landed unexpectedly from the steamship Bremen today and flew into as embarrassing a situation as ever confronted a sailor who realized too late that he had a girl in every port.

CHARLES LEVINE.
[Al P. Photo.]

The Bremen reached Cherbourg at 5 a. m., and shortly afterward Charlie "hopped off" for Paris in a long, low automobile shaped like an airplane. Traveling with him as navigator was a blond woman dressed in black—Mrs. Della Dorris Berne, widow of Dr. Luis F. Berne, noted facial surgeon, who died in New York on Jan. 11. Burning up the roads of Normandy, the couple arrived at Lisieux where, according to the proprietor of the leading hotel, they lunched until 2:30 o'clock and then continued toward Paris.

Sighted Here and There.

That was the last definite report of their progress, but the large airplane shaped auto was sighted by citizens in various parts of Paris this evening, giving indirect clues to the subsequent movements of the pair. At 5:30 o'clock, for instance, a long low car, which on account of the gathering Parisian dusk may or may not have been the airplane shaped car, nosed into the parking space in front of the Hotel Royal Monceau, which used to be one of Charlie's favorite hangouts.

Just at this moment Mrs. Charles Levine, who has come to Paris to get a divorce, and former Magistrate Henry M. R. Goodman of New York, who came over to help her and also, according to report, which he denies, to get one himself so he may marry Mrs. Levine, appeared at the door of the hotel.

"I think the car was shaped like a plane and there seemed to be a man and a woman in it, but it got away so fast I could not tell," Goodman said later.

He Flits Away Again.

Fifteen minutes later an underslung ground plane pulled up at the entrance of the Hotel Mercedes and a Jewish gentleman walked in and announced that he was Levine.

"So I stepped up to him," said the concierge, "and said: 'O, Miss Boll just left the hotel yesterday and she left a letter for you in case you arrived before she returned. Then Mon Dieu, M. Levine was outside of the door just like that and his car whizzed around the corner.'"

Piecing this and other information together, it appears that Levine ignored his wife at the Royal Monceau and Mabel at the Mercedes. The queen of diamonds is said to have pulled out owing to a shortage of cash and took a modest room in another quarter of the city, keeping the Mercedes hotel as a mailing address.

Mrs. Levine, when informed that the man who had made the getaway was her husband, gasped and said: "That is news to me," and fled.

Goodman said:

"I knew Charlie was coming over, but I did not expect him so soon. I am very anxious to see him and to talk things over as we are still good friends, anyway. I want to deny emphatically that I have any intention of getting a divorce and marrying Mrs. Levine or that I put on a false beard to escape from the reporters."

Goodman said Levine is also an old friend of Mrs. Berne and was not sure but what Charlie met her while Mabel Boll was getting her face lifted by the late Dr. Berne.

Levine's latest traveling companion figured on the front pages several years ago when she eloped from Florida with Paul Rosenthal, who was a friend of her husband, but the doctor forgave her.

STATE ATTACKS BRIDGE MURDER CASE TESTIMONY

Kansas City, Mo., March 3.—(AP)—Presentation of defense evidence at the trial of Mrs. Myrtle Bennett, accused of the bridge game slaying of her husband, was halted today to permit the prosecution's attempt to impeach defense witnesses.

The witnesses were Mrs. Alice Adkins, 67-year-old mother of the defendant, and Mrs. Mayme Hofman, participant in the Bennett's last bridge game.

James R. Page, prosecutor, who contended Mrs. Adkins and Mrs. Hofman had repudiated by their testimony statements made to officers following the slaying of John G. Bennett in his fashionable apartment, called his former stenographer, Mrs. Sam Wiener, to the stand.

The witness identified the signatures of Mrs. Hofman and Mrs. Adkins affixed to statements she said were taken from them by George Charno, former assistant prosecutor. Mrs. Wiener said Mrs. Hofman had inserted penned corrections in the statement before signing it. Recalled for cross-examination, Mrs. Hofman denied altering the statement.

Bandits Bind Employes of Cafeteria; Get $600

Two masked bandits early this morning invaded the Harmony cafeteria, 81 West Van Buren street, tied up William Denton, a Negro porter, and Joseph Machak, 2228 South Sawyer avenue, a baker, the only employes in the place, and robbed a safe of $600 in cash. The robbers used a fire ax to break the combination off the safe. It was three hours before Machak and Denton could free themselves and give an alarm.

AN ALL-DAY PARLEY

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW DELHI, March 3.—With only brief breaks for food and prayer Mahatma Gandhi sat in the viceregal lodge all day long and far into the night, conferring with Viceroy Lord Irwin and members of the government. And although both sides continued to decline to divulge the slightest inkling of the trend of the conversations, it is learned that they have reached terms for a truce on all but one of the Nationalist demands. This involves the mahatma's insistence on the return of confiscated property, which was seized by the government from those convicted of civil disobedience, and the remittance of fines.

Wins Salt Tax Demand.

All other points of contention are reported to have been cleared today as a result of conversations which began at 11 o'clock, when the "holy man" saw Sir George Schuster, finance minister of the viceroy's council. After a two hour conference they achieved agreement on Gandhi's most important demand, the question of the salt tax. The failure to reach an agreement on this question last year started the civil disobedience movement.

Although the government will not abolish the tax, which Gandhi calls "sinful and satanic," the government agrees to allow poor people living near the sea to manufacture and sell their own salt instead of buying it from the government monopoly.

Gandhi regards this as a cardinal point, stating that the salt tax is symbolic of the entire system of taxation by the foreign government which has kept India's millions in a state of semi-starvation.

Will Withdraw Punitive Police.

Other points conceded by the government are the withdrawal of the punitive police and recognition of the right of peaceful picketing.

On the other hand Mr. Gandhi has definitely agreed to drop his demand for an investigation of police excesses, and has also undertaken to curb the offensive features of picketing.

The mahatma tonight announced that he hoped to finish the negotiations definitely tomorrow. If a truce is declared, Gandhi will call off the revolution immediately, and the government will undertake to release 50,000 political prisoners before March 12, the anniversary of the start of Gandhi's march ot the sea.

It developc that plans are already being evolved for a second round table conference for the middle of this summer. Certain national congress leaders sprung a surprise today by indicating that they would prefer London as the location for the conference instead of India, because of the advantage of bargaining directly with responsible leaders of the British government.

"Besides, we think Gandhi would take British public opinion by storm," a congress leader explained, "thus helping the new constitution in its passage by parliament."

Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller, a grandson of John D. Rockefeller, who is honeymooning here, attended Gandhi's prayers at Dr. Ansari's home tonight. The mahatma invited young Rockefeller to walk with him at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning.

AUTO CARRYING DYING LINEMAN STRUCK; 3 HURT

Three men were injured yesterday when the automobile in which they were bearing a fourth man to a hospital was struck by another car and overturned at Sheridan road and Addison street. The other motorist fled.

When his safety belt broke Harry Ivens, 36 years old, 2753 Warren boulevard, a lineman, fell to the ground from the top of a telephone pole at Broadway and Irving Park boulevard. His back was broken. Charles R. Fales, 4017 Clarendon avenue, who was driving by in his car, offered to take the injured man to a hospital.

Together with Charles Maves of Hinsdale and Joseph Koelin, 4753 Virginia avenue, co-workers of Ivens, they started for the John B. Murphy hospital. Driving south in Sheridan road, their car was struck by another turning into Addison street. Fales, Koelin, and Maves were injured, the last two seriously. Ivens died of his injuries early this morning.

Harry Zahiman, 78 years old, 1116 North 15th avenue, Melrose Park, died at the Westlake hospital early this morning from injuries received on Dec. 26 when he was struck in front of 208 North 15th avenue in the suburb by a hit and run motorist. This death raised the total of motor fatalities in Cook county since Jan. 1 to 218.

DROP U. S. COURT CASES IN DRY RAID SHOOTING

Federal and state proceedings growing out of the shooting in 1928 of William Beatty, a Municipal court bailiff, during a raid by George [Hard Boiled] Golding's dry agents, were dropped yesterday in the court of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

The case against Beatty, who was charged with obstructing justice, was dismissed on motion of Assistant United States Attorney Jacob Grossman. A state charge of assault, brought against Myron Caffey, a dry agent, which was to have been prosecuted in the federal court, was dismissed on motion of Assistant State's Attorney Henry Seyfarth.

EXPERT DENIES EYE COLOR CAN TEST PARENTAGE

Scientist Is Witness in Longley Will Suit.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

What an Austrian monk discovered 70 years or so ago about the laws of inheritance while conducting experiments with the common garden pea cannot be relied upon to prove that blue eyed parents cannot have brown eyed children.

That, in substance, was the testimony on Mendel's law given yesterday in the suit of George Adair Greene Longley to break the will of Albert W. Longley, millionaire hat manufacturer. George Longley claims that he is the son of the testator by his first wife. His contention is opposed by Mrs. Mary Carolyn Longley, third wife of the manufacturer, now the beneficiary of the income from the estate, and eight Chicago charities which would eventually receive the bulk of the property under the terms of the will.

Two Witnesses Are Heard.

A great deal of gravity, a few bursts of laughter, and a general air of mystification marked the examination of two witnesses as to the application of the Mendelian law. The law was cited by Mrs. Longley as proving that George Longley could not be a son of Albert Longley and his first wife, since both had blue eyes, while those of the claimant are brown.

Prof. Horatio Hackett Newman of the zoology department at the University of Chicago, was summoned by the attorneys for George Longley as an expert.

Questioned by E. Warren Everett for the claimant, the witness qualified himself as an authority and added that he recently conducted a study of the color of the eyes of 100 pairs of twins, but denied that it concerned the matter of parentage in any way.

Holds Application Uncertain.

From there on for two hours the spectators were treated to fragments of information about inheritance, genetics, dominant and recessive characteristics, and scientific experiments in the study of successive generations of selected stock. At the conclusion of the professor's testimony the audience was far from understanding all it knew about these topics. The fact remained that the witness held with Mendel that two parents whose eyes are genetically blue could not have offspring whose eyes are genetically brown.

"But," he added, "with the human family the impossibility of controlling the stock makes the application of this law inevitably uncertain."

By the term "genetically blue," Prof. Newman explained he meant a pair of eyes which showed no trace of brown pigment under the microscope. There is a vast difference, he pointed out, in the designation of blue eyes by a layman and the same designation by a scientist. The majority of eyes called blue by the average individual show percentages of brown pigment when properly examined under optical instruments, he testified, while the opposite is also true about brown eyes.

"Let me ask you," put in Judge Michael Feinberg, "if two persons are known to have genetically blue eyes, would it be possible for them to have a child whose eyes were genetically brown?"

"It would not," answred the witness, "from the best information available. Mendel says that where a characteristic is pure in both parents it is not possible for them to pass on a different characteristic."

Cites His Sister's Family.

Attorney Everett called the attention of the court to the fact that the assertion that both Alber Longley and his first wife had blue eyes had been made by lay persons with no knowledge of the scientific aspects of the case. Then he inquired of Prof. Newman whether he knew of any case in which both parents had what is commonly known as blue eyes, and whose children possessed brown eyes.

"Yes, I do," was the reply. "My own sister and her husband both have blue eyes. Three of their five children have blue eyes and two have brown eyes."

"Move to strike out the grunt after the reply," objected Everett.

"I don't believe the record will show the grunt," Judge Feinberg retorted, mildly. There was a general laugh.

Dr. James P. Fitzgerald, an ophthalmologist of Highland Park, precipitated another burst of mirth when placed on the stand and questioned as to whether he was familiar with the Mendelian law.

"I have a working knowledge of it," he answered.

"Object, your honor—that doesn't qualify him to answer questions," put in Condon. "He only says he has a working knowledge of it."

"If it works, it's all right," ruled the jurist.

LET CONTRACT FOR 6,905 NEW STREET LIGHTS

A contract for 6,905 residential street lights to cost $1,063,000, complete except posts, has been let to the Electrical Contracting company, Michael J. Kennedy, commissioner of gas and electricity, announced yesterday, and work will be started in April on the installation. The contract requires that the lights be burning by Sept. 1.

Crews of city electricians are at work on a $450,000 project of replacing 3,000 lights on business streets in all sections of the city and on a $100,000 job of installing new lights in the area bounded by 33d and 47th streets, Cottage Grove and the lake. These two jobs will occupy the men during the spring and summer of this year.

As the residential lights are placed six to the block, the 6,905 new lights will equip 1,151 blocks, or 144 miles. The business lights being replaced are spaced fifty to the mile, or enough for sixty miles. The residential lights are being placed in the 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, 12th, 15th, 18th, 19th, 20th, 25th, 29th, 40th, 41st, and 50th wards. The first lights to be replaced on business streets were on Belmont avenue in the 46th ward.

U. S. Official Blames It on Prohibition.

judges were increasingly concerned over the increasing number of small liquor cases which the federal courts daily handling. Nichols added that "these are cases all of which should be handled by the Criminal court of Cook county."

Introducing the policeman's letter, Mr. Nichols says that, although it was unsigned, it was placed in the report because it corroborates much of the evidence given elsewhere.

"The letter," says the investigator, "while anonymous, finds a place in this report, as many of the statements contained therein are indirect corroboration of the evidence, independently found, by your investigator. The communication was written April 25, 1930, the day following the publication of 'Chicago's 28 public enemies,' and was addressed to a well known civic leader of the city. The original was written in ink."

The writer, the report adds, calls the announcement of the state's attorney and the chief of police about driving out the gangsters so much "bunk."

"Why, right now," it adds, "these same gangs mentioned are delivering more beer, alcohol, and whisky and making more money than any time since the prohibition law has been in effect. The Capone gang, led by Frank Nitti, Danny Stanton, Guzik, Hein, and Mops Volpe and plenty of other gunmen are delivering at least 500 barrels of beer a week on the south side, particularly in the 1st, 2d, 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th, and 11 wards. Danny Stanton and other Capone gunmen are busy lining up the district south of 55th street, even going over west in places they have never tried to sell before. It is Stanton's boast that he will have the whole south side lined up before he is through.

Chase Rival Beer Runners.

"I am at present traveling beat in the Deering street police district, and I happen to know that since the first of the year Capone's gang, led by Danny Stanton, chased every other beer runner out of the district with the aid of all the big squads and Capt. ——, my superior officer, who was on trial last fall in the slot machine racket at Stanton avenue.

"If a saloonkeeper don't take Capone beer, whisky, and alcohol, he don't go, and if a copper bothers any of their trucks he goes out to Mount Greenwood or some other far off post. You can see their truck delivering beer any Tuesday and Saturday mornings while squads and all other police keep their eyes closed.

"Alone among the south side police districts, the stock yards district under Capt. Allman is run on the square. Capt. Allman, he is too honest for them to handle, so there is no beer delivered by them in the district."

Pay Roll for "Crooked Police."

"The pay roll for crooked coppers and politicians," says the letter, "amounts to as high as $10,000 a week." "It seems funny," the letter goes on, "that every copper in town knows the above mentioned facts, yet the chief of police and Stege don't know a thing about it.

"I happen to know the gangs are tipped off about everything that goes on in the police department that might interest them, especially raids. One of their best connections along this line is Lieut. ——, who is supposed to be an ace at the detective bureau. He is on their pay roll and has been for six years that I know of."

The headquarters of the Capone mob, says the writer, is located at 4640 Cottage Grove avenue, in the Vogue café. Monday, says the letter, is collection day for beer, and "Jack Becker and Bert Delaney are collectors."

"The first of the month," says the letter, "is pay day for the big squads, so don't be surprised if you see a few stop at the Vogue on that day.

The license for the place is in the name of Mussolloini, who is Frisco's chauffeur. Most of Capone's gang have moved into the Hotel Metropole to sleep. It is too hot around the Lexington."

Tells of Police Control.

The letter here gives the names and addresses of many saloons on the south side which handle liquor openly. It adds this list of police districts and their "dictators."

"Englewood and Gresham—Spike O'Donnell and McErlane brothers.

"New City—Saltis gang led by Patrick Sullivan, ex-policeman. Saltis gets his even while out of town, and police officials know this. One of the best beer districts.

"Lawndale — George Vogel and Butch Cook. Best district in Chicago. Wide open.

"Fillmore.

"Austin.

"Shakespeare, 'Klondike' O'Donnell and his brothers, Myles and Bernard, Red Barker and Jack White.

"Marquette, Porky Dillon and Tom Quilty.

"Cicero, Ralph Capone and gang. 500 barrels a week, every saloon handles or can't open. Biggest stills in United States here.

"Northwest side, Al Winge, ex-police lieutenant, with Matt Kalb and gang.

Calls Every Squad on Payroll.

"Chief Russell and Stege claim most of the gangsters are out of town, yet their trucks are delivering beer and alcohol every day in the week while his squads keep their eyes closed. Why? Because every squad is on the payroll along with higher police officials and certain politicians and if an honest policeman steps on any, they are out of the district. He goes. I have had this experience on more than one occasion.

"Racketeering and bootlegging are so interwoven in organized crime today that one is inseparable from the other," says the report in its section on racketeering. "Racketeering in the metropolitan area Chicago today is affecting the citizens in a new way —through the pocketbook. During the last six years a system of criminal exploitation, founded on extortion and dominated by the gangsters, has thrived with the aid of the illicit alcohol industry until its proportions are almost unbelievable. This system of criminal exploitation exacts a huge tribute. It costs the ordinary citizens money, and few indeed realize how or where the system works."

Clear City of Graft.

The "menacing and very serious problem confronting Chicago is," the report adds, "that of clearing the city of graft, political intrigue, bootlegging and, last but not least, by any means, racketeering."

"The city has not been able to cope with the above mentioned menaces—and they are now larger. If the truth were known, than the city itself, having apparently steadily increased since the enactment of the prohibition law. Instead of prohibiting, in the Chicago district this law has served to create untold opportunities for personal profit among the lawless element. These opportunities have been taken advantage of to the fullest extent by bootleggers, political grafters, and racketeers."

The report goes on with an account of Chicago's political complexities and lists the leaders of the various parties and factions.

"The great difficulty in Chicago politics," the report states, "has been a lack of unselfish leadership in both parties. All groups have been more concerned with the jobs to be had than the help their factional ascendancy might render the people. There are trades going on between the factions all the time and none of the leaders, either Democrats or Republicans, have hesitated to trade not only within the party lines, but frequently have gone outside for the purpose of making so-called nonpartisan deals.

Prohibition Chief Issue.

"The prohibition question is neither Democratic nor Republican in Cook county. It has almost entirely ceased to be an issue between the parties and is rapidly becoming more and more of an issue by itself.

"The state's attorney, John A. Swanson, formerly was a judge of the Superior court. He beat Crowe at the Republican primaries by more than 220,000 votes. This was just one of those things that Bismarck called the imponderables. He was a forlorn hope when he started to run, not with any expectation of being elected but because he was ordered in to take the job in order that the Deneen group ticket might be filled.

"Both Judge Trude and Judge Jones had been offered the nomination on the Deneen ticket, but refused because they considered it an impossible situation. An accident (the bombing of the homes of Senator Deneen and Judge Swanson in 1929) created a situation which was seized and used for publicity purposes by the Deneen people. The public was stirred and Swanson was carried in because of the panic. Swanson's efforts to clean up have been handicapped to a large extent by apathy and open lack of support.

"The commissioner of police is merely the creature of the mayor, and may be removed at any time. At the time of your investigator's visit, May, 1930, William F. Russell, was commissioner. He is an old police officer, having been on the force about thirty-five years. He was by no means a free agent, nor was he the choice of the mayor. He was catapulted into the job at the insistence of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Commissioner Russell frankly admitted this at an interview with the writer May 5."

Accepts Gangland Challenge.

When on June 9, 1930, Alfred [Jake] Lingle, Chicago crime reporter, was murdered, says the report, Chicago was "aroused and accepted the challenge of gangland."

"His murder," the report adds, "made a breach in the wall which criminality has so long maintained about its operations in the city."

The report carries photographs of speakeasies and houses of prostitution, including the Rex at 22nd and State streets, and 2900 South Wells street, scene of the Easter morning massacre.

Another picture was of a building at 2901 Wentworth avenue. This structure was described as the "secret den" of a group of Sicilians.

"This place," the investigator explains, "is a headquarters for communists and anarchists engaged in making alcohol. Several trap doors lead from the front room of the place to the basement. From the basement several exits led through tunnels and camouflaged points of egress, investigators found. The basement was like a labyrinth, with a series of doors manipulated by secret springs, passageways, and secret panels, some of which led to get-aways through the building next door.

"The hall itself, investigators report, had a dais behind a railing—the throne department from which orders were given.

"This gang had sold millions of gallons of alcohol over a period of four years. The real menace of a gang like this lies in the power back of the millions of dollars of money it acquires and which enables it to effectively carry on anarchistic doctrines and strike at our government."

The report closes with this brief commendation:

"Conclusion—Education and persuasion, it will be found, is the only real and lasting way to effect temperance in Illinois."

Inefficient Enforcement.

Mr. Nichols found "inefficient enforcement" throughout all downstate Illinois, asserting that the fault lies in the police system, courts, prosecutors, and even in the law. Mr. Nichols said fifty-two of the sheriffs of the most populous counties are either inefficient or lax in enforcement.

"At Springfield the mayor makes little if any effort to enforce the prohibition law," the report states. "The state's attorney is lax in the prosecution of liquor cases. Prostitution is tolerated by the authorities.

"Your investigator found evidence that liquor violators at East St. Louis were organized along the line of the modern corporation, using this territory as a base, with connections in Springfield, Rockford, Chicago, and other cities."

Danville, Bloomington, Quincy and Joliet are cited as equally bad.

"Rockford is indeed a cog in the liquor wheel," Nichols asserted. "It is said at least two bootleggers carry deputy sheriff's stars. Larger bootleggers frequently are ushered into the sheriff's private office and apparently receive a good deal of attention.

"The state's attorney and sheriff of Peoria county make no attempt to enforce the liquor laws," charges Mr. Nichols. "Enforcement of the liquor law is a political impossibility with them."

Other reports given the senate today told of conditions found by the Wickersham investigators in New York, New Jersey, Louisiana, and Colorado. They said practically the same conditions prevail as in Illinois.

STATE BEER, WINE SALE IS PROPOSED IN RHODE ISLAND

Providence, R. I., March 3.—(AP)—Establishment of a dispensary system under which the state of Rhode Island would manufacture and sell 15 per cent wine and 6 per cent beer is proposed in a bill introduced in the house today by Representative Frederick R. Hazard, Narragansett, a member of the Republican majority.

Payment of a $2 annual fee, under the bill, would entitle a resident to a permit on which he could be issued one quart of wine and six pints of malt liquors per day. The liquor would be sold at 100 stores.

State Wine Sale Loses.

Hartford, Conn., March 3.—(AP)—The house today defeated a bill which would permit the sale in the state of wines and beer when not drunk on the premises. The vote was 186 to 59. The senate defeated the measure last week. Rejection of all bills calling for modification or repeal of the state dry law enforcement acts followed.

Referendum Is Defeated.

Columbus, O., March 3.—(AP)—The Nippert resolution, to provide a vote of the people next November on a proposal to repeal constitutional prohibition in Ohio, went down to defeat in the house of representatives today by a vote of 47 to 76.

ROBBERS IN RAID ON PARTY SEIZE $33,950 IN LOOT

Hollywood, Fla., March 3.—(AP)—Four dinner party bandits who invaded an exclusive apartment with a submachine gun and pistols tonight robbed a group of winter visitors of $1,500 and jewelry valued at $33,450.

The robbers, wearing masks, entered the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Rohde, Grosse Pointe, Mich., during a farewell party, lined them and their seven guests against a wall, and stripped men and women of jewelry and money. One invader stood guard with the submachine gun and two with pistols as a fourth searched the victims.

Mrs. E. O. Smith, Detroit, reported a loss of $30,000 worth of jewels, two diamond rings, valued at $10,000, a $15,000 diamond bracelet, and a diamond studded brooch worth $5,000.

The other victims and their losses were Rohde, a diamond ring valued at $600 and $150 cash; Frank Black, Miami Beach, $1,000 in cash; John Jennings, dancer at the Hollywood Country club, $240 in cash; Miss Virginia Dimond, Detroit, a wrist watch valued at $1,800 and a necklace valued at $50, and William Marsh Kimball, Hollywood, $110 in cash.

Fine Lake Forest College Janitor for Sale of Rum

Matthew Turpil, 49 years old, 1295 McKinley avenue, Lake Forest, was fined $200 yesterday by Magistrate Sorenson on a charge of violating the state prohibition law. The arrest of Turpil, a janitor at Lake Forest college and the father of eleven children, was made on Monday, after complaints had been made that college students were obtaining intoxicants near the campus. Turpil made no defense except to assert he had never taken any liquor to the campus.

THREATENED BY LABOR LEADERS, HE TELLS COURT

A charge that two officials of a labor union had threatened him with violence and had ruined his business by calling a strike of workmen in his employ was made yesterday by Robert Madden, 334 East 65th street, a heating contractor. Madden testified yesterday in Superior Judge Kavanagh's court in the trial of his suit for $50,000 damages against the union officials.

The defendants are Charles M. Rau, manager, and Martin J. Durkin, business agent of the Steamfitters' Protective association. Madden said the trouble arose when he refused to settle a $6,000 claim against another contractor for $900, as requested by Rau and Durkin.

Later, Madden testified, Rau and Durkin ordered all of his steamfitters to quit work and as a result he has been unable to complete 24 contracts and his annual income of $15,000 has been stopped.

REVEAL 75 LIVES IMPERILED BY "MURDER BOMB"

Gaming House Crowded, Police Discover.

The revelation that nearly seventy-five persons escaped death on Monday night when a dynamite bomb, the most powerful ever seen in the Chicago area, failed to explode beneath a Blue Island gambling house came as a climax last night to the inquiry into the murder of William Maier, 52 years old, caretaker, who was shot by the bombers.

Instead of a boarded-up, deserted structure, as asserted by police, the gaming house at 119th street and Vincennes avenue was thronged with men playing games of chance when the bomb was placed, it was learned. In a political meeting only two doors away, thirty-five men and women were gathered. The lives of all these persons, in addition to passersby and residents in flats at the corner, would have been imperiled by the terrific power of the explosive.

Gangs Defied by Hackett.

Investigators seeking a motive found themselves confronted by a multiplicity of theories, but the one most generally accepted was that the bombing plot was aimed at James Hackett, wealthy gambling chief of Blue Island, the owner of the resort.

Hackett has been known to have defied efforts of criminal syndicates to muscle into his territory. The Joe Saltis gang some time ago and before that Ole Edward [Spike] O'Donnell gang were told by him to stay out of the profitable Blue Island gambling business, it was reported.

Another puzzling element was the part played by Hilario Rodriguez, 35 years old, a Mexican, who at first was hailed as the hero who snuffed out the bomb when, he said, the bombers hurled him and the explosive down a coal chute into the basement of the gambling house. Questioning of witnesses yesterday disproved this version, and Rodriguez contradicted his own story several times.

Story of a Bus Driver.

One witness, William Johnson of Harvey, a bus driver, said that Rodriguez, who had been lurking about the corner, joined the three bombers when they drove up, and that all four went to the side of the gambling house. Johnson then heard a shot which was followed by four others. Peering toward the scene, Johnson said, he saw a man lying on the sidewalk [later identified as Maier] and Rodriguez running way. The other three men jumped into their sedan and drove off.

Similar testimony was given by two other witnesses, residents in a flat nearby, who said they saw the shooting and heard Maier cry, "For God's sake, don't kill me!"

Hackett and his partner, Jimmy Blouin, former bowling champion, had been ordered to appear at the inquest yesterday afternoon but neither did so. At Hackett's $75,000 residence in Blue Island, a man who said he was a constable on guard, declared that Hackett's whereabouts were unknown.

Hackett and Blouin were on the scene of the crime a few moments after the shooting and Hackett exclaimed to bystanders that the murder was an "outrage for which some one will pay." He will be subpenaed to appear at the next session of the inquest on March 13.

BROTHERS TRIAL WILL OPEN WHEN WHITE CASE ENDS

Judge Joseph Sabath in the Criminal court yesterday announced that the trial of Leo V. Brothers, accused of the murder of Alfred Lingle, will proceed immediately after the close of the case of William [Three-Fingered] Jack White, which is now on trial. The White case may last a week, the judg indicated.

Attorney Tyrrell Krum for the defense announced Brothers was ready for trial, and this evoked a reply from Assistant State's Attorney C. Wayland Brooks. He said:

"The state resents the insinuations constantly repeated in this case that the defense has been pressing for an immediate trial. This case would have been disposed of a month ago if the defense had not insisted on delay. The state has always announced its readiness to proceed, and it has been ready for trial since the day the indictment against Brothers was returned."

FIRE DAMAGES FLAT BUILDING.

Damage estimated at $2,000 was caused yesterday by a fire in a two flat building at 4411 Iowa street. An overheated furnace was the apparent cause of the blaze.

Marathon Dancers Accuse Promoter

$3,500 Involved

Four tired marathon dancers appeared in the Felony court yesterday to charge that C. A. Pressey, 6244 South Park way, a promoter, had embezzled $3,500 from a "super marathon dance." The case was continued until tomorrow for investigation when Pressey denied the charges.

According to charges made by Theresa Zita, 23 years old, and her partner, Jack Ritof, 708 South Crawford avenue, and Marcella Meadows, 22, and her partner, Bob DeMarchis, 644 Roscoe street, Pressey promoted a marathon in which only winners of previous dances were eligible. They said they had an agreement with him that a benefit ball was to be staged after the marathon, and that the proceeds of this were to be shared with the dancers.

Pressey later issued a statement that at most the dancers could claim only $339. He said they were to share in only 50 per cent of the receipts from the tickets they actually sold and not of the entire amount.

SEEK TO DEPORT NITTI AS SOON AS HE QUITS PRISON

Papers for Deportation of Volpe Received.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Robert Reed and Felix Turpni, robbery, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Philip Finnegan.

Deportation of Frank Nitti, public enemy and an important figure in the Capone gang, who is serving an 18 months term in Leavenworth penitentiary for income tax evasion, will be sought as soon as he is released, O. W. Munster, immigration director at Kansas City, announced yesterday.

The first step in the proceedings will be an attempt to cancel Nitti's citizenship papers, Mr. Munster said. If it can be shown then that he has left this country and returned within the last five years his prison sentence would render him deportable. After five years in the country two convictions are required, but reentry sets aside the statute of limitations.

Gets Papers to Oust Volpe.

Shirley D. Smith, immigration director for the Chicago district, yesterday received the deportation warrant for Tony [Mops] Volpe, another Capone brigadier, and unless habeas corpus action is successful, he will go out with the next train of alien undesirables.

Dennis Cooney, also a Capone henchman, who is reputed to own the notorious Rex hotel, raided a few weeks ago by state's attorney's men, appeared before Judge Padden of the Felony court yesterday and demanded a jury trial on his vagrancy charge. The request was granted.

Beer Gangster Arrested.

Michael [Bubs] Quinlan, who figured in the stockyards beer war between the Edward [Spike] O'Donnell and Frank McErlane forces a year ago, was arrested yesterday and served with a vagrancy warrant by Sergt. Al Jenner of the detective bureau. Quinlan was seized in a roadhouse on 95th street by Lieut. Ed Webber of the highway police.

Scarface Al Capone, who had a respite from court appearances yesterday, is due in Judge Padden's court today on a vagrancy charge. The vagrancy charge against Frankie Lake, former partner of Terry Druggan in the beer business, was continued until June 2 by Judge Justin F. McCarthy.

Flames Destroy Interior of Old Disston Building

Fire last night destroyed the interior of the old Disston building, a six story structure at 570 West Washington boulevard. The flames were discovered shortly after 11 o'clock on the third floor, and a 3-11 alarm was sounded. No one was in the building at the time, so far as could be learned. All the floors except the first, which is occupied by the Sero-Chrome Plating works, had been vacant for some time. One fireman, Frank Coyle, 7930 Princeton avenue, of engine company No. 6, was injured slightly by falling.

POLICE ROUT 200 RED RIOTERS IN N. Y. LEGISLATURE

Albany, N. Y., March 3.—(AP)—A riot staged by two hundred men and a handful of women, who said they were the "unemployed" but whose banners were painted on placards of the Communist party, shook the assembly chamber of the New York state capitol today.

State troopers with hard locust sticks settled the riot after 20 minutes. Three rioters reported seriously injured, 20 others less severely hurt and a few mauled troopers were the net result of the demonstration to procure an audience for the "army of the unemployed" which last week began a march by motor truck on the capital.

A constabulary guard, forewarned of the march, patrolled the capitol an hour before the demonstrators arrived. The army marched into the capitol between a file of troopers. Two spokesmen visited Speaker Joseph A. McGinnies to ask permission to voice their demands for relief to the assembly. This was denied.

Above the drone of the journal clerk's voice a shouted demand for recognition came from one of the group. He spoke for a moment, voicing a plea for the "children that are hungry." Then the troopers converged upon him.

Communists leaped to their feet and their massed voices roared through the chamber. The troopers, heeding orders to withhold their sticks unless confronted with physical violence, sought to collar the ringleaders. But blows were struck and the service sticks swung.

BURGLARS TAKE $300 WHISKY.

KIRKLAND JUDGE ISSUES ORDERS TO EXHUME GIRL

no chance to testify. Before qualifying him as a witness, Attorneys O'Hara, Ronald Oldham, Oscar B. Thiel and John Crumpacker of Kirkland's counsel, joined the prosecuting lawyers before the bench, anticipating stiff opposition to their motion for opening the grave.

"The state has no objection," Mr. Underwood smiled. "If the court pleases you may go right ahead. We have nothing to conceal. All we know is that a murder has been committed here and no exhumation will alter that fact."

Orders Coroner in Charge.

"In that case, gentlemen, I will enter an order on the defense motion," said Judge Crumpacker in his soft voice. "Let the record show that the coroner of White county, Indiana, is directed by this court to officiate at the exhumation."

A question arose as to where the Draves burial lot stood. Some one pointed out that the village has two cemeteries. To settle the doubts, Prosecutor Underwood beckoned Carolyn Draves from her front row seat in the spectators' section.

The girl, whose naturally pert face was darkened by lines of grief, came forward slowly, elbowed through the attorneys and reporters encircling the bench and stood timidly at Mr. Underwood's side. His mind engrossed with the proceedings in hand, the prosecutor absently asked where her sister's grave stood.

"It's in the Lutheran cemetery," she replied in a weak voice, then drew back a little out of hearing of the lawyers.

The prosecutor had redirected his attention to the bench when the girl began to slump. The buzzing conversation at the bar continued undisturbed as Carolyn dropped, being saved from striking the floor by a reporter, who caught her in his arms.

Special Deputy Prosecutor Edmund Freund, a former Chicago newsboy, was the only lawyer at the bar to perceive the girl's distress. With the aid of the reporter he lifted her into a chair and hurried out to the corridor for a glass of water.

Spectators Miss Collapse.

Most of the spectators, avid as they have been for emotional display, missed the incident, their attention being focused on the photographers working at one side. One who saw it, having followed Carolyn's steps with her eyes, was the second youngest sister, Elsie Draves. Ready with a handkerchief drenched with smelling salts, she hurried forward and revived the older girl.

All this occurred outside the presence of the jury. When the discussion ended and Judge Crumpacker had written the order into the record the forgotten witness, Dr. Seipel, unlimbered his knees and stepped down off the stand.

The Draves brothers were talking quietly to their father. The father's head was bowed, his faded blue eyes fixed on an open law book on the table before him. It seemed, from his confused nodding, that he did not understand.

Father Told of Order.

A reporter interposed with a question. Had the family been informed of the intended exhumation before the defense asked it and the prosecution assented?

"We're trying to tell him about it now," said Elmer Draves.

"Please leave us alone a minute. Please go away."

The courtroom was a long time being cleared. For nearly an hour after the judge and prosecutors left, Kirkland sat conferring with his counsel while the photographers popped their flashlights at will, with an idle crowd gathered in the background.

As the elder Draves was leaving with his sons and daughters one of the doctors in the case expressed regret that the judge had not hastened the exhumation.

"We ought to be down there digging her up by torchlight tonight," he said.

Another Sister Swoons.

Arlene's family was going down the walk across the broad courthouse yard with the sisters in the lead when the eldest, Mrs. Lillian Clemens, began to swoon. Sickened by medical testimony at earlier sessions of the trial, she had remained away from court yesterday, but returned this morning.

Mrs. Clemens toppled on the grass. A crowd gathered as her husband, Murrel Clemens, and her brothers picked her up. They carried her to the car. The crowd gaped as they laid her, limp, in the back seat, with her sisters giving her smelling salts as they drove away.

Keep Autopsy Private.

Only attorneys and medical experts will be admitted to the autopsy tomorrow, according to a report here tonight. The state will be represented by Dr. George F. Bicknell of East Chicago, Dr. E. F. Jones of Hammond, Prosecutor Underwood, and Deputy Prosecutor Freund.

Late this evening Dr. Orlando Scott, defense medical expert, secured the services of his colleague in many criminal cases, Dr. Joseph A. Springer of Chicago. Attorneys O'Hara, Thiel, and Crumpacker are also expected to be present.

Today's session opened with the defense arguing for a directed verdict of acquittal on the ground that the state had failed to prove any evidence of murder against Kirkland. Much of the discussion revolved around the corpus delicti with Judge Crumpacker occasionally interjecting remarks that brought the attorneys closer to the issues in the case and demonstrated the judge's subtle powers of reasoning and his profound knowledge of the law.

Mr. Thiel and Mr. Underwood got into a dispute over the prosecutor's opening statement, the defense lawyer contending the statement had not been borne out by the evidence.

MR. THIEL—I believe that if this case were a minor felony instead of a murder case this court might—I know that in cases I've defended the court would, direct a verdict of acquittal in view of the lack of evidence.

THE COURT—The question here is simply this: whether there is sufficient evidence on which a jury might reasonably predicate a murder verdict. Of course, your hypothetical questions assumed the girl had not been ravished, but those were hypothetical questions.

MR. THIEL—When you get down to the corpus delicti you have nothing but the body of a girl who struck her head on a porch.

THE COURT—The rule is that the fact of rape may be established by circumstantial evidence.

MR. THIEL—I admit you can prove it by circumstantial evidence, but the circumstances must be such as to resolve any hypothesis of innocence in favor of the defendant.

THE COURT—I know that is the law, but this law has been in dispute at times, I believe.

During this interchange Kirkland lolled back in his chair, hands folded behind his head and occasionally yawning. His mother, in the front row of the spectators' sections just behind him, leaned forward to catch every word, as did his stepfather, Elmer Kirkland, the railroad engineer, who is financing the youth's defense out of his modest savings.

MR. THIEL—Dr. Burcham said on cross-examination that all the wounds might have been incurred in the porch fall with voluntary submission.

Arguing against the directed verdict, Mr. Underwood briefly reviewed all the evidence and dwelt particularly on the front porch episode between Kirkland and Arlene, as described by the witness, Richard Sturtridge.

"Now if the court please," he began briskly, "counsel for the defense has overlooked the fact that the evidence shows this girl leaving home healthy, with Kirkland with her almost constantly until her battered body was brought to a doctor's house, dead.

All Right Before Leaving Home.

"There is evidence that she talked to another party guest, Mrs. Elser, a short time before going on the porch, and she was all right then. Now we find them on the porch.

"The witness Sturtridge has the defendant saying 'I love you.'"

The defendant was sitting erect now, his hands on his knees, following every word. The spectators, too, were more attentive. The prosecutor's voice rose.

"What is the girl's answer to Kirkland's declaration of love?" Mr. Underwood demanded. "She says she wants to go home. Then comes the blow and the crash heard by Sturtridge. All this fits nicely into the testimony of the witnesses, John Churchill and Fred Phillips, who heard Kirkland say that 'unless Arlene came across he'd beat hell out of her.'"

Submits Case to Jury.

"Kirkland was not the conduct of a lover. The inference is that he slugged her on the jaw. If he had been protecting her, would he not have picked her up when she fell instead of allowing Sturtridge to do it, then saying, 'Give her to me; she's drunk.' They say the corpus delicti is not proven, with a girl healthy and happy at midnight and at 3 a. m. dead."

With the defense entering an exception to the ruling, Judge Grant Crumpacker decided to submit the issue to the jury.

Directed Acquittal Denied.

Dr. R. E. Harger of Indianapolis, the state toxicologist who analysed the contents of Arlene's stomach, was the defense's first witness. He told the jury he had found quantities of formaldehyde and wood alcohol, the presumable residue of the alcohol cocktails she drank at the party.

The poisons, Dr. Harger asserted, were not present in sufficient quantities to have killed nor even made her serious ill. He fed a properly proportioned quantity of the liquid to a white rabbit. The animal showed no ill effects.

Youth Tells of Autopsy.

A 17 year old boy, Howard Nelson, assistant embalmer at the Dewey & Marshall morgue in Gary where the autopsy was performed, followed the toxicologist. He testified to having assisted Dr. Burcham in the post mortem and was exhaustively cross-examined by the defense, which brought out that he had only a sketchy knowledge of anatomy.

The Gary policemen, Ellis Thomas, was called next, both for the purpose of trying to impeach the story of Kirkland's blood stained hands, as told by the waitress, Victoria Leonard, and to prove that the scene of the alleged ravishment on Arlene, in front of a restaurant at 37th street and Broadway, is a well lighted main thoroughfare.

As Thomas testified the judge perused a newspaper, and some of the spectators followed suit. The patrolman's son, Lowell Thomas, was also called, as were Attorney Robert H. Moore and Harry Long of Gary, counsel for the other four defendants, Leon Stanford, Henry Shirk, Paul Barton, and David Thompson.

Murder Trial Locale

Episodes in the trial of Virgil Kirkland for the murder of Arlene Draves have now involved three Indiana localities. The high school girl died in Gary; the trial was transferred to Valparaiso; now the scene shifts to the outskirts of Reynolds, Ind., where Arlene Draves was buried.

RUSH FOR BONUS LOANS DECLINES; NEEDY CARED FOR Checks for $100,000 More Mailed to Vets.

3 Tribune Stations

The three Public Service offices of THE TRIBUNE, at 1 South Dearborn street, 4152 West Madison street, and 1101 East 63d street, are assisting ex-service men in making their bonus loan applications. The downtown office will be open from 8:30 a. m. to midnight, and the west and south side offices from 8:30 a. m. to 10 p. m. Special staffs are provided to aid bonus loan applicants.

A marked falling off in the rush of applications for veterans' bonus loans was reported yesterday by officials of the United States veterans' bureau, indicating, the officials said, that most of those urgently in need of money had filed their applications.

During the day the branch office of the bureau at 205 West Van Buren street cared for 4,000 applicants, whereas 15,000 were reported the day before. At the main office of the bureau at Hines, Noel M. Jeffrey, assistant director of the Chicago region, reported 1,000 applicants as compared with 2,000 on Monday.

Checks Now Total $340,000.

Approximately 1,500 checks have been mailed to veterans to date, Mr. Jeffrey reported. The checks handled yesterday amounted to $100,000, bringing the total amount so far dispensed to $340,000 he said. The office of the bureau remained open last night in order to dispose of the applications received during the day.

Col. Hugh Scott, commandant of Edward Hines Jr. hospital and regional director of the veterans' bureau, again urged that those not in immediate need stand aside in order to permit their destitute comrades to make their applications first.

Asks Police Protection.

Hosiah B. Elam, 41 years old, formerly of Carrollton, Miss., drew a check for $500. He had heard so much about gangsters he did not wish to risk carrying the check to his rooming house at 713 West Monroe street. At the Des Plaines street police station his problem was solved. The sergeant locked the check up in the station safe and Elam curled up on a blanket and went to sleep. This morning a money order will be sent to Mississippi to his wife and three children.

Stories of suffering and hard luck were being told by veterans who crowded into the branch office on Van Buren street.

Six additional service stations for veterans were provided for yesterday by President Cermak of the county board, candidate for mayor. The stations opened yesterday are located in the lobby of the county building, at 207 South Kedzie avenue and at 9138 Houston avenue, South Chicago. The three others will be opened later this week.

NYE FINDS MONEY THE ROOT OF ALL POLITICAL EVIL

Costs $100,000 Public Funds for Inquiry.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 3.—[Special.]—That money is the root of all political evil was the discovery of Senator Gerald P. Nye, North Dakota radical Republican, transmitted to the senate today in reporting the findings of the special senatorial campaign expenditures committee, of which he is chairman and whose expense account, it was recently shown, totaled nearly $100,000.

The assignment of the duty of investigating campaign expenditures to a senate committee, he declared, was a serious mistake. Instead, he advocated a congressional commission to conduct such inquiries in the future.

Notable for its omission was a report on the investigation of the Illinois campaign, on which the committee spent a major portion of its money. A report on Pennsylvania preceded Senator Nye's general report, and one on Nebraska was turned in two days ago, but Illinois will not be reported on until next December.

Denounces Large Expenditures.

In its report on the Pennsylvania campaign the committee left it to the senate to decide what action, if any, shall be taken in the case of Senator James J. Davis [Rep., Pa.], former secretary of labor.

The committee denounced the large expenditures on behalf of the Davis-Brown ticket in the primary on principle, but reported that it had discovered no evidence personally discreditable to Senator Davis.

Finding that $622,928 had been spent for the Brown-Davis ticket in the primary and $494,720 in the general election, the committee declared:

"Your committee is impressed by the size of these aggregate expenditures even when due regard is given to the area and population of the state of Pennsylvania. It regards the expenditure of $622,000 as excessive and inimical to the public interest, whether such sum is expended on behalf of one candidate or a group of candidates in any primary election. Such a condition can not be permitted to continue unchallenged without the most serious consequences to the nation."

Good Character Voted Davis.

But instead of recommending that Senator Davis be unseated, as chairman Nye announced he was ready to do a short time ago, the committee swung to the opposite extreme and gave Senator Davis a certificate of good character.

"Unless," the report said, "the expenditure of more than $600,000 in the primary on behalf of the ticket headed by Senator Davis can be construed as in itself constituting corruption, in fairness to Senator Davis as well as the other candidates in the Pennsylvania senatorial election, your committee desires to state that the evidence heard by it does not disclose any corruption for which he may be held personally responsible, nor has anything been revealed in the testimony before this committee relating to the conduct of the Pennsylvania senatorial campaign reflecting upon the honor and integrity of Senator Davis or any other senatorial candidate."

The Pennsylvania report was signed by Chairman Nye, Senators Parker H. Dale [Rep., Vt.], Robt. F. Wagner, [Dem., N. Y.], and C. C. Dill, [Dem., Wash.]. The name of the committee's fifth member, Senator Roscoe C. Patterson [Rep., Mo.], appeared on a minority report, which presented Senator Davis with an even more emphatic bill of health.

14 SAY LINGERING SAD FAREWELLS TO SENATE PALS

7 Democrats, 7 of G.O.P. End Terms.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 3.—[Special.]—At midnight tonight the dying senate yawned, stretched, and quickened itself into such a noisy disorder that Senator Moses, pinch hitting for Vice President Curtis, was obliged to beat the vice presidential gavel with an emphasis that was both impatient and futile.

The later the hour the dressier the crowd. By ten o'clock dinner coats began to appear in the galleries. By eleven there was a sprinkling of tails and toppers, but by midnight ermine cloaks and monocles were no treat to the gallery fans.

For this session seems determined to die stylishly.

But during the day thirteen gentlemen, as different as can be, made their similar and somewhat sad way about the senate halls.

Commissions Expire Today.

Tomorrow these thirteen, and a fourteenth who was absent because of serious illness, will no longer be senators. And so today they trod with lingering affection up the stone stairs marked "for senators only." Today they punched, with a little extra vigor, the senatorial "three bells" that summon elevators in a hurry that tomorrow as civilians they cannot expect. Today they smoked cigars and shook hands and tried, every one of them, to act as if their retirement was entirely voluntary. In many cases it is not.

Including Senator Furnifold Simmons, the North Carolinian who is ill, the fourteen departures divide evenly as to politics. The seven Democrats are: Cole Blease of South Carolina, William Brock of Tennessee, Alabama's "Tahm" Heflin, Joseph E. Ransdell, the Louisianian statesman with the little goatee that jerks as he talks; Simmons, who is 77 years old; Daniel Steck, the large, good looking man from Iowa, and Kentucky's Ben Williamson, who goes back to his candy business without having made many senatorial speeches.

The Republican Exiles.

The Republican "we are seven" group includes the following:

Illinois' Charles S. Deneen, defeated in the primary by Congresswoman Ruth Hanna McCormick, who in turn was bested by the Democratic J. Hamilton Lewis; Frederick Gillette of Massachusetts, who will be 80 years old this May; Guy D. Goff, West Virginia's apostle of constitutional law; Arthur Gould, the business man from Maine who wishes he'd stuck to business; South Dakota's William McMaster; the millionaire Lawrence Phipps from Colorado, and W. B. Pine from Oklahoma.

Their farewells ranged all the way from the vehement reluctance of Heflin, the Hoovercrat, to the aloof goodby of Gould, who declared that "no sane business man should go into the senate as long as that clack is going on."

The Eternal Filibuster.

He waved towards the senate chamber, where Senator David Walsh of Massachusetts was filibustering the "baby" bill. On the floor of the senate there was a holiday spirit. Senator Borah had his loose locks all nicely parted and combed; "Thad" Caraway stuck his hands deep in his pocket and strolled about patting senatorial arms with great affection. Even Dwight Morrow looked up from his everlasting study and joked gently with his neighbors.

Senator Glenn of Illinois and Senator Robinson of Arkansas engaged in a sprightly tiff, but immediately it was over the Democrat crossed the aisle and laughed with the Republican.

The galleries, of course, were packed. Even the diplomatic section, so devoid of diplomats all the session, had one occupant, the tall Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador. He cocked his ear and listened eagerly as Borah pleaded for recognition of soviet Russia.

Alice Longworth There.

Alice Roosevelt Longworth sat in her accustomed place in the senatorial gallery and across the aisle was Mrs. Patrick Hurley. After a bit her husband came in and the secretary of war seemed to look with especial zest in the direction of the vice presidential gavel which some rumors say he may sometime wield.

High up in the gallery, resting his head against the bronze foot of a revolutionary father, sat Gene Buck of Broadway wearily waiting for action on the Vestal copyright bill.

And down on the senate floor Senator Tydings of Maryland announced solemnly that the last opposition had been withdrawn and the senators were now unanimously in favor of adopting "The Star Spangled Banner" as our national anthem.

INDIANA MOTORISTS ARE URGED TO FIGHT TWO AUTO FEE BILLS

The Chicago Motor club is advising its Indiana members to petition their legislators for the defeat of senate bills 307 and 312. One bill provides for a 50 per cent increase in the motor registration fee and the other for the diversion of this money from the high way fund to the corporate fund.

"The Indiana automobile owners," reads a bulletin issued by the club, "would be taxed $10,000,000 for the general expenses of the state if both bills are passed. The highway department would have $6,500,000 less than it now has for maintenance and construction.

"If these bills become law, Indiana will be forced to rely solely upon the gas tax as a source of funds for roads. The legislature, aware that the gas tax would be inadequate to pay for the highway needs of the state, at the next session undoubtedly would propose an increase in the fuel excise.

LEADERS DIFFER ON DEMOCRATIC WET, DRY STAND

National Committee Will Meet Tomorrow.

Washington, D. C., March 3.—(AP)—Chieftains of the Democratic party assembled in Washington today, but after many conferences left the rank and file still in doubt whether the meeting to be held Thursday would be a love feast or a family quarrel.

As demands came from the east, west, and south that economic conditions instead of prohibition be made the predominant issue in 1932, Chairman Raskob of the party's national committee issued a statement reiterating the purpose of the committee session was to discuss "future policies and finances."

About the same time and across the hall from the chairman's hotel suite, Alfred E. Smith, the party's presidential candidate in 1928, told newspaper men he saw no harm in the national committee discussing informally all public questions.

Can't Prepare Planks, He Says.

He insisted, however, it was not for him to determine what the meeting should consider as he was not a member of the committee. He added the committee could not fix policies for adoption by the national convention.

Meanwhile old and new senate Democrats, including the party's floor leader, demanded with emphasis that economic rehabilitation be put forward as the dominant issue in the next presidential race.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, floor leader and vice presidential nominee on the Smith ticket, said in the senate that Republican leaders still were carrying on a campaign to make the people believe the country is prosperous. To support his argument he cited a recently published article by Senator Fess of Ohio, chairman of the Republican national committee.

Walsh Would Avoid Issue.

Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, in another floor speech, said:

"This is no time to be setting up straw men relating to the wet and dry issue, to religious or to racial issues, when men and women are starving."

Edward P. Costigan, senator-elect from Colorado, asserted in a public statement a canvass of the judgment of Democratic leaders in the north, east, south, and west disclosed "overwhelming support for the farsighted view that the liquor question in America must not at this time be converted into a partisan issue by the Democratic national committee."

Senator Morrison of North Carolina repeated the Thursday meeting should steer clear of prohibition discussion. He saw in Smith's statement that the national committee had no power to determine campaign issues for the party and in the resolution of the New York state Democratic committee, opposing "any commitment on prohibition at this time," a bar to any wet and dry talk Thursday.

ROBBERS HOLD UP 25 IN INSURANCE OFFICE; GET $3,000

Six robbers, their faces wrapped in mufflers and all carrying firearms, entered the branch office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company at 3501 Lawrence avenue yesterday and after compelling twenty-four employés of the company and a woman customer to lie face down on the floor, seized $3,000 and fled.

The leader of the band, with a sawed-off shotgun in his hands, compelled the manager, Frank Platka, and the customer to leave Platka's private office and to join the employés, six of them women, in the outer office before the cash was taken. The bandits escaped in two small automobiles.

WHY HOSPITALS EVERYWHERE USE PLUTO WATER

Main building of the group comprising Cook County Hospital, at Chicago, Ill., one of the world's largest public institutions. Here 2,500 to 3,000 patients are treated daily—more than a million yearly.

Cornelius Vanderpoel, for 36 years Chief Pharmacist at Cook County Hospital.

"Doctors' orders are commands in the hospital. The welfare of patients and at times life itself depends upon the preparedness to supply promptly whatever is prescribed. A saline water laxative is one of the essentials. Pluto Water is acknowledged the ideal saline water laxative, and so we keep on hand a supply to meet the requirements of our huge staff of physicians."

Cornelius Vanderpoel

Chief Pharmacist,
Cook County Hospital.

Famous Cook County Hospital Keeps Pluto Water on Hand for Attending Physicians

HOSPITALS everywhere carry a supply of Pluto Water for the benefit of those patients for whom a saline water laxative is prescribed. Thousands of doctors regularly prescribe Pluto Water as the ideal saline water laxative.

Doctors can't afford to take chances with constipation. Decomposing waste retained in the bowels may lead to extremely serious complications. Pluto Water is as much a staple in hospitals as bandages and iodine! Doctors have prescribed Pluto Water for more than fifty years. It is a part of the pre-operative treatment in many hospitals. Hospital assistants no longer need to be told—Pluto Water is a part of the treatment in hospitals the country over, for scores of ailments.

A doctor wouldn't think of operating on a patient with dull instruments—he'd know that delicate tissues would be torn and strained beyond repair. Why, then, should he administer a laxative that tears and twists the delicate walls of the intestines?

He doesn't—that's the answer!

Very often "Pluto Water" is the doctor's order; quite as often, the hospital attendant's own knowledge and experience dictate Pluto Water—always with the doctor's approval, for he knows Pluto Water will act gently, certainly, quickly!

Well, then—

If Pluto Water is safe for delicate sick people, isn't it the safest laxative you well people can take?

If it acts without harming the weakened tissues of a sick person's digestive tract, won't it be the best thing in the world for your own perfectly sound intestines?

The answer is obvious—Pluto Water is the best, the safest, the surest laxative for everybody—sick or well!

* * * * *

Pluto Water, as you know, comes from French Lick, Indiana—home of America's greatest health resort. It contains all the essential mineral properties of the famous natural waters that rise from Nature's own laboratory down there in the Cumberland foothills.

It's effective—it's safe—it's certain!

Thousands of eminent American physicians prescribe Pluto Water regularly. Ask your own doctor—no doubt he also endorses it. Eminent British, French, and German physicians recognize in Pluto the ideal saline water laxative.

Hospitals keep Pluto Water constantly in stock. Ships carry Pluto Water on long voyages.

Railway passengers find Pluto Water in diner and club-car.

You can buy Pluto Water in practically every drug store in practically every civilized country. What more proof can you ask that Pluto is the one best laxative?

Even if it cost a thousand dollars an ounce it couldn't be any better. But it doesn't—it's only 20c (for the small size) and 45c (for more than twice as much) in bottles at drug stores and fountains.

Keep Pluto Water always on hand. It's a friend in need—and as a daily tonic, diluted in plain hot or cold water, for the digestive tract—it can't be beat!

WRITTEN AFTER HOURS*

IT is after hours and most of the people have gone home. There is a chess game in the office of the production manager, and a light still burns in the cashier's cage.

From the outer room comes the untutored click of an Underwood—an office boy is taking the Y.M.C.A. course in advertising. Across the areaway a man bends over his desk, writing. A green visor shades his eyes.

From his office window, as he glances up from time to time, he can look down on the avenue many floors below and see the home-bound traffic crawling northward and the red and yellow electric signs winking in the purple dusk.

It is after hours, but he works on. He will whip his copy into finished form before he leaves his desk.

His inspiration is the Goodyear Tire.

One of the layout men has just left his drawing board and is going out to the elevators.

Under his arm he carries a tissue pad. A new idea is stirring in his mind. It will be roughed out in pencil before morning comes.

Six months from now you will see it in print, a finished advertisement for Maxwell House Coffee.

IT is after hours and most of the people have gone home.

But out in Glencoe, or in Rye, in far hotels, on a Pullman car somewhere, in foreign lands, there are Erwin, Wasey & Company men thinking about other people's businesses, working for men who are all unaware such work is going on.

A few hurried notes scrawled on the back of an old envelope tonight may be the key for next year's campaign on Philco. Between the acts at the theatre an idea may be born for Danersk, or Realsilk, or Lavoris.

Driving his car along the boulevard, a man may catch an inspiration for Curtis, or Carnation, or Hoover.

At home beneath the reading lamp another may dream out a name for some new product.

On a ranch in New Mexico or in a shooting box in Maryland may spring a new sales thrust for Camel cigarettes.

Once a famous trade-mark came back from a camping trip.

This is a phase of Erwin, Wasey & Company service that perhaps even our own clients have not thought of before.

There is no mention of it in our Terms and Conditions.

But Bauer & Black is the gainer for it, as is American

Weekly, Thibaut, and Havoline, Post Toasties, Dentyne, Eversharp, Forhan's, Absorbine Jr., and all the rest.

And will be, many, many times again.

WHY such devotion on the part of men who have already given their day? Of no one here is asked more than he can do.

The client does not require it, nor do we.

Again, why?

Anyone who deals regularly with men will tell you this is the kind of work that money alone cannot buy. It is work done purely of free will and its real pay is pride in work well done.

Those who understand the creative mind will know what we mean by that.

They know that the good workman, in advertising as elsewhere, asks no questions save, how well can this be done?

Most of our men came to this organization because they felt they could approach their work in just that spirit.

All of us here hold that good advertising is advertising which is seen, is read and is believed—advertising which makes sales and builds good will—advertising which returns to the advertiser his investment with a profit.

TO contrive with words and pictures advertising which can do these things is a challenge to men of talent and imagination who like to write and like to draw. It is not an easy thing to do, and if we have been unusually successful at it, that is because we have given it our very best.

The men who write advertisements for Erwin, Wasey & Company's clients are men who would succeed in any branch of journalism.

Some of them have been on university faculties. One has edited a newspaper. Several have been star reporters. Others are regular contributors to the magazines. They know how to appeal to the public in the printed word.

They know how to sell.

They are men who, were they not advertising men, would be well-known illustrators and artists.

They know how to sell.

Research department? Expert media men? Publicity service? Radio department? Outdoor service? Merchandising department? Export facilities? We have them all.

We have them all developed to a degree not equaled by any other organization that we know.

And all these departments are essential in the rounding out of the service this house has made its own.

But quite the finest thing we have to give to those who come to us for counsel is the high enthusiasm of our men and a devotion to their work which is measured neither by the dollar nor the clock.

This, too, was written after hours.

U. S.-French Syndicate to Put Up Cash.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 3.—The price of the Italo-French naval accord, enabling France and Italy to sign the London treaty and thus relieving the British treasury from the danger of intolerable armament expenditures, is a long term loan to the Italian government equal to at least half of Italy's war debt to the United States. This was learned here tonight.

The transaction is really limited to a debt moratorium in disguise—the only difference being that instead of the American treasury it will be American investors, through a bank syndicate, who will foot the bill. While French banks, backed by the French government, will put up an equal sum, it is really America that bears the brunt, for the United States is the only country that does not derive some direct benefit from the deal.

Amount of Loan Indefinite.

Neither the exact duration of the loan nor the figures involved are known here. It is reported that the sum of 70 billion lire—nearly three and a half billion dollars—figured in the conversations. The transaction is described as a "huge loan to save Fascist Italy from bankruptcy and put the country on its feet."

Specifically, the loan will be used to retire and convert internal debt obligations, one billion eight hundred and twenty million of which fell due last Oct. 1. This was carried over in short term obligations owing to the inadequacy of the treasury at that time. It is said to be the diversion from the general sinking fund to meet the interest on these emergency obligations that has been mainly responsible for the formidable Italian budget deficit.

How Negotiations Started.

The loan is a result of negotiations which opened last summer when scouts from American banks specializing in international loans got wind of Italy's acute need of cash. Discreet feelers were put out and resulted in Premier Mussolini granting interviews with the executives of four rival American concerns who happened to be simultaneously vacationing in Italy at the time.

Each banker told Mussolini that his credit was good in Wall street at any time for a short term advance, even up to two years, but that for long term credits there was nothing doing until the Franco-Italian war scare was buried.

Il duce is reported to have replied that he would be glad to adopt a conciliatory attitude towards France, but that domestic politics obligated him to make one more fiery speech; and that was the famous Florence address which killed negotiations for the time being. Then last December Robert L. Craigie, British expert, visited Rome and the basis for the present pact was reached.

SUING THAW

[Acme Photo.]

New York, March 3.—(AP)—Harry K. Thaw was in court again today and in a comic mood.

On the stand in Supreme court at the re-trial of Marcia Estardus' $100,000 damage suit, he was asked if Constance Fedder, one of his witnesses who was not in court, was a blonde.

"She used to be," he said.

REPORT HUMBERT AND PRINCESS WILL SEPARATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, March 3.—The local newspaper, Magyar Orszag, today reports a rumor of the intended separation of Crown Prince Humbert of Italy from the Belgian princess, Marie José. This paper states that while the couple were vacationing on the Riviera some time ago they had differences over the attention he paid an English movie star, an old friend of his. Prince Humbert is said to have made several auto trips with her. The newspaper says this neglect on the part of her husband was the actual cause of Marie José desiring a separation.

Father Reprimands Humbert.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TURIN, Italy, March 3.—The anniversary of the marriage of Crown Prince Humbert, heir to the Italian throne, and Princess Marie José of Belgium, fell on Jan. 8 this year, but, according to persistent gossip in court circles, it was not celebrated with the gayety usually attendant upon such events.

In fact, the royal couple's matrimonial affairs reached such a pass some months ago, according to the same gossip, that Princess Marie left her palace in Turin and went to Milan, where she was met by her father, King Albert. He persuaded her to go back to her husband. Later she laid the matter before King Victor Emmanuel. The Italian king, who is extremely straightlaced, summoned his son and gave him a royal reprimand.

FRENCH DEPUTIES GIVE BRIAND BIG CONFIDENCE VOTE

PARIS, March 3.—(AP)—By the greatest margin of victory it has yet given the Laval government the chamber of deputies today approved the foreign ministry budget, an action tantamount to endorsing Aristide Briand's foreign policy.

The vote, 551 to 14, came at the end of a day during which M. Briand's policies had been subjected to vigorous attack and he had made spirited reply, speaking frankly on many foreign problems, particularly those concerning Germany and Russia. He had been attacked for his too lenient policy toward Germany.

M. Briand, asserting that the foreign policy of France always has been an open book, emphasized the necessity for "moral disarmament" and referred to the recent naval accord between France, Italy, and Great Britain as "one of the most important events in the world's history."

CAPTURE THIEVES IN SHOP.

Alexander Rotilio, 14 years old, 1516 South Leavitt street, and Frank Caruso, 20, of 1512 South Leavitt street, were captured by police in the Marion dress shop at 3918 Cottage Grove avenue early yesterday after they had piled up dresses valued to $1,200 preparatory to carrying them out.

EX-SWEETHEART WILL TESTIFY IN SCHROEDER CASE

Indianapolis, Ind., March 3.—[Special.]—Miss Gertrude Kittrell, 22 year old blonde Mobile, Ala., divorcée, who was once arrested on request of Mrs. Harold Herbert Schroeder because of an illicit love affair with Schroeder, will be called by the state as a witness tomorrow in the trial of Schroeder for the torch murder here last May 30 of an unidentified man.

Miss Kittrell told officials at the time of the search for Schroeder that he had threatened to disappear because of marital difficulties. "You need not be surprised if I disappear," she quoted Schroeder as saying. "I guess I am worth more dead than alive. When I am gone my wife can have things the way she wants them. I would like to disappear forever, let them have their way, and start all over again."

Schroeder's flight after he set fire to his automobile with the body of the hitch hiker in it was recounted at the trial of the former Mobile business man and wartime aviator today.

Schroeder was found late in June near his home at Mobile. He has admitted he burned the automobile and body, but insists his companion broke his neck when the automobile was ditched near Terre Haute, Ind.

7 O'clock—Tired * 8 O'clock—Can't Eat * 9 O'clock—Work Drags * Here's Why! * Try Yeast

TROUBLE HERE! Clogged intestines are responsible.

© 1931, Standard Brands Incorporated

EATING YEAST keeps intestines clean—restores pep.

Is This the way YOUR DAY begins?

HATE having to get up? Hate the sight of nourishing food? Hate the thought of working when your body is so tired it fairly aches?

Morning after morning, thousands of people get up feeling just like that. They are pepless, lifeless—tired out before the day is half begun! They have no appetite, no vitality—no interest in work or play.

It isn't natural to be that way. And—in the vast majority of cases—not necessary!

For morning tiredness, physicians tell us, generally results from an underlying trouble which afflicts nearly all of us now and again. Like unpleasant breath, coated tongue, headaches, pimples, etc., it means that we have let our bodies become internally sluggish and unclean.

Not sick enough to stay in bed—not really well enough to go to work. Look out! . . . you are probably another victim of INTESTINAL FATIGUE

Now this is a trouble you can easily correct—if you will. That is, if you will go about it in the proper way.

First, then, give up those weakening cathartics and harmless-looking pills. Violent purgatives have their uses—but they are not for you! What you need is a gentle, natural method that will really correct Intestinal Fatigue—not just flush out your system temporarily.

Fortunately, you have not far to seek. For right at your grocer's, in little foil-wrapped squares, lies a simple food that doctors everywhere recommend for this purpose! Made a regular part of your diet, this food—Fleischmann's Yeast—has a truly remarkable effect!

The reason is that fresh yeast mixes with and softens the clogging wastes in your intestines and at the same time stimulates the natural action that removes them! Intestines are strengthened—"toned up." Internal secretions are stimulated. Normal elimination is restored.

And when this occurs, harmful poisons no longer are fed into your blood, to circulate through your system and depress energy. Appetite renews itself. Headaches and indigestion disappear. You wake up in the morning without that dragged-out feeling. And your energy lasts all day!

So don't go on just worrying about your condition. Take the step that will correct its cause. Go to any grocery, restaurant or soda fountain and get a supply of Fleischmann's Yeast.

And eat it regularly, any way you like—preferably just plain, or in a third of a glass of water (hot or cold)—before meals, or between meals and at bedtime. Insist on Fleischmann's Yeast—rich in vitamins B, G and D.

Fleischmann's Yeast is fresh yeast... the only kind that benefits you fully.

Eat 3 cakes a day!

Remember, it's important to ask your grocer for Fleischmann's fresh Yeast (with the yellow label) . . . the only yeast that contains the Sunshine Vitamin D! Every cake is "irradiated" to give it this added element so important for sun-starved indoor workers. It is rich in Vitamins B and G, too.

SUBURBS HOLD PRIMARIES FOR TOWN OFFICES

Record Vote of 16,441 Is Polled in Aurora.

Primary elections were held in a number of Chicago suburbs and other nearby municipalities yesterday to choose nominees for city offices. The elections will be held in April.

In Chicago Heights, Mayor Daniel P. Bergin, the present mayor, received a majority of all the votes cast, but will be forced under the regulations governing cities under the commission form of government to run again against Joseph Gannon, who polled the second largest vote for mayor. Bergin's vote was 3,025 and Gannon's 2,132.

The four sitting commissioners of Chicago Heights also were renominated. They are Frank W. DeBolt, Arthur H. Pannenborg, William H. Freeman, and Louis Ursitti. Opposing them in the election will be Michael Constabile, William H. Laue, John A. Zimney, and Otto Jaeger.

Candidates in Zion.

At Zion City, Wilbur Glenn Voliva's candidate, Mayor Ernest Harwood, received 1,403 votes. An opposition party, forced to write in the name of their mayoralty candidate, gave 179 to the Rev. Alexander Ford Wilson.

Mayor Charles H. Greene and Conrad M. Bjorseth will be the runoff candidates for mayor in Aurora, three aspirants having been eliminated yesterday. The vote totaled 16,441, a primary record in Aurora. Of these Bjorseth received 5,613 and Greene 4,747. Four incumbent commissioners were renominated.

Results in Other Primaries.

Mayoralty candidates nominated in other towns and cities were:

BROOKFIELD—President, E. B. Graham and J. S. Mansfield.

WHEATON—William W. Culver and William H. Caldwell.

In the Waukegan election Keller received 3,307 votes to 2,303 for Julius Bidinger, his foremost opponent for the Republican nomination. Peterson, unopposed for the Democratic nomination, received 525. In Highland Park all the candidates for commissioner, seven, were nominated. Among them are the four incumbents.

Three party nominees, E. H. Wilson, People's party; John G. Smith, Republican, and R. P. Lambert, independent, were named to run for president of the village board of Summit.

Cryster Quits Oak Park Race.

Charles H. Cryster, president of the village of Oak Park, announced yesterday that due to the urgency of his private business he will not be a candidate for reelection. He indorsed the candidacy of Louis L. Jones, 112 South Scoville avenue, Oak Park, who will run as an independent. The other two candidates are Conrad J. Kalbfell and Willis McFeely, former president of the village.

The Oak Park election will be held on April 7, the same day as the Chicago mayoralty election.

BEATEN BY TWO ROBBERS.

A. L. Davis, 4147 Ellis avenue, was robbed of his watch and $2 after he had been beaten yesterday by two holdup men at 42d street and Drexel boulevard.

FLOOD OF GIFTS DEEP MYSTERY TO HOUSEWIFE

It was neither her birthday nor her wedding anniversary, and Mrs. Buford E. Hiles, 4631 Drexel boulevard, was surprised yesterday afternoon when a delivery boy arrived with a bunch of roses. But she was upset when he announced that they were C. O. D. and $6 was due.

That was just the beginning of a big C. O. D. afternoon in the Hiles home. Another boy came with another bunch of flowers and another bill for $5. By the time the third unpaid for bouquet was at the door Mrs. Hiles was so wary she did not even ask what the price was. She just refused to accept it.

When a pair of men's shoes, size 10, was presented Mrs. Hiles recalled that her husband wears 8½s. The fifth unwanted gift was a chair from a furniture store.

At 6 p .m. Mr. Hiles, who is a salesman arrived. He, too, rang the bell.

"Whatever it is, take it back," came a weak voice through the speaking tube.

But Mr. Hiles' voice reassured his wife, and he was allowed to come in. An investigation disclosed that a check for $27.50, mailed to him, had been stolen and that the thief was trying to cash it and saving his face by giving collect orders when tradesmen refused to accept it and give him change.

BEAUTIFUL NEW ENRICHMENTS AND REFINEMENTS in the LA SALLE V·8

at the same moderate price

With notable refinements in body interiors and appointments—and with its exterior appearance smartened and enhanced by new hood ports and attractive new colors—today's La Salle V-8 now offers, in even greater measure, those fine-car characteristics which have made it so popular among the select motorists of the world.

Even a casual inspection will reveal the extent of the quality and value which La Salle now offers you. Upholsteries are notably finer, as to both quality and appearance. Cushions and seat backs are smooth-trimmed and tailored with piping at the edges. Window mouldings and smoking and vanity sets are finer and more attractive. In fact, the interior ensemble suggests the richness of a custom creation.

La Salle is the first of the Cadillac-built motor cars to be made available to buyers in the medium-price field. Priced as low as $2195, f. o. b. Detroit, La Salle is actually as easy to own—especially when the purchaser takes advantage of the liberal G. M. A. C. payment plan—as a lesser automobile. And because it is driven far longer than the average car, it is far more economical over the years of ownership.

May We Send a La Salle to Your Home?

The engineering discoveries made in developing the Cadillac V-12 and V-16 have been applied to all Cadillac-La Salle power plants. As a result, La Salle performance is now so exceptional that only a demonstration can reveal the car's full capabilities. Consequently, we should like to place a La Salle at your disposal for an extended trial drive. Simply telephone your interest, and a La Salle will be sent to your door.

DR. BUNDESEN WITHDRAWS HIS CANDIDACY.

Coroner Herman N. Bundesen had prepared to become an independent candidate for mayor. He has decided not to do so. In his statement announcing his decision he says that he still regards his chances of election, if he were to run, as exceptionally good, but that he will not ask the city to take the other chance that an independent candidacy might again divide the opposition to Thompson and result in a reelection as the Republican division in the primaries resulted in Thompson's renomination. Dr. Bundesen says that his proposed candidacy was based upon popular response to the probability that he would run and on the record making vote of 1,087,000 he received in the 1928 election. Nevertheless he had to consider the possibility that a fatal division of anti-Thompson votes might be made again.

"For Chicago's good," he said, "that is a risk I cannot afford to take. Four more years of Thompsonism would be too much to ask even of such a virile city as Chicago."

Dr. Bundesen has done the considerate thing and he leaves the field clear and the issue unconfused. He has subordinated his personal interest to the city's needs and that will be appreciated by citizens who want to give the city a new life by destroying an infamous administration. In the Republican primaries there were enough votes cast against Thompson to defeat him, but they were not united and the purpose failed. If the city is to be saved the vote against the city hall must be kept from such dispersion in which its effectiveness is lost. Dr. Bundesen by withholding his candidacy has made it possible to concentrate on the objective. It was a public spirited decision.

WEST SIDE VALUES.

The south park and Lincoln park boards were authorized at the recent primary to spend millions of dollars in building new highways, north and south. West siders, though their lack of adequate motor roads is greatest, are apparently content with things as they are. No west side projects were on the ballot. In that fact owners of west side property may discover one reason for the relatively rapid growth of the city north and south. The west side needs high speed motor roads, elevated to avoid the delays caused by cross traffic. When it has them, west side property values will reflect the betterment in transportation.

FOREIGN STUDENTS IN AMERICA.

Foreign students in American universities are increasing in number. In 1929-'30 more than 10,000 foreign students were registered in some 450 American institutions of higher learning. This is an increase of 10 per cent or more over the preceding year.

As a factor in American foreign policy the international exchange both of students and instructors should not be neglected. Good will towards America and mutual understanding over a long period can be promoted by this means as in no other way. It is unfortunate that a large number of foreign students are attending American institutions that are neither of the first rank nor deeply in the current of American life and progress.

The Chinese and Canadians lead the list of foreign students with 1,294 and 1,263, respectively, according to the committee on friendly relations among foreign students, and the Japanese with 887, the Filipinos with 887, the Russians with 538, the Germans with 397, the English with 365, the Mexicans with 315 follow in order. India sends 295; Italy sends 268; Corea sends 144; Poland sends 163; Spain sends 106; Porto Rico sends 260; Cuba sends 144 students to America. The list is distributed over 111 countries. It is unfortunate that Latin American countries have not a higher proportion. Including Mexico, Porto Rico, and Cuba the number of Latin American students in the United States is only 1,265 or thereabouts.

If the first class universities of America would make more provision for foreign students, especially Latin Americans, a great service to America as well as to American education would be performed. Entrance requirements could be better adjusted to foreign students without lowering the high standards of the institutions. Social and educational conditions should be more flexibly accommodated to their special needs. A group of segregated foreign students in our universities is of relatively less value both to Americans and foreigners. So far as possible the foreign students should be given welcome and an opportunity to participate deeply in the life and flux of the American environment. This is of great value not alone to them but to our somewhat provincial American students.

Of the American universities with foreign students Columbia leads with 716; then follows New York university with 626; California with 593; Los Angeles (California university) with 243 students. Chicago university has 275; Illinois has 169; Northwestern has 126; Moody Bible institute has 123; Lewis institute has 141; Stanford has 116; Harvard has 256; M. I. T. has 203; Michigan has 264; Minnesota has 265; the University of Washington has 264; the Catholic and other sectarian colleges draw large numbers.

America can well become the great educational center of the world. A wise and helpful policy towards foreign students will be mutually of the highest value to Americans and foreigners both.

THE SQUIRES AND CITY VOTERS.

Rural justification of the denial of full representative rights to Chicago rests upon one amusing and one medieval argument, one that the constitutional guaranty of representative democracy in Illinois is advisory and not mandatory; the other that it is the political habit of American states to restrict metropolitan privilege in the legislature. The backers of the first argument may be left to enjoy their idea that the members of the convention writing the constitution did not know the difference between the language of suggestion and that of command or, knowing it, used the one instead of the other. The probability of the constitution being nullified in this fundamental particular by the representatives sworn to support it may not have occurred to the writers. If it had they might have provided a great circle of custodians watching custodians to preserve the government of their fathers and then have had no confidence that it would last.

The experience of American cities in having their legislative rights taken from them when the squires had the power to do so is not in the development of a new and good political idea, but in the survival of an old and bad one. It represents class control of government, a discrimination against certain categories of citizens in favor of others. The cities of Great Britain suffered from it while votes in parliament came from little country boroughs like Old Sarum. Illinois is getting a number of these Old Sarums, as the tables of declining population show.

When the basis of suffrage was a freehold it not only excluded the tenants and the rural laborers but the great masses of city workers who could not qualify. It is not often that classes of people denied full political rights escape the consequences of the denial. If they are restricted in suffrage they are restricted in rights and privileges. There is no other reason for the first restriction. When the English people were winning their liberties in the petition of rights one autocratic outrage was left untouched. The freeholder, for instance, could not have troops quartered on him, but the wrongs inflicted when men were dragged by the press gang into the army itself were allowed to continue. The reason was simple. These victims were not enfranchised. They were the laborers or men of no consequence.

When people are put outside the full privileges of the political system they will suffer from the exclusion. The Negroes do in the south. The people with full rights will profit from their advantage. It is their intention to do so when they restrict representation. The squires of Illinois in trying to make the city dwellers subordinate to themselves do not deceive any one as to their purposes, not even themselves.

SAVE THE FOX RIVER.

Three loops of water to the west hold Chicago against the shore of Lake Michigan. The first loop is the Chicago river. The second loop is Des Plaines river. The third loop is the Fox river. Parkways and forest preserves enhance the first and second loops. State park areas should preserve the beauty of the third. As a general policy state parks and forests throughout Illinois will have a value almost beyond estimate to present and to future generations.

The Fox river valley from the Wisconsin line to its mouth near Ottawa is a land of serene hills and quiet lakes, woods and an old creek or so winding down over the sand bar into the river. Small boys swim and shriek under the willows in the swimming hole where their fathers swam and grandfathers before the civil war. An old house built in the early days faces the sunset on a bluff over the stream. Below it on the shore a great lime rock leans over the water where rock bass and pumpkin seeds are swimming. From the big woods on the Fox near St. Charles Gurdon Hubbard walked 75 miles one day a hundred years ago to Hennepin in a race with an Indian. Today the Indians are gone, leaving only their names along the river. The valley is quiet in the sun, and bright water, like the Thames, washes down between quiet hills.

Forty miles from Chicago the Fox river valley lies among the first outposts of hills beyond the flatlands of the city. It is a valley of old towns and fine woodlands. At St. Charles efforts are already under way to make a welcome place for those who like the out of doors, and great improvements have been made. But the billboards get bigger and nearer, nevertheless; the shacks and eat stands become more numerous; the tipsy cottages and huts along the stream make a lovely valley hideous. The old mills where the Brownell and Miller and the Butler companies made paper from rye straw 50 years ago are plastered with bills and circus posters. The bend at Five Islands, where Black Hawk crossed, it's said, is soured and soiled with shanties. Only state aid will save Fox river.

The old towns of Illinois and their surroundings are too good to lose. Many of them, such as St. Charles, are trying to save what nature and a hundred years have given them. But their resources are relatively small. The state should help. The returns to them and to Chicago and to all of Illinois will more than justify the effort.

Editorial of the Day

COLD APPLE PIE.

[New York Sun.]

Let all food faddists ponder on the Epic of Ellenburg! Seven men and two women, snowbound in a schoolhouse near that Clinton county town, were kept alive by the pies that one of their number, a baker, took from his snow blocked truck into the schoolhouse. The schoolhouse provided shelter from the blizzard; there was plenty of wood to be piled into the schoolhouse stove; there was snow to be melted for water; best of all, there was an armful of pies for the larder.

True enough, the pie eaters were cut off from civilization only over the week-end. The incident accordingly offered no true test of the place of pie in life. But while it lasted it must have been privation of the nicest sort. Outside, a blizzard; inside, warmth, companionship and a slab of cold apple pie. These nine who have known luxurious want will henceforth look at the rotogravure sections with a new eye, pitying those poor folk who have to expose themselves to the hot sun of the southern playlands.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

GET THIS MAN AND EVERYTHING WILL BE ALL RIGHT.

The legislature down at Springfield is working on a motor vehicle drivers' license, and it's a fine idea, and we hope it becomes a law. But there is one man responsible for a good part of the motor accidents. Get him, and a lot will be accomplished for safety and comfort of motorists. We hate to name him, but in the interests of the public we feel we must. He's got to be grabbed and punished. And as for that, we don't care what he gets—calaboose, county jail, penitentiary, fine, imprisonment from thirty days to life; it's immaterial to us—just so he gets it.

We wouldn't shed many tears if he were shot at sunrise. Or shackled and put on the high road breaking rocks. Or imprisoned in the dog pound and made to wash the dogs every day and tuck them in their little beds at night. We simply don't care what happens to him, just so he gets it. And we don't want him to be given a driver's license by the state of Illinois, either. He's a menace, general nuisance, uncalled for, public enemy, and a lot more things we can't say in a family Line.

And now we'll name him. And having found out who he is we want the police, motor cops, constabulary, and, if necessary, the state National Guards and the marines TO GET THIS GUY! He is the man who, finding himself in a long parade of cars wending their way to the city Sunday afternoon, suddenly leaps out into the other lane of the road and drives pell-mell in spite of the fact that he is going against traffic. In his mad haste to get to the head of the line he imperils everybody driving in the opposite direction.

But does he care? He does not. He steps on the juice and speeds up his car to fifty, sixty, or seventy miles an hour. He doesn't belong in the Jane in which he is driving, but that makes no difference to him. He is determined to get ahead of the procession, and he is going to do so, and the cars coming towards him can accept a collision or go in the ditch. And it doesn't matter to him which they do. This is the man we're after. GET THAT GUY.

ASHES AND DUST.

There are so many things in the world
Though love be done.
There are tasks for empty hands,
And fights to be won!

There are so many things in the world
Though love be gone.
There is moonlight and starlight—the dusk
And the gold of dawn!

There are so many things in the world
Though love be not.
There are songs to be sung. There are friends
To share one's lot.

Oh, the world is a table with hundreds of good things spread;
But they all turn to ashes and dust, when love is dead.

Who was that magnificent gentleman? you ask. And you will immediately follow your own question by saying it was undoubtedly a veteran who had just cashed his bonus check. Which proves you have been reading Andy Mellon again. Nay, the magnificent gentleman was only a war profiteer who has still got a lot of it left. But had you peered into a nearby restaurant and had observed a quiet, sad faced gentleman eagerly dining on ham and eggs—ah, Laura, that was a veteran who had just borrowed money on his bonus.

CREEPING ERUPTION.

THOSE who are lucky enough to get away to Florida and south Georgia to spend the cold, dark days of the early spring in the open air should know about a skin disease which prevails especially on their playground. It has been found elsewhere, but it is in the sandy soil of this far southeastern section that it is at home. It is a species of worm, the larva form of which burrows its track under the skin. That track has every resemblance to the path of a mole in the ground. I don't know whether a mole track makes the soil itch, but this much is certain, the itch caused by the burrowing of the larva which causes creeping eruption is about the boss of all the itches which the human being endures. This eruption kills nobody, never causes serious illness and, finally, cures spontaneously, but the itching it causes is more than a man of average patience can stand.

The soil is infested with this worm through dogs and cats. The enemy lives in warm, wet sand and on the beds of branches and streams and on bathing beaches.

Dr. Hume tells us that the measures of protection employed at Fort Benning are as follows: Nobody is allowed to go barefooted. This applies especially to children and after rains. Wading is not allowed. Dogs and cats are not allowed on beaches or where children play. Swimmers are advised to wear slippers and sandals, particularly when they adorn the beach. All persons were advised not to lie on the damp earth, and particularly not to let the bare skin touch damp earth.

Miss Le Sueur and Dr. Hutchinson suggest that the skin of the feet be greased with a mixture of 5 to 10 per cent oil of chenopodium in castor oil before going on an infested beach. This advice is based on an experience with two cases of creeping eruption which resisted cure until they painted the itching skin with pure oil of chenopodium. The parasite was quickly killed, the itching stopped, and the eruption healed.

If this method of prevention works with creeping eruption it should also work in the prevention of ground itch and of hookworm.

The method of cure which Dr. Hume recommends is as follows: The physician asks the patient to point out just where the itching is worst. The doctor then freezes a small patch of skin right there and keeps it frozen for 2 to 3 minutes. He then applies an ice pack. This procedure kills the molelike burrower. After that he applies a mixture of salicylic acid, 20; boric acid, 100; yellow wax, 50, and petrolated jelly, 830, for several days. But far easier and far more important than cure is prevention.

SHAKING OUT THE MOTE.

A. C. H. writes: In this windy city, with much dust and grit in the air, foreign substances are likely to get into the eyes of folks on the street. Many years ago I learned how to get rid of the annoyance and give it for what it is worth, for if I have used it once I have used it a hundred times. The instant a speck of dust is felt stop—don't take another step; hold the eyelids apart with thumb and finger, shake the head slightly, and the particle will drop out of its own weight, for it has not had time to get imbedded in the moist surface of the eyeball. When the eye is rubbed or wiped it only tends to make the particle stick and become painful.

REPLY.

If this method should fail no harm has been done.

SUSPICION OF TUBERCULOSIS.

Mrs. K. M. S. writes: I am 23 years of age and for the last two years I have been coughing and spitting yellow phlegm. My sister died of tuberculosis five years ago, and I lost a baby six months ago of tuberculosis.

1. What are the symptoms of tuberculosis of the lungs?
2. If I had tuberculosis, how could I cure it besides going to a sanitarium?

REPLY.

1. Besides those you note, the symptoms of tuberculosis are presence of tubercle bacilli in sputum, fever, loss of weight, pallor, being easily fatigued.
2. Put yourself in the hands of a physician of experience with tuberculosis and follow his advice.

FRAIL AND TOO TALL.

Mrs. E. P. W. writes: My 6 year old granddaughter is quite frail, but is growing abnormally tall. She is half a head taller than she should be and is pathetically thin. She is greatly troubled with worms. 1. For several months she has been taking violet rays regularly. Are these treatments conducive to growth? 2. Could there be some gland that is functioning too much?

REPLY.

1. They may be something of a factor.
2. The thyroid, the pituitary, and the pineal glands all contribute toward the growth pattern. The proof as to the pineal is not equal to that for the other two. Probably she needs cod liver oil, some preparation containing lime. Exposure to sunshine and open air should help.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

ONE WEEK TOO LATE.

Chicago, Feb. 27.—[Friend of the People.]—I married my present wife on April 25, 1915. At that time neither of us was a citizen of the United States. I applied for second papers May 1, 1922, and received them Sept. 29, 1922. Is my wife a citizen? V. S.

No. Under the act of Sept. 22, 1922, wives of aliens did not become citizens through the naturalization of their husbands. If she desires to become a citizen she must apply for naturalization.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director of Naturalization.

SEPARATE MAINTENANCE.

Chicago, Feb. 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Please define the legal term "separate maintenance."

2. Can a wife obtain such a decision in the courts of Illinois under the following conditions: She knew her husband only three weeks before she married him; she lived with him for three months; she never accepted her husband's name; she never stopped working.

3. The separation, when originally made, was mutually agreeable.

4. I cannot afford to employ an attorney as I am one of the many unemployed. T. S.

1. The term is commonly applied to money that a husband is required to pay toward the support of his wife while they are living apart, but undivorced.

2. If he is offering her a home, you show no reason why she should insist upon being maintained separately.

3. Our first suggestion would be that she offer to return to him.

4. If he refuses to maintain her, a court would give her separate maintenance and would order him to pay her attorney's fees.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

BACK TO OLD COUNTRY.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—[Friend of the People.]—How long is an alien, being in possession of a first paper of naturalization, allowed to stay abroad?

W. G. D.

The naturalization law of March 2, 1929, provides that when an alien is absent from the United States in his native country for more than six months it shall be presumed that he has lost his residence, but such presumption may be overcome by satisfactory evidence to the court. By the same law, if an alien remains absent from the United States for a year or more he loses his residence for naturalization purposes.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director of Naturalization.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 4, 1915.

LONDON.—The allied British and French fleets are continuing to pound their way through the Dardanelles, gradually destroying the forts on both sides. An Athens dispatch says that the fleet today bombarded and reduced the forts of Hamidieh and Tchemerlik, on the Asiatic side of the inside of the Dardanelles. A Constantinople dispatch confirms the report that some of the forts on the European side of the Dardanelles have suffered severely from the fire of the allied battleships.

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson took an aggressive step to preserve the neutrality of the United States. He asked congress to enact, before it expires tomorrow noon, stringent legislation designed to prevent American and foreign vessels from carrying arms and other supplies from American ports to the warships of belligerents, and from aiding in any other way the armed forces of the nations involved in war. The resolution was unanimously adopted by the house, but in the senate objection was made to the phraseology, which, it was claimed, granted too much power to the President. The resolution passed by the senate provides that American vessels intending to carry supplies to any belligerent craft shall be denied clearance papers and that foreign vessels in American waters which give aid to belligerents shall be interned. The President is given authority to use the armed forces of the United States to enforce the law.

CHICAGO.—Ed Rice, master criminal and head of the Imperial building payoff gang, who is said to have directed certain policemen to put Barney Bertsche out of the way because of his criminal rivalry, has been captured and has confessed. He said he is willing to turn state's evidence in the cases against Capt. John J. Halpin, former chief of detectives; Lieut. John H. Tobin, formerly at the detective bureau, and "Big Bill" Egan and Walter O'Brien, detective sergeants.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 4, 1901.

WASHINGTON.—This city is now thronged with people of importance awaiting the inauguration of President McKinley. Uniformed soldiery paraded the streets as a preliminary gesture to the great pageant. Theodore Roosevelt was easily the chief figure of interest, for the day at least. This was due to the fact that he is the only new member of the incoming administration, and also to the fact that Mr. Roosevelt always is interesting, and is likely to do unexpected things. Thousands spent hours in the magnificent grounds surrounding the White House in the hope of seeing President McKinley.

CHICAGO.—Plans for a building for the Crerar library were made public and at the same time the announcement was made that the Illinois general assembly, the Chicago city council, and the property owners interested would be asked for permission to erect the structure on the lake front, facing Michigan avenue, and extending practically from Randolph to Madison street.

CHICAGO.—The announcement of the marriage in Salt Lake City of Edward Ellis Hamlin, the eldest son of George A. Hamlin, 3400 Calumet avenue, to Mabel Hite, the actress, was contained in newspaper telegrams received in Chicago. Mr. Hamlin's father is manager of one of the wholesale departments of Marshall Field & Co.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 4, 1881.

CHICAGO.—It is rumored that Bishop Spalding of Peoria is to be appointed bishop of Newark, N. J., to succeed Bishop Corrigan, recently appointed coadjutor bishop of New York. It is not improbable that in such a case the Rev. P. W. Riordan of St. James church in this city will be appointed bishop of Peoria, although Dean Terry of Ottawa is also mentioned.

CHICAGO.—Nothing approaching the snowstorm of yesterday and the night before has ever occurred in this region. A fierce gale raged most of the time. Traffic of all kinds was suspended because of inability to pass through the drifts. Trains from all northwestern points either failed to arrive or reached here 10 or 12 hours late.

LONDON.—A dispatch from Mount Prospect to the Telegraph says: The Boers have sent a message to the British camp condoling with Lady Colley in her bereavement as the result of the death of Gen. Colley, slain in the battle with the Boers at Spitzkop. Throughout Europe the Boer victory has had the effect of creating pro-Boer sentiment. The radicals here who are opposed to a continuation of the war have appointed a deputation to visit Mr. Gladstone and present him a memorial on the subject.

CHICAGO.—Miss Fannie Berg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Berg, and Max Weinberg were married at the home of the bride's parents, 2827 Michigan avenue, by the Rev. Dr. Hirsch of Sinai temple.

WILL I HAVE TO GO TO THE FAIR WEARING THIS?

BLUE EYES!

Chicago, March 3.—Students of heredity would be very happy if the inheritance of blue and brown eye color was as simple as it was stated to be by Dr. Clapper.

The many studies on the inheritance of eye color in man indicate that human eye color is dependent upon a number of genetic factors and that brown eye color may not be due to a single dominant factor, at least not in every case, as Dr. Clapper assumes. Authentic studies have revealed the fact that matings in which both parents are blue eyed give in the majority of cases only blue eyed children, but they also reveal the fact that a small percentage of children from such matings may be brown eyed. The situation seems to be that the heredity of human eye color has not been satisfactorily worked out. H. H.

A REMARKABLE TEACHER.

Bellwood, Ill., March 2.—Thirty-five years ago I had for my teacher in a country school in Iowa a woman whose one eye was blue and the other one brown. We pupils thought that to be very strange. In addition, she had red tinted hair and was left handed. She is still living back home. Mrs. H. N.

RURAL RACKETEERS.

Chicago, March 2.—For ten years, since the 1920 depression, a fast growing army of rural racketeers has fattened on agrarian prejudices. They blacken the names of all interests touching farm products—merchants, exchanges, railroads, and other established institutions.

Next to prohibition, rural racketeering has become the nation's most amazing industry. The formula is simple. Call together a group of farmers. Slander business in every possible way; denounce exchanges, the banks, the federal reserve system, the capitalistic press. Fill the farmers with fear and bitter hatred. Propose the remedy of coöperation and legislation; then collect smart fees from the sons of the soil and set up a hollow shell organization with most of the funds going to high salaried officers, who will rush to Washington as spokesmen for "millions of suffering farmers."

Today the most serious farm problem is that of the rural racketeers, who have grown into a vast army, eating deeper and deeper into the profits that should go direct to the farmer. E. J. D.

WHEAT TRADE ECONOMICS.

Chicago, March 2.—Senators seem to think that by abolishing trading in futures speculation would be stopped and the spread between producer and consumer narrowed. It would transfer speculation from the exchanges, where it is voluntary, to every handler of grain, where it would be compulsory, and being deprived of the insurance afforded by the exchanges they would have to figure on a larger margin of profit. This was well demonstrated by the late E. D. Hulburd, one of our leading bankers, whose bank had a large loan made to an out of town miller during the war when future trading in wheat was suspended. He asked the miller how he was protecting himself in lieu of hedging in futures and was informed that the miller was paying 20 to 30 cents less per bushel for wheat and adding $2 to $3 per barrel to the price of flour. This is equivalent to 60 to 90 cents per bushel for wheat. R. H. B.

HOW GRAIN IS MARKETED.

Chicago, March 2.—Replying to a communication by John Napier Dyer of Vincennes, Ind., in your issue of March 1, I wish to say that John is a little muddled in his figures when he states that "the members of the Board of Trade sold two thousand times as much grain in 1930 as the farmers raised." In fact, he has exaggerated the figures more than two thousand times. It probably has not occurred to him that the large volume of sales reported merely represented a certain definite quantity of grain which changed hands frequently.

To illustrate: A farmer has five thousand bushels of wheat which he decides not to speculate with by holding nor to insure himself against price fluctuations by hedging in the futures market. So he sells the wheat to his grain dealer, collects his money, and passes out of the picture. But the five thousand bushels of wheat does not. The grain dealer, having no urgent demand for it from consumers, sells it for future delivery through a member of the Board of Trade. The buyer may be a miller or an exporter insuring himself against future needs or it may be taken by an ordinary, everyday speculator who is endeavoring to make a profit. Later on he may sell it to another speculator, and so on until, perhaps, this same five thousand bushel parcel of wheat has changed hands twenty times. This would not mean that one hundred thousand bushels had been dealt in, but simply that twenty individuals or firms had dealt in the same five thousand bushels of wheat. One thousand shares of United States Steel may change hands five times in a day, but at the end of the session there are only the original one thousand shares in evidence. A house and lot may change hands five times in a day, but in the evening there is only one house and lot still on hand.

Most of the critics of the grain and stock exchanges, and the list includes some of our senators and representatives in congress, seem to know as little about the usages of trade as I know about Prof. Einstein's theories on relativity. FRANK P. O'BRIEN.

ANOTHER SUBWAY.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—Mention, a few weeks ago, was made in your column of the commercial and artistic possibilities of the west half of the loop, and in particular the possibilities of a new surface street car route on La Salle street as an improved and needed artery to the north side. We do need increased street car transportation facilities from the north side to the loop, but La Salle street seems hardly the solution. La Salle street now provides excellent facilities for fast automobile traffic in and out of the loop and it should remain the fast motor traffic boulevard for which it is intended.

The need for increased transportation could be solved by building the Market street subway, to extend across the river, under Sedgwick street and north on Lincoln Park West and Sheridan road to Lawrence avenue. This would give Chicago an express subway for traffic which it badly needs and would, with the razing of the elevated structure and the widening of Market street south of Madison street, add greatly to the beauty and commercial possibilities of the west half of the loop in competition with the east half now so proudly represented by State street and Wabash avenue.

Chicago needs a subway for its World's Fair. Is anything ever to be done about it? R. W. DAMON.

PERU STRUGGLES TO PACIFY 5,000 DEFIANT REBELS

New Junta's Envoys Open Parley with Insurgents.

BY C. N. GRIFFIS.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LIMA, Peru, March 3.—Peace or war! This is the news turbulent Peru was awaiting tonight as a commission of army officers arrived at Arequipa today by air in an effort to reach an agreement with the military insurgents in the south. The new junta's emissaries were headed by Col. Ricardo Llona, former minister of war, and Col. German Yanez, former chief of the general staff.

They sped for the rebel stronghold yesterday after two red winged fighting planes from the south dropped leaflets on Lima announcing the insurgents' refusal to accept the new junta, which overthrew Lieut. Col. Luis M. Sanchez Cerro as provisional president.

The defiant insurgent chieftains, in refusing to collaborate with Provisional President Elias, have yielded to the extent of discussing the matter.

12,000 Troops Under Arms.

A résumé of the military and naval position today indicates possibilities of an early continuance of the civil war.

The rebel forces, with their base at Arequipa, hold the entire southern part of Peru. They have over 5,000 troops garrisoned at Arequipa, Tacna, Mollendo, Puno, and Cusco.

Loyal naval and aviation forces, with bases at Pisco and Paracas bay numbering 2,500 men, are still holding the transports Rimac and Apurimac, which were ordered to carry an expeditionary force to crush the southern rebels last week.

Future Depends on Parley.

In the north Col. Eulogio Castillo is in command of 1,500 troops, ready to launch them at the rebel forces there.

Men under arms in the capital number 3,000.

And all are anxiously awaiting the developments of the negotiations between the junta and the rebels in the south.

The new junta was made complete today with the administering of the oath to the third member. He is Capt. Alejandro Vinces, naval representative, and the man who engineered the coup d'état to oust Sanchez Cerro.

Sanchez Cerro left Hotel Bolivar last night and is now at the Lima country club. It is generally reported that he will leave the capital "on a special mission to Europe" within a day or two.

MERCHANT, 83, FALLS DEAD.

Joseph Krasne, 83 years old, 6750 South Richland avenue, an egg merchant, fell dead yesterday in front of 155 South Water street. Death apparently was due to heart disease.

Wounded by Bandits

MRS. RAE KRAMER MORRIS L. KRAMER

Morris L. Kramer, 30 years old, and his wife, Rae, 29, were wounded last night in Kramer's tailor shop at 923 North Leavitt street because they did not hand over money to two gunmen who tried to rob them. A bullet struck Mrs. Kramer in the left leg, while Kramer was shot in both legs.

The children of the couple, Riva, 11 years old, and Joseph, 2, witnessed the shooting. Kramer said that the men became angry when he told them he had no money. The gunmen fled after the shooting. Kramer and his wife were taken to St. Mary's hospital.

UDELL, NO. SHORE PUBLISHER, NAMED IN A TRUE BILL

Twenty-three true bills were returned by the Lake county grand jury in its final report, turned over to Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady at Waukegan yesterday.

One of the bills was against Paul Udell, assistant supervisor of Deerfield township and publisher of the Lake Forester and the Highland Park Press. On Feb. 11 an automobile driven by Udell struck George James Shaw, 6 years old, of Highland Park, near a school, and the child is still in a serious condition. Udell is charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

Other indicted included Frank Dzan, alleged to be the leader of the four robbers who held up the Mundelein State bank on Dec. 6 and escaped with $3,500, and three men now under arrest in Cook county. They are Stewart Randall, George Nelson, and Harry Lewis, who have confessed that they broke into the home of Stuart J. Templeton in Lake Forest about a year ago and carried away jewelry valued at $5,500.

Careless Smokers Blamed for 3,262 Fires in 1930

The careless discarding of burning matches, cigars, and cigarets was blamed for causing 3,262 of the 25,331 fires in Chicago during 1930 in the annual report of Fire Commissioner Goodrich, submitted to the city council yesterday. The backfire of automobiles caused 1,342 fires, according to the report, which added that 14,812 fires occurred outside of buildings.

COUNT SUES HIS CHICAGO WIFE FOR ANNULMENT

Sues Macklins for $500,000 for Lost Affections.

Count Aurelian Popesco, Rumanian portrait artist, who for more than a year has been busy opposing divorce actions brought by his wife, Mary Macklin Popesco, began proceedings yesterday to annul their marriage. His bill filed in the Superior court alleges that they never lived as man and wife and that the countess left him two weeks after their marriage.

At the same time Popesco, through his attorney, Albert Sabath, filed another suit against his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Macklin of Chicago and Beverly Hills, charging that they alienated the affections of his wife and asking for damages of $500,000.

Mr. Macklin is a wealthy art dealer and has operated galleries throughout the art centers of the world for more than 40 years. Popesco is the artist who has done portraits of Queen Marie of Rumania and one of former President Leguia of Peru.

Opposes Paris Divorce.

According to Attorney Sabath his client is now en route to Europe to contest a divorce suit which the countess is reported to have started in the Paris courts. In December of 1929, six months after their marriage in the bride's home in Beverly Hills, the countess sued for divorce, charging cruelty and alleging that the count made her live in a small hotel room, do her own washing and eat in cheap restaurants.

Popesco and his attorney hurried to California at that time and filed an answer denying all the wife's charges. His wife withdrew her suit shortly afterwards.

Blames Parental Objections.

Both the annulment bill and alienation of affections suit filed by Popesco charge that the objections of Mr. and Mrs. Macklin to their daughter's marriage caused her to leave him two weeks after the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Macklin have resided in California for several years.

The countess is well known in Chicago. She attended Ferry Hall in Lake Forest, Marywood school in Evanston, and St. Joseph's academy in St. Augustine, Fla. Her husband is a native of Bucharest and studied in the Latin quarter in Paris. He received the grand prix at the Beaux Arts in 1914.

2 Slug and Rob 2 Women in Their Homes; 1 Seized

Two women were robbed and slugged in their homes last night by two youthful bandits, one of whom was captured by the police. The first victim was Miss Jane Drell, 3453 Fulton street, who was robbed of $75 in the hallway of her home after she had been struck over the head with a piece of pipe. In the second robbery Mrs. Nellie Selberg, 3241 West Adams street was slugged with a pistol and robbed of $25 after she had admitted the men, thinking they were friends of her husband. One of the robbers, who gave the name of Frank Cernacchi, 18 years old, 310 South Campbell avenue, was captured as he fled.

The detail was assigned during the primary election campaign to protect Serritella. WIFE DIVORCES TREVISAN, BASSO OF CIVIC OPERA

Vittorio Trevisan, basso of the Chicago Civic Opera company, was divorced yesterday by Mrs. Celia M. Trevisan, 1155 North Dearborn street, in Superior Judge Desort's court. The decree was granted on grounds of cruelty.

Mrs. Trevisan, who often acted as her husband's accompanist, originally sued for separate maintenance on grounds of cruelty and nonsupport. Through her attorneys, Socrates and Davis, she charged that her husband failed to clothe her properly and compelled her to shop in the bargain basements.

She testified yesterday that her husband struck her when she refused to accompany him to an Italian restaurant. A property settlement has been arranged out of court, the attorneys said. The Trevisans were married on June 27, 1923, and separated in March, 1930. Trevisan lives at Ravinia Park.

His opponent is Mayor Charles H. Bartlett. Dr. Ernest McEwen, physician to Mr. Hahn, said the latter would be able to conduct a quiet campaign.

5 MEN CLAIMING EVANSTON HOTEL ARE ARRESTED

Five men, who had taken rooms in the Elmgate hotel, 823 Main street, Evanston, on Monday night and announced they were custodians for unnamed persons who held a sheriff's deed for the hotel, were arrested last night on John Doe warrants charging disorderly conduct, sworn out by Herman S. Strauss, trustee for the bondholders of the hotel.

The case will be heard today by Police Magistrate Porter of Evanston. Harold Mulkes, attorney for the holders of the sheriff's deed, demanded possession of the hotel. The bondholders, through Mr. Strauss, assert that an injunction was obtained two years ago nullifying the deed. Mr. Mulkes in turn contends the injunction was dissolved a month ago in the Circuit court. The five defendants were released on bail of $500 each.

Recess for Tea Saves Girls in Factory Blast

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 3.—(AP)—Devotion to the afternoon tea ritual saved the lives of many girl employés at the Nobel Explosive works at Deer Park today. During a storm an acid tank was struck by lightning and exploded. Windows were shattered for miles around, but there was no loss of life, since the girls working there had left the room a few minutes previously for tea. Several men received minor injuries.

WOMEN'S 8 HOUR LAW SEEN RELIEF TO JOBLESS EVIL

House Group Has Hearing on Igoe Bill.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 3.—[Special.]—The Igoe women's 8 hour bill was pressed as a measure to adjust jobs and employment to the modern machine age by labor leaders today in a hearing before the house committee on industrial affairs.

The theory that modern labor saving machinery has created a problem to be solved by the short work day and week, the position taken by William Green of the American Federation of Labor, was expounded. Miss Agnes Nestor, president of the Women's Trade Union league of Chicago, set forth that the bill, which was sponsored two years ago by her group, will be a material aid in combating unemployment.

Only advocates of the 8 hour day for women bill were on the program. Opponents will be given a hearing two weeks from today. The measure is one of five major items in labor's legislative program this year in the battle of more than twenty years' standing between the Federation of Labor and the Illinois Manufacturers' association.

Changes in Twenty Years.

"There have been many changes in the twenty years since the women's 10 hour bill was passed," said Miss Nestor. "Then only about 5 per cent of workers had an 8 hour day. Now between 50 to 75 per cent probably have the 8 hour day. When the old law was passed the general practice was the 10 hour day, now it is the 8 hour day or 48 hour week. So this bill is pretty much in accordance with the practices of the times.

"In this time of widespread unemployment, leaders are urging the shorter work day and week. The replacing of labor by machinery and increased productivity has gone beyond the dream of years ago.

"Industry will not be upset one jot by this bill. It can adjust itself easily. In fact, a great many employers already have the 8 hour day, and I think most people are rather amazed to hear there is any controversy over the 8 hour day for women."

Helps Both Sexes.

Miss Maude King of the trades and labor assembly, Galesburg, a garment worker, said that in the men's industry a ten hour day had been almost entirely discarded because it had proved nonproductive.

"Some of the largest and most successful manufacturers of overalls and other garments," she said, "have gone from the 44 hour week to the 5 day week, making a 40 hour week. This applies to both union and nonunion factories where the shorter workday has been introduced."

The health factor was dwelt upon by Victor A. Olander, secretary of the state Federation of Labor.

"Talk of equality between men and women has not often expressed itself in wages and work hours," he said. "The women's eight hour bill is necessary as a health measure for the protection of the race itself. Opponents have been the irreconcilables, the bolsheyists of American industry."

Legislator Back of It.

The new presentation of the women's eight hour bill as an adjustment to machine productivity will be argued by Reuben G. Soderstrom, president of the Illinois State Federation of Labor and state representative from La Salle.

Other speakers were Miss Tillie Pierbanek of the Industrial Girls' Club of Chicago, Dr. Nellie Ray Carroll, chairman, Women in Industry, Illinois League of Women Voters, and Mrs. Mary V. Hales, president Illinois State Women's Trade Union league.

Bill to End Death Penalty on Guilty Plea Disapproved

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 3.—[Special.]—The Libonati bills to abolish the death penalty when pleas of guilty are entered in murder and kidnaping cases lost approval in the judiciary committee late today and were sent back to the floor of the house of representatives with an unfavorable recommendation.

A red hot two hour hearing brought this result after the measures had threatened to raise the race prejudice issue and the entire question of capital punishment. The vote was 21 to 14.

Says Poor Only Are Hanged.

Roland V. Libonati [Rep., Chicago], lawyer, who has defended in many criminal trials, sponsored the bills and spoke first for them in the committee. He recited cases tending to show that judges and prosecutors take advantage of poor defendants and sentence them to death when they plead guilty because they have no money or are unfairly prosecuted. Two Chicago Negroes, Napoleon Glover and Morgan Swan, were electrocuted in just such circumstances, he charged.

Representative Truman A. Snell, Democrat and former judge from Carlinsville, then began to tell the circumstances of a Negro who had obtained a life sentence by pleading guilty to a brutal murder. Mr. Snell referred to the defendant as a "nigger."

"Pardon me, Judge Snell," Libonati corrected, "you mean a colored man, don't you?" Snell said he did.

Four Negro legislators from Chicago—George W. Blackwell, Harris B. Gaines, Charles L. Jenkins, and William E. King—all Republicans, took exception to this reference by Snell, and when the roll was taken each rose as his name was called and censured Snell for it. Snell in turn made apology.

Arguments on Both Sides.

Representative John Devine [Dem., Dixon], sided with Libonati on his bills and declared the Chicagoan told the truth when he said a monied defendant never received the death penalty when he pleaded guilty.

Representative Leroy M. Green [Rep., Rockford], battled on the other side of the question.

"I'm not sure that it wouldn't take the whipping post to get the hides of these young hoodlums," he said. "This is a time when society or the criminal must be supreme."

Representative Elmer Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago], took the same position.

Oswald Mosley, British Politician, Has Pleurisy

LONDON, March 3.—(AP)—Sir Oswald Mosley, the wealthy Socialist firebrand who is breaking away from the Laborites to form his own party, was confined to bed tonight and showed some signs of pleurisy.

Senate Passes Lincoln Park Bond Issue Bill

Springfield, Ill., March 3.—[Special.]—The senate tonight passed the Barbour bill, authorizing the Lincoln park commissioners to issue bonds in the amount of $7,000,000 for the purpose of enlarging and improving Lincoln park. The measure provides for the financing of the project of park expansion, land reclamations and outer driveway from Oak street beach northward. Not to exceed, $3,000,000 of the bonds are to be issued in 1932; $2,000,000 in 1933; $2,000,000 for 1934. The bill provides that the bonds shall be submitted to a referendum. It now goes to the house for action.

Report Rich Gold Strike Made in Ontario Mine

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., March 3.—(AP)—J. G. Harkness, engineer at the Moss mine, south of Kashabowie, reported today that an exceptionally rich gold strike had been made. The ore is 400 feet down, he said, and assays several hundred dollars to the ton.

FORD'S SECRET OF MAKING FRIENDS NOW REVEALED

His Strategy in Dealing with People Starts Nation-wide Discussion

Information recently made public about the personal life of Henry Ford has aroused widespread discussion. Definite facts have come to light about the particular methods which he uses to win people's friendship and enthusiastic loyalty.

This strategy of Ford's makes it easy for him to inspire devotion even in people whose requests he must refuse. Here, it is believed, lies one explanation of his rise from farm-boy to multi-millionaire.

Back of Ford's strategy lies one of the great secrets of personal power, a principle which anyone can use to control other people. The secret itself is one of many others revealed in a startling new book called Strategy in Handling People, written by a well-known business man working with John J. B. Morgan, brilliant Professor of Psychology at Northwestern University.

Almost overnight this remarkable book has upset many old ideas about success, money-making, personality, prestige. Through "inside" stories about two hundred of the world's greatest leaders—such men as Coolidge, Edison, Chrysler, Hoover, Schwab, Roosevelt, Rockefeller, Lincoln—you are shown the actual, simple methods which they have used to establish their influence over others, to bend people to their will. You are given methods you yourself can use—today, tomorrow—whether you are a mechanic or a bank president.

Already this astonishing book, Strategy in Handling People, has brought complete and sudden changes into the lives of many of its readers. It tells you how to win over enemies, impress people—how to sell yourself and your ideas—how to improve your personality, win social advancement and increased income. "Tremendously valuable." "Extremely interesting."—are the enthusiastic comments of such leaders as Thomas Edison, John Rashob, Walter Chrysler.

THE SIXTH JOURNEY

BY ALICE GRANT ROSMAN

SYNOPSIS.

John Falconer, a successful architect, returning home to England from Cape Town, meets Hilary Revel, author of travel books, on shipboard. During the journey home their acquaintance grows into a friendship neither wishes to end.

John tells Hilary of his daughter, Judith, born of a café singer while he was a soldier. His wife, John said, had magnanimously adopted the child. His sister, Gertrude, took charge of Judith when his wife died. Hilary suspects such magnanimity.

Hilary had taken her war invalided brother, Hugh, away from home ten years ago to give her younger sister, Christine, and brother, Steven, a better chance. Now that Hugh was dead Hilary was returning home.

INSTALLMENT IX.

A STRANGE HOMECOMING.

Steven did not make Liverpool and there was no telegram or letter for Hilary.

"I don't suppose it would have occurred to them," she said to John, "and after all it would have been absurd to meet the boat, but if they are at the train I hope they'll know me. Christine and Steven were children when I saw them last."

"Well, boat trains are uncertain at any time, so if they don't turn up I shall see you to your door and take the taxi on."

"O, no, that's ridiculous."

"Selfishness may be ridiculous, but don't refuse me the chance of seeing you as long as I can," said John.

He had booked their seats in the restaurant car and found them a compartment to themselves, but the boat train was still something of a family party, and even people to whom they had barely spoken looked in as they promenaded the corridors, to say cheerfully: "Well, good-by, if we don't see you again, and good luck."

"Seems a decent sort of island," said Tim's impertinent voice in congratulation from the door as Liverpool was left behind and the country unfolded before them.

"You're almost an Englishwoman already, I see," Falconer chaffed her.

"Never!" she declared indignantly.

"O, yes, you are. It is only the English who abuse England. Didn't you know that?"

Hilary, watching the miles flash by, was glad that the "paddocks," as Angela called them, were green and small, and that the rooks sat down in them in the old remembered way. She had almost forgotten that; and after larger and more arid countries her own seemed like a garden, ordered and restful as no other that she knew. Between the cultivated fields were squares and triangles of blazing gold—buttercups under a June sun—foxgloves were out along the hedges, the first poppies blowing in the wheat.

"Now get in and let me see you off; you've been so good to me, John Falconer."

"I must go away again some time just for the fun of coming home," Hilary said suddenly to Falconer after a long silence.

He asked promptly, "Where shall we go?" and she laughed. The sound set a new world before his eyes.

No one sought her when they reached London, and Falconer, watching her anxious glance at every approaching stranger, wanted to strangle her family and yet was elated on his own account.

"People ought not to be allowed to meet trains, anyway," he told her. "It is a heathen custom. Come along and let us get out of this. Shall we have the hood of the taxi down?"

"O, please, and drive through the park."

She smiled so steadily that he cursed his own suggestions, longing to take her into his arms and comfort her, but of course that wouldn't do. It was not fair to rush her at such a moment, or indeed at all, she must be allowed to get back into a normal world and see him with the eyes of it.

"When may I ring you up?" he asked as the taxi turned into Cromwell road and drew up before a tall house.

"As soon as you have time."

She stood beside him on the footpath as the driver carried her rugs and suitcase to the door, then added coaxingly:

"Now get in and let me see you off, please, you've been so good to me, John Falconer."

Running up the steps, she waved to him as he drove away.

The door looked strange to her and her heart missed a beat lest they should have moved away. Then she saw two smaller doors inside, and she realised the house had been converted into flats. She was sure they had never told her, but their letters had always been rather sketchy and sometimes, of late years, many months apart. . . . And then full of allusions they expected her to understand.

Hilary pushed the bell marked Ferguson, feeling for some reason she could not explain more frightened than she had ever felt in her life. Was there something wrong? Were they all ill or dead? A maid opened the door, hesitated at sight of her luggage, then carried it in smiling.

"You're expected, miss, will you please step upstairs?"

"O, we're upstairs, are we," said Hilary with relief, and complied. The thought of a flat downstairs had been infinitely depressing.

"Hilary, my dear, you've come?"

At sound of the old familiar emphasis, the girl ran forward with a laugh and caught her mother in her arms.

"Mother, this is ridiculous, you are younger than I am!"

"Yes, darling, but I always was," said Mrs. Ferguson, pouting prettily and smoothing her shingled hair. She was a slender woman, beautifully turned out, and wearing always a deceptive air of helpfulness about her. Like most women of this type she generally succeeded in getting her own way, but she chose to paint herself as the victim of a ruthless world.

"Is that luggage?" she exclaimed as the maid appeared carrying Hilary's things.

"Only my suitcase, the trunks are coming later."

"But, darling," wailed Mrs. Ferguson, "I thought of course you'd go to a hotel!"

"Mother!" Hilary dropped into a chair in her consternation. "I never want to see a hotel again as long as I live," she cried desperately. "I've come home, you must let me stay, if I sleep in the bath."

"O, not in the bath!" said Mrs. Ferguson, horrified. "We'll put you in with Christine until I can turn round and see what is to be done. It was only for your own comfort. You are so famous and such a traveler. And you know how crowded we are."

"I didn't even know you'd turned the house into flats," said Hilary, faintly smiling.

"Of course, darling—not a flat, a maisonette. Everybody does it. People don't live in houses any more, what with the cost of everything, and servants, and taxes, and the children wanting so much."

"Where are they?" asked Hilary wistfully. "Don't say they went to meet me after all, and we missed?"

She was suddenly hopeful, but her mother explained vaguely: "O, no, dear, I don't think so. Steven is at one of his lectures, I daresay, and I don't know where Christine is—I never do know. She wants her father to send her to Paris to study art, but you know how obstinate he is. We must get you to speak to him, Hilary. Now come along and let me show you everything."

Hilary followed the vigorous figure, wondering whether she had been away ten weeks or ten years. Her mother had welcomed her agreeably yet without excitement, and she had not even mentioned Hugh, who would never come home again. Hilary, who had dreaded conventional tears, and could have understood and forgiven an obvious avoidance of their loss, found this acceptance of it incredible. For the first time she saw her brother, not released but shut out from life by the cold hand of death.

Science Seeks Clew to Rapid Cancer Growth

Federal Tests May Aid Surgeons' Task.

Washington, D. C., March 3.—(AP)—An experiment which may furnish a clew to why cancer cells multiply so much more rapidly than normal body cells has just been completed by two scientists of the public health service. This abnormal speed of increase is essentially the reason why cancer is fatal.

The experiment showed that an amoeba, which is one type of single living cell, multiplies much more readily when stimulated by a chemical called glutathione, Dr. H. W. Chalkley explained today. Cancer tissues contain a great deal of glutathione, possibly more than any other type of tissue.

The test was performed by Dr. Chalkley and Dr. Carl Voegtlin, both on the staff of the National Institute of Health, a branch of the Public Health Service. So far as known they are the first to use glutathione in such an experiment in its pure form, Dr. Chalkley said.

They have not yet discovered whether glutathione is what stimulates cancer cells to multiply at such high speed.

The amoeba, although a single cell, is actually an individual animal capable of taking care of itself. Cells of the human body and cancer cells are more specialized, each performing a specific job and depending on the cooperation of other cells for their well-being. All three multiply in the same way, by splitting into two complete new cells.

Prof. Voegtlin and Dr. Chalkley found they could keep specimens of the amoeba alive without food for several days in a salt solution. By starving the amoeba, they knew that glutathione alone would be the cause of increase in the division that might occur when it was added to the solution.

Japanese Doll Festival Now On at Palmer House

The doll festival of the Japan-America society of Chicago opened yesterday in the Palmer house, reproducing in this city the Hina Matsuri, or girls' birthday fête, of Japan. Dolls made in Japan and representing historical figures and gods of that country are on display. The exhibit is in connection with a movement to improve trade and peace relations with Japan, according to Horace E. Coleman, secretary of the society. It will continue throughout the week.

ENGAGED?

[Associated Press Photo.]

Miss Valerie French is the granddaughter of the late earl of Ypres, Field Marshal Sir John French. It is reported that her engagement to the fourth baron of Lord Brougham and Vaux, who is 21 years old, soon will be announced. Lord Brougham was born in 1909 and last year he inherited a fortune estimated at nearly $5,000,000.

Virginia Booth Married at City Hall in Copenhagen

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, March 3.—(AP)—Miss Virginia Booth, daughter of American Ambassador Ralph H. Booth, and William D. Vogel, of New York and Milwaukee, were married today, and will be married again tomorrow at St. Albans church.

According to the law the couple went to the town hall today merely, they believed, to sign the register, and they were considerably surprised when they found this was an actual marriage.

When Burgomaster Christian Hjorth solemnly asked the bride if she would take this man for her husband, she showed some surprise, but smiled and answered affirmatively. Vogel replied likewise.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

In stories in THE TRIBUNE since Sunday reference was made to Monica Henderson, 13 years old, who gave testimony regarding drinking in a beer flat, as "a runaway student of St. Patrick's academy at Momence." The mother superior of St. Patrick's academy at Momence states, "We never had a girl by this name in the academy." The erroneous information came through court testimony, mistakenly applied.

OLDER MEN WANT TO EAT, TOO; ASK SALLY TO FIND JOBS

Day after day for many weeks, Sally Joy Brown has been puzzling over the best way to lend a helpful hand to the hundreds of older men among those who appeal to her for assistance in finding employment.

She finally decided to lay the situation before the public and find out what opportunities could be discovered for this class of unemployed. Scores of these applicants would never be classed as old except in an employment agency. Plenty of them are robust, reliable, experienced workers of middle age or just beyond, hardly realizing that their youth is gone until some employer suddenly advises, "You're too old."

There are those who are fathers of families. Others have only their wives for whom to provide. Still others, alone in the world, seek modest wages sufficient to keep them from charitable or state institutions, without being lucky enough to connect with even such positions. Sally Joy Brown is insistent in her belief that there must be jobs by the hundreds these men could fill, and fill with credit to themselves and satisfaction to their employers.

"There are watchmen's jobs," she counted yesterday, "and elevator operating jobs, and information desks, and receiving clerks, and inspection positions of various sorts. They could do light janitor work—some of them could handle a full sized janitor's job. Others, with their wives, could take charge of rooming houses for their board and room and perhaps a small salary. And plenty of other such work."

"You seem to be successful in getting jobs for others—I wonder if you can get something for me," one of these applicants wrote. "I am an elderly man, a carpenter. I can do almost anything to be done around a house or building—carpentering, painting, papering, calcimining. Can fire a boiler or do janitor work. Have plenty of tools and can give good references."

Then there is A. W., whose chief fear is that he and his aging wife will have to go to some institution where they will be separated after their many years together. He has been seeking, unsuccessfully, work as a watchman or elevator operator and in similar lines, hoping to earn just sufficient to insure that they will not become wards of the community.

W. H. is another older man, of about 65, who is alone. He is unable to do heavy work, but is neat appearing and a reliable man, who would make a first rate assistant for some janitor or at any work not requiring brawn and muscle.

A former service man, J. G., who at 45 finds himself unable to secure employment of any kind, although physically strong and willing, has grown bitter and morose about it, Sally found. He is one man she would especially like to find a job for.

Brave Are Those Resisting War, Einstein Says

Scientist Is Greeted by Pacifists in Chicago.

Dr. Albert Einstein, the originator of the theory of relativity, spent an hour in the train shed of the Union station yesterday on his way from Pasadena, Cal., to New York. He didn't spend much time talking shop. He spoke mostly to a delegation of peace advocates and gave his attention to Yvonne, the small daughter of the Frank Lloyd Wrights, who visited the Einsteins in their compartment.

After a search by pacifists and reporters, the scientist was ushered away from his guests to the rear of the train, where he stood bareheaded and read in German a speech to delegates from the Women's League of Peace and Freedom. He was given a fund of $200 by Mrs. Lola Maverick Lloyd to use as he sees fit, for pacificism.

"The developments of the last years have shown again how little we are justified to leave to the governments the fight against armaments and military spirit," Dr. Einstein told the 300 or 400 delegates. "But even the creation of huge organizations of pacifists in itself can bring us only little nearer the goal.

"I am convinced that the only way is the denial of military service. This must be supported by organizations which in different countries will materially and morally support the brave and courageous war registers.

"It is in this way that we can make the pacifist problem a vital one and that it can become a real fight which will attract strong characters. It is an illegal fight, but a fight for a real right of the people against their government when the governments demand criminal actions from their citizens."

Of Prof. A. A. Michelson's work in California Dr. Einstein has this to say:

"I have seen the work of Michelson. It is very admirable. He has accomplished things nobody thought possible only a few years ago. He is a very ingenious man.

When Dr. Einstein was asked the usual question put to visiting celebrities from abroad he replied:

"Yes, I like American people very much—except journalists." But his eyes twinkled when he added: "I like journalists who are absent, but not those who are present."

The scientist was accompanied by Mrs. Einstein, who seemed to be spending most of her time seeing that her husband got into his overcoat and getting him to pose for photographers for the 300th time in America. The Einsteins will sail soon for Germany, but they expect to return to the United States next winter, according to Frau Einstein.

Book Will Depict Story of Submarine Voyage at the Pole

New York, March 3.—(AP)—Twenty-nine copies of a book, to be prepared in advance and autographed when the party reaches the icy waters under the north pole, were added today to the cargo of the Wilkins-Ellsworth trans-arctic expedition.

An announcement by George Palmer Putnam and Sir George Hubert Wilkins said the books would be sold at $500 each. Wilkins will write the books, an advance story of the project including a description of the polar submarine Nautilus, namesake of the mythical undersea craft described by Jules Verne.

Another edition of 500 copies of the book, sections of which will be taken on the trip, scheduled to begin from here May 1, also was announced. These will be sold for $50 each.

"The amount of money received, over and above the publishing costs of the books, is to go into the expense of the expedition," said Sir Hubert.

Five hundred dollars will be returned to each of the purchasers of the special edition if the Nautilus fails to return to Seattle next October with the books intact.

THE STAGE

THE name of Helen Hayes and the title "Petticoat Influence" were added to the promises for spring playgoing yesterday. Miss Hayes will bring this comedy, in which she is having a prosperous New York run, to the Harris theater March 23.

Nell Grant, a clever young Briton, wrote the play, and Gilbert Miller staged it, with the usual distinction. Miss Hayes' company will include Henry Stephenson, John Williams, Eric Cowley, Henry Daniell, Hugh Sinclair, Mary Heberden, and Audrey Ridgwell.

Although it will find lodging at the Harris, "Petticoat Influence" will fall outside the subscription season of the Dramatic League of Chicago. Jane Cowl's current engagement at the Harris is the sixth and last offering of the league's schedule.

The play gives Miss Hayes the rôle of a captivating young woman of Mayfair [London] society who wraps a statesman around her fingers and thus participates in the management of the British empire. Her last acting in Chicago was done in "Coquette."

Otis Skinner's tour in "Marius" will come to an end next Saturday night when he completes his engagement at the Selwyn theater. The play has failed to repeat the luck of "Papa Juan" as a vehicle for the veteran star, and the company will disband. Mr. Skinner will go back home, which means New York, but as soon as the frost gets out of the Vermont hills he will probably be found on his country estate near Woodstock, enjoying the scenery which helped to from the character of Calvin Coolidge, a native of those parts. . . . And if any manager is searching for a promising young leading woman, Mary Howard of the "Marius" cast can be warmly recommended.

Word comes from the Theater Guild that talking pictures will be used in its production of "Miracle at Verdun," the German post-war drama to be presented at the Martin Beck theater, New York, March 16. The play falls into thirteen scenes, three of which will be given in the form of talking pictures. These sound-film episodes will represent the miracle of the resurrection of the armies of the dead.

"Miracle at Verdun" will soon be staged in London, Paris and Frankfurt am Main as well as New York. The Theater Guild's production will probably appear in Chicago next season.

London saw the première of an all-star "Hamlet" last night, according to a cablegram to the New York Times; but the title rôle was not acted by the star named on the programs. Henry Ainley's larynx suddenly refused to function, and Godfrey Tearle, cast as Horatio, received notice to prepare himself for the rôle of the Prince of Denmark in twenty-one hours.

Of course, Mr. Tearle knew the part, but he hadn't played it for six years; so there were loud calls for black coffee and cold towels. He studied until 5 a. m., reported for rehearsal at 10 a. m. and was ready for the opening—so ready that he didn't miss one of Hamlet's 1,300 lines.

"When Father Smiles," coming to the Cort theater March 22 with De Wolf Hopper as star, was written by a new playwright named Sheridan Gibney. Another play of his authorship, called "The Wiser They Are," has just been placed in rehearsal by that astute impresario, Jed Harris. Osgood Perkins, who acted here in Mr. Harris' staging of "Uncle Vanya," and Ruth Gordon will have the leading rôles. The first performance will take place in Newark March 23.

Beppie De Vries, the prima donna from Holland who sang the title rôle in the revival of "The Merry Widow" last season, has found employment as the star of a musical comedy of the "intimate" type called "Accidentally Yours." Baltimore will see it first, on March 16. C. C.

King as Fleet Commander Holds Year's First Levee

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, March 3.—[Special.]—King George, bareheaded and in the full dress uniform of an admiral of the fleet drove in state to St. James's palace today. There he held the year's first levee in the magnificent white and gold throne room. Crowds lining the streets saw the king riding in a landau with the earl of Granard, master of horse. After the ceremony, lasting half an hour, the king drove back to Buckingham palace.

Chicago Is Seen as Rugged Man, Helpful, Too

"Breezy, Loud, Affable," Is Architect's Idea.

Chicago was incorporated as a city in 1837, 94 years ago today, with a population of 4,170, and its first mayor was William B. Ogden. "The merchandise imported into Chicago in the year 1836, one year before its incorporation, amounted in weight to 28,000 tons," reads an extract from an article on Chicago written in 1837. "The merchandise was valued at upwards of three millions of dollars." To an ambitious early arrival this city did not appeal, so he took up land that became Michigan City, Ind., and E. T. Meredith, recently a secretary of agriculture, wrote for the present head of the municipal reference library, that except for the enterprise of its citizens, "Michigan City might have been Chicago." The Chicago Historical society yesterday displayed several articles, including a gavel used at the first city council meeting.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 3.—[Special.]—A group of those fellows who design skyscrapers, county courthouses, museums, and other imposing edifices got together over their milk and crackers in several towns today and began to discuss the personalities of cities—a matter that O. Henry went into at length in a story years ago.

The architects called their discussion a symposium and it was directed by the committee on city and regional planning of the American Institute of Architects. This is what Dr. Daniel L. Marsh, president of Boston university, told the blueprint men:

"Boston is a tall, quiet, gray haired man, lean and dignified. I conceive of Boston as a man straight and imposing in bearing, neatly but not gaudily dressed, and quietspoken.

"I think of New York as a big, bloated, rather uncouth man, self-centered and wrapped in the cloak of self-interest, pushing another aside at the ticket windows to see that he himself is served first; tramping on the feet of others without offering an apology.

"In my mind Chicago is a thick-set, stockily built, breezy, loud, somewhat braggart man, but affable, enthusiastic, and ready to help a fellow carry his burdens.

"The subtle, psychological atmosphere of a city is that which constitutes its chief charm. The places of greatest charm in Massachusetts are those that have become shrines of patriotism or of culture. This is naturally more so in Massachusetts than it could be in any other state."

Henry Vincent Hubbard, professor of landscape architecture in Harvard university, expressed the opinion that all of our cities were striving for beauty—out of necessity.

"Metropolitan cities cannot afford to be ugly," said Prof. Hubbard. "The contributions which zoning and planning control are making to the orderly appearance of our big towns are undoubted factors in their greater attracting power."

Fletcher Steele, the architect, expressed the opinion that the individuality of a city depends on the intensity with which it develops and maintains the tendencies peculiar to it. Chicago's city planning was praised by the architects.

"Individuality," said Mr. Steele, "is not necessarily an endearing or beautiful trait. The vast dinginess of Philadelphia is quite as peculiar as its noble suburbs.

"Physical environment may be the decisive factor, as in Portland, Me., which by its parks and promenades has emphasized the splendid beauty with which it has risen out of the sea. Boston has always faced inward—toward the Common—not outward to the sea or hills. Its individuality lies more truly in its state of mind—a repugnance toward too quick change."

Jews Observe Purim; Will Present Biblical Drama

The Feast of Purim, or the Feast of Lots, began last night among Jews throughout the world. The feast, a joyous one, centers about the historical significance of Queen Esther, a Jewess who, as queen to the King Ahasuerus of Persia, pleaded successfully for her people at Susa, the Persian capital, when a decree was issued against them.

A Purim play, "Esther Goss Native," was presented last night at Temple Sholom, Sheridan road and Stratford place, under the auspices of the temple men's club.

WOTTA LIFE! WOTTA LIFE!

Short-Sighted Parent Bars Doors to Her Daughter's Friends

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Part of "Arie's" letter reads: "My home environment leaves much to be desired. All is not as it should be. I can not invite any one and maintain any dignity or position.

"I hold a good position and have reason to believe I am a creditable person. My mother does not understand the importance of giving her daughter a chance socially. My father is indifferent."

The theory is that a girl with a good home background stands the best matrimonial chances. An agreeable family life is an excellent recommendation for a girl. The mother's influence is of tremendous importance. Men read into the mother's charm the daughter's graces twenty, twenty-five years hence. The home background is protective during the courtship days.

Girls lucky enough to have perfect home backgrounds rarely are to be found among the cynical ones whose cynicism is the result of unpleasant male behavior. Men occupy the position in lives of the home protected girl that they should. If father is a regular person, though he may have his faults, as all humans have, a daughter's attitude toward men in general is patterned after her kindly, wholesome relationship with her father or with agreeable brothers.

But the tragedy for many girls is that the home is not the recommendation it could so well be.

Honors Senator Walsh.

Kankakee, Ill., March 3.—(AP)—The administrative board of St. Viator's college announced today that an honorary doctor of laws degree had been conferred upon United States Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Coax a Declaration.

"Dear Miss Blake: The boy I love pays a great deal of attention to me, but has never told me he loves me. Please advise. E. R."

The way to encourage such a declaration is to welcome his attentions and show your appreciation rather profusely.

Phoenix Gets Large Colony from Chicago

BY THALIA

HERE'S more about the fascinations of Phoenix, whither so many of our townsfellows have trekked for winter vacations. The word picture I got of the luncheon hour scene at the Arizona-Biltmore the day Mr. and Mrs. William J. Chalmers arrived best illustrates the size of the Chicago colony there. Nearly half the people in the immense dining room—it's about a city block long—were friends of the Chalmerses and stopped at their table to greet them.

Among others there that day were the George A. Carpenters, Billy Fuller, James Minotto, Mrs. William Pullman, the John H. McIlvaines, Mr. and Mrs. Moise Dreyfus.

The Noble B. Judahs' twins are at the Biltmore, while the Judahs are in Europe, and spend most of their time riding, as everybody does there, for that matter.

One of the most remarkable facts about Jarvis Hunt's stunning place is that eight months ago the land where it now stands was nothing but cactus covered desert. The building is dark gray adobe, unusual because most of the houses are glaring white or one of several shades of cream color or weathered tan, and its furnishings are fashionable Spanish type things that Mr. Hunt brought back from Europe last summer. The estate is situated in Arcadia, the fashionable new suburb about 15 minutes out of Phoenix, and it has a gorgeous view of Camelback mountain (named so because it looks exactly like a dromedary in silhouette), the sunsets, and also of Superstition mountain, another of the most beautiful mountains in the vicinity (it looks like a fairy castle).

There's a guest house, and the living room of the main building is two stories high, also an unusual feature. On the grounds there is a wonderful sand surface croquet court, and Mr. Hunt divides his time between working in the cactus garden and very spirited croquet matches that he organizes every day.

How's Better Way to Hide Light than Under Bushel.

The tenor of Arizona days must be pleasant and effortless. A few days ago Mr. Hunt's daughter, Louise, bet Bill $10 that he couldn't hide the flashlight in the living room so that she couldn't find it. She hunted high and low all during the evening, and finally gave up, forfeiting her bet. Next day, she entered the room to discover her father and the chauffeur covered with soot from head to toe. He had hidden the flashlight up inside the fireplace and couldn't retrieve it. A little later when callers arrived, they were told that it would be some time before Mr. Hunt could put in an appearance.

Gaylo Bragdon, who is to give a lecture on "Skyscrapers" at the Arts club tomorrow morning, arrives today, and will be pretty busy going places during his Chicago visit. Oskar Kaufmann is to give a tea for him at his studio on Elm street this afternoon, and Mrs. John Paul Welling is having him for dinner this evening. Tomorrow, after the lecture, John B. Storrs is entertaining at a small luncheon at which he'll be guest of honor.

To and fro . . . Mrs. Victor C. Sanborn and her daughter, Mrs. Morrow Kean, are back from their motor trip through the west and southwest, their return accelerated, alas, by an unfortunate accident—Mrs. Sanborn broke one of the bones in her elbow and is at St. Luke's to have it X-rayed and set for a day or two before going out to Lake Forest. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Rawleigh Warner departed for San Diego yesterday on the California Limited, and Mrs. Edward Everett Ayer is taking the same train for Pasadena on the 15th. . . . Robert M. Hutchins has rejoined Mrs. Hutchins in Arizona . . . and the Adolph O. Hartmanns have returned from a three weeks' sojourn in Palm Beach.

Mrs. Douglas Harvey came on to Chicago with Miss Virginia Pope for the burial yesterday of Miss Pope's mother, Mrs. Francis Pope, and is returning to New York to be with her for a time. Mrs. Pope was a former Chicagoan, having moved east with her daughter about 10 years ago. She was Miss Betty Hamilton before her marriage and a great belle here. Miss Pope is a feature writer for the New York Times.

Lake Forest Women Voters Discuss "Causes, Cure of War."

Community life in Lake Forest . . . The L. F. League of Women Voters is having a series of study classes, the second of which was held yesterday morning at the residence of Mrs. George W. Blossom Jr., with "The Cause and Cure of War" the subject under discussion. . . . Gilbert E. Porter III., chairman of the Lake Forest district of the Boy Scout committee, has been elected vice president of the North Shore Area council.

Affairs . . . Mrs. Luther W. Bodman has invited members and friends of the American Waldensian Aid society for tea at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at her residence at 70 Scott street; the Rev. Signor Guido R. Bergesio is to speak. . . . Wells college alumnae who are having luncheons after the benefit lecture at the Bendix gallories next Monday morning include Mrs. Robert G. Graf and Mrs. George H. McMurray.

Mr. Rockefeller attended the Taft school and was graduated from Yale in 1928. He is associated with the Chatham-Phenix National Bank and Trust company.

His grandfather was associated with John D. Rockefeller and headed the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

SPOKESMAN OF DUCE DENIES POPE'S CHARGE OF STAGE 'IMMORALITY'

ROME, March 3.—(AP)—Pope Pius' recent criticism of the "immorality" of the theater and press in Italy, and the failure to respect Sunday as a holy day, was answered in the chamber of deputies today by Premier Mussolini's spokesman, Leandro Arpinti, under secretary of state.

Sig. Arpinati, presenting Mussolini's budget for the minister of the interior, denied the papal allegations and said he did not want the theater controlled by "professional masters of morals" or by "professional moralists."

The theater in Italy, he asserted, was as good or better than in any country of the world. As far as the press was concerned, he said it was "not immoral," and he declared that the pope's comments on the nonobservance of Sunday placed too narrow an interpretation on the government's conduct.

Green and White Suits Seen Lunching at Ritz

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Green is being forecast as one of the most popular spring colors by those in the style know here. All shades of this vernal tint will be worn, running from candy-green for sports, through darker green for street wear, and back to pale Nile and mossy tones for evening.

Some of the smartest woman in Paris are wearing green combined with white. Mme. Bernstein was lunching in the Ritz the other day wearing the Lelong ensemble, sketched here, of dark green, soft surfaced wool, with cuffs and scarf of snowy ermine.

The seven-eighths sleeves with their wide ermine cuffs are also interesting. Separate ermine cravats are smarter than collars for early spring wear.

Mme. Bernstein took off her jacket for lunch, so I was able to get a peek at her frock, shown in the small sketch.

The bodice and hip yoke are worked in tucked sections like the coat, and so are the sleeves. The skirt is box plaited all round on either side of the plain front panel. The tailored belt is green suede to match green suede pumps. The double, scalloped collar of white organdy is amusingly finished by a plain tab in front. Dark green velvet hat and white suede gloves complete the distinguished effect.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Second Wearing.

Without my knowledge my kid sister had been wearing my "best" clothes to school. One Sunday I went to church in my newest dress, bought two days before.

One of my friends saw it and said, "Your sister's dress surely looks nice on you."

How could I possibly explain that it was my dress and the kid had worn it before I did? E. M.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

FLOWERS THAT KEEP BEST.

Certain flowers after they are cut and placed in water keep far longer than others. School teachers, debutantes and others in the habit of receiving flowers as well as those persons who grow and cut their own have determined this, although they rarely know the reason.

Roses, orchids, lilies, carnations, chrysanthemums, spring flowers and calendulas keep the longest, according to the findings of A. M. S. Pridham and J. C. Ratsek of the New York State College of Agriculture.

With the exception of the chrysanthemum, all of those flowers should receive a slanting cut at the base of the stem and should be placed in deep cool water which should be changed daily. The chrysanthemum stem should be mashed and then placed in cold water.

If the flowers are to be used for decoration or display in a warm room they should be removed at night and floated in a large basin of water with their stems cut slightly before returning to the vases in the morning. With this treatment the blooms should last a week or more, according to Pridham and Ratsek.

Such flowers as the poinsettia and euphorbia, that have a milky sap, should have the stem burned or plunged into boiling water immediately after cutting to prevent their bleeding to death. Violets, forget-me-nots, pansies, heliotrope, cyclamen and poppies will last from one to four days longer if they are floated in water for six hours before arranging.

Many of the common garden annuals should be left in the garden rather than taken into the house for show, the two men report, because certain blossoms are unsatisfactory as cut flowers. Among this group are listed the hollyhock, poppy, violet and cosmos.

Mother May Choose Between Neighbors and Her Children

"Keeping the Well Baby Well"—short reading references will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Here is a letter after my own heart. While we cannot always allow as complete latitude as the mother who writes this letter, it is refreshing to see some one who lives by her own convictions and is not afraid of her neighbors.

Much of the trouble people have with their children is due to their fear of what other people will think.

Here is the letter:

"Being the mother of five children all under eight years of age I have quite a problem. They are wild and I feel it best to let them run the wildness out of them, not outside of their own grounds.

"They do not want plants and gardens. They want to dig, climb, build, and because I let them do so my neighbors think it terrible that I don't keep them tied in one corner of the yard, as they do with their children. They are continuously calling to their children 'Keep off the grass' in the summer, while I don't bother to plant grass to keep my children off. I let them enjoy their yard as they choose.

"Do you think I am right or wrong? I enjoy your articles and they help me very much."

To give children a square deal, as regards physical freedom, is difficult, because we don't want wrecked, unsightly homes or gardens. But we must make allowances and some definite provision for their natural activities if we have children.

Cast Doubt on Letter Signed "Washington"

Uxbridge, Mass., March 3.—(AP)—A letter signed "George Washington" and written to Col. Burwell Bassett of Richmond, Va., has been made public here by Mrs. Milton F. Fish, whose father acquired it during the civil war.

The missive, which discussed the writers' effort to regain his health, was inscribed "Mount Vernon, May 20th, 82." Whether the last two numerals were intended to represent "1782" was not clear, but historians scouted the possibility that it was written by Gen. George Washington at that time.

It was pointed out that Washington made his trip to the West Indies, which was mentioned in the letter as being contemplated, some 30 years before that date, or in 1751. The letter reads:

"Mount Vernon, May 20th, '82.

"The situation of my health, my dear, sir, being yet in such a state as renders father efforts absolutely necessary to re-establish it, have by the advice of many physicians, and the strenuous interposition of those of my friends who have my future happiness at heart, concluded to leave this part of the world, and try the effects of the sea air and climates of the West Indies, and expect to imbark from this tomorrow, in a vessel from Alexandria.

"The attachment which I formed for Your amiable Daughter has been the only insurmountable difficulty why I have not before made the experiment, everything that impedes so desirable a union cannot but be alimented and as the situation of my health is I hope the only interuption to it nothing in my power shall be left unessayed to effect it and on a relyance that kind Providence will crown my efforts with success, I shall be induced to persevere with a daily hope of seeing or hearing from You.

"I beg you to offer my most affectionately to Your amiable sons who will pardon my not writing the family of Study, Mrs. and Miss Steth, and all friends and I beg to be kindly remembered to with the sincerest good wishes for your health and happiness I subscribe myself.

"Very sincerely
"Yours
"GEORGE WASHINGTON."

Mr. Earle expressed a wish before his death that the letter be given to the war relic society of Amherst college if it was found.

Sophie Refuses Encores, So Paris Audience Hisses

PARIS, March 3.—(AP)—The customers booed Sophie Tucker's act when she came on at the Empire theater last night and the entertainer who had scored a triumph in earlier appearances walked off followed by hisses. The weekly Aux Ecoutes said today that the patrons were angry because the performer sings only three songs and refuses all encores regardless of the enthusiasm of the audience.

COLORFUL CLOTHES FOR MEN OFFERED AT GOTHAM STYLE SHOW

New York, March 3.—[Special.]—More than 200 garments, as colorful a collection as has ever been assembled for mere man, today were on view in the East ballroom of the Hotel Commodore. The occasion was the annual exhibit and convention of the New York Custom Cutters' club.

The apparel was designed especially for the exhibit by sixty men's tailors in New York and ranged from a 15 pound boxlike driving coat of 35 years ago, with six inch buttons and much braid, to cerise silk lounging pajamas.

The average price of the business suits on display was $140, although many run as high as $175. Evening clothes averaged $175, with a top of $225.

JUNIOR GIRL'S DRESS.

Jumper dresses are popular again, and deservedly so. They are both pretty and practical, and any number of different blouses can be worn with the same dress. Make the dress of wool crêpe, or challis, and the blouse in cotton broadcloth or crêpe de chine. Sportsweight linen and the tweedlike cottons are smart materials.

The pattern, 2965, comes in sizes 6, 8, 10, and 12 years. Size 8 requires 1⅞ yards of 39 inch material for the dress, and 1¼ yards of 35 inch contrasting for the blouse and 1⅝ yards of binding.

Here's Home-Made Rejuvenator for the Fagged Femme

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

If you want to freshen up for the debut of your Sunday evening tea or dinner dress, suppose you give yourself a milk and almond meal facial. You may not have had time during the week to get your regular facial. As a consequence you feel a bit seedy.

Or, it may be that you are not a regular habitué of beauty salons and so the facial recommended is quite in order. A facial, I think, is just about one of the most blessed morale-raisers a girl or woman may indulge in. To begin with, time is given to the performance. One is unhurried, and the general relaxation helps. And there's the psychological value that only a woman understands to be added into the sum total of benefits.

If the face is inclined to be oily, the milk and almond meal is especially helpful. And it's a nice treatment for all kinds of faces. Give yourself an hour for the performance. You may only need a half hour for the actual work, but get into the easy plenty-of-time frame of mind, which is why I recommend it, particularly, for an early Sunday afternoon performance.

Make your mixture out of almond meal and enough hot milk to form a thin paste. Have that ready; also, a mask cut out of cheese cloth, with space cut out for breathing. First, cleanse your face with cleansing cream; then wash it with soap and water to remove completely all the cleansing cream deposit.

Then, take your tissue cream and massage the face. Across the brow smooth the lines away with repeated movements. Massage with the palms along the chine line, and go on up and out to the brow and hair line. Massage the eyelids and underneath the eyes with palms lightly pressed and moving outward.

If the corners of the mouth need extra attention, give them little circular massage gestures, fingertips of both hands working simultaneously. Then remove this tissue cream. Now, you can either apply the almond meal and milk paste direct, or as some choose, dip the cheese cloth mask in the milk and cover the face with it.

Lent Day by Day

PEACE WITH GOD

Episcopal Bishop of Duluth.

If we would find our purpose in life, we must find peace, and in order to find peace we must be at peace with God. Every one knows that "pep" without purpose is perdition, and a life filled with great emotions without purpose runs amuck.

The great question of life is how to turn an existence into a living, and the first great tragic need in life is the realization that we are necessary to life, but that life is not necessary to us. Life, therefore, becomes a tremendous attempt to turn the process of living into the satisfaction of living.

Some people come to God only with their minds and not with their hearts. In my heart I know that God is, so I find Him in others, and in the world.

We have got to have God in order to save our life from being cheap and selfish. Bring Him in and He sends you forth with a dignity worth having.

Let us go out and live in the beauty of that dignity. We may know that He has a purpose for us which has given our hearts a sense of its need. "He formed us for Himself, and restless is the heart until it rests in Him."

Prayer.

O, God of Peace, who hast taught us that in returning and rest we shall be saved, in quietness and in confidence shall be our strength; by the might of thy spirit lift us, we pray thee, to thy presence, where we may be still and know that thou art God.

LENTEN NOTES

Lenten observances under the auspices of the Chicago Church federation were announced yesterday by Walter Mee, executive secretary of the federation. The announcement states that services will be held daily except Saturdays and Sundays at the Chicago temple during the two weeks preceding Easter. The services will last from 12 to 1, and leading preachers of the city have been called to the pulpit. A three hour service will be held on Good Friday. Mr. Mee's announcement pointed that the services are not sectarian. They will represent the focus of the Lenten devotions of 800 churches and 17 denominations.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Four year old Billie had spent a happy afternoon with a little neighborhood visitor. When his mother asked the child's name, he replied he did not know.

"Will you please tell me how you could play together so long without knowing each other's names?" insisted his mother.

"O, that was easy," said the resourceful Billie, "I just called her 'Hey' and she called me 'Say.'"

You will value that feeling of security Kotex gives

It is shaped to fit; it is treated to deodorize... and it is highly absorbent

WHAT you really want in sanitary protection—more than any other one thing—is a feeling of perfect safety and security. To know you are well protected, despite long hours at work, at a party, out-of-doors. To feel safe. To keep thoroughly at ease. This is one of the most important assurances Kotex gives you.

So highly absorbent

Kotex is tremendously absorbent . . . by test, five times more so than the finest of surgical cotton. And, because of its layer construction, it absorbs away from the surface, laterally — making the pad effective not in just one area but over the entire surface.

This distinguishes Kotex from the ordinary pad. Gives it far greater efficiency—and you far greater comfort.

Kotex, as you probably know, is made of Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding, fold upon fold of a delicate substance . . . each layer acting as a quick, complete absorbent in itself.

Wear it on either side

Kotex may be worn on either side with equal protection, equal comfort. No danger of embarrassment; no fear of inadequate protection.

Its softness lasts. It is treated to deodorize. It is adjustable. Hospitals use it because of its amazing absorbency.

Kotex Company, Chicago.

IN HOSPITALS:

1. The Kotex absorbent is the identical material used by surgeons in 25% of the country's leading hospitals.
2. Kotex is soft . . . Not merely an apparent softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.
3. Can be worn on either side with equal comfort. No embarrassment.
4. Disposable, instantly, completely.

Regular Kotex—45c for 12
Kotex Super-Size—65c for 12

Brings new ideals of sanitary comfort! Woven to fit by an entirely new patented process. Firm yet light; will not curl; perfect-fitting.

REPORTS ON 17 YEARS' ILLINOIS ROAD BUILDING

Highway Engineer Sheets Talks to Committee.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 3.—[Special.]—What Illinois has done in seventeen years of highway construction was related to the house roads and bridges committee this afternoon by State Highway Engineer Frank T. Sheets. His verbal report was composed of extracts from a document of 100 pages which he had compiled at the committee's request.

Asks Unhampered Work.

To his display of the gradual extension of hard roads, Mr. Sheets added an appeal that the state be allowed to continue its program unhampered—that is, that it not have road revenue tampered with. There are bills pending which would reduce the state's share of the 3 cent gasoline tax, and this would seriously curtail the program, the engineer said.

The state now has 7,702.64 miles of state bond issue roads, built at a cost of $202,895,832, Sheets said, and contemplates the expenditure of $45,000,000 this year.

The current program is the largest ever undertaken by the state, and present plans call for the entire contract letting by the end of May. The opposition, which would take 1 cent of the 2 cents the state now receives from the gas tax and give it to cities and villages, is led by the Illinois Municipal league, headed by Mayor Charles Green of Aurora. It has been expected that the league would argue its side of the question before the committee today, but consideration of the bills that would force the split was postponed.

For Administration Plan.

Sheets, instead, spoke for the administration measures introduced in the house, which would allow the state to construct roads through cities and pay a portion of the cost. About 100 miles of city streets will fall under the provisions of this legislation, Sheets said, and this "can be accomplished in a reasonable and efficient manner without seriously delaying the completion of the trunk highway system," he added.

MIDWEST SAFETY CONFERENCE TO OPEN HERE TODAY

The ninth annual midwest safety conference under the auspices of the Chicago safety council will open a two day session at the Stevens hotel today with 2,000 engineers, industrialists and civic leaders in attendance. Prof. August Vollmer of the University of Chicago will preside at the opening session. The conference will close tomorrow night with a banquet, at which Sheriff G. E. Cress of Cerro Gerdo county, Ia., will deliver the main address on the subject, "Human Safety, a National Problem."

Religious Issue Up in Illinois House

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 3.—[Special.]—Religious principles entered legislative discussion on the floor of the house of representatives today in an attempt to balk advancement of a bill which would require the treatment of all babies 'eyes against blindness.

Representative William G. Thon of Chicago had introduced the bill and today asked its advancement to third reading. It provides that at birth the eyes of each child shall be treated with a one per cent solution of silver nitrate for the prevention of blindness. The bill was on second reading, which is the amending stage.

Representative Sol P. Roderick, Chicago, presented an amendment which provided that any person could, on religious grounds, prevent the instillation of the solution. "It is a sound, healthy amendment," he said.

Termed Home Intrusion.

"This is an intrusion into the home," seconded Representative John Lee, Chicago. "I favor the amendment. We go into the home too often in this house."

The amendment was lost by a vote of 102 to 11 and the measure went to third reading.

The debate was featured by the reading of a letter which Helen Keller wrote to Speaker Shanahan pleading in behalf of the blind, that all precautions be taken to safeguard others from the affliction.

This controversy followed the regular introduction of bills which saw the presentation of a measure by Representative George Garry Noonan, Chicago, to divide Chicago into sixty wards beginning in 1933.

Favors Ward Division.

"The alderman is spiritual, financial, and domestic adviser to the people of his ward," said Noonan, in explanation. "If his ward is as large as some of them now are, he cannot do this duty. A splitup will make for better government."

Representative M. L. Igoe, Chicago, Democratic minority leader, introduced a measure to give the Chicago sanitary district the same powers as other municipal bodies to use funds in its treasury for the purchase of tax anticipation warrants.

Among bills introduced in the house today were:

H. B. 378, Chenoweth—Limits length of motor trailers to 30 instead of 65 feet motor vehicles.

H. B. 379, Chenoweth—Taxes motor buses used for hire.

H. B. 381, Edwards—Provides for retention of Supreme court commissioners.

H. B. 382, Edwards—Salary of $10,000 a year for Supreme court commissioners.

H. B. 383, Gaines—Defines bail jumping and imposes penalty.

H. B. 384, Garriott—Creates a public corporation to be known as State Bar of Illinois and regulates the practice of law.

H. B. 386, Igoe—Gives the Chicago sanitary district same powers as other municipal bodies to use funds in treasury for purchase of tax anticipation warrants.

H. B. 387, Jackson—Changes date for publication of delinquent taxes, both general and special assessment, until August, 1931.

H. B. 389, Kribs—Provides for a tax of 20 cents per pound upon oleomargarine and 14 cents on filled cheese.

H. B. 390, O'Keefe—Provides for the lump sale of real estate which are delinquent for the non-payment of taxes.

H. B. 393, Rush—Repeals certain sections of marriage act—would permit people from other states coming to this state to be married without complying with laws of state from where they came.

H. B. 398, Tice—Auditor of public accounts—$1,654,600 for biennium.

H. B. 399, Tice—Department of labor—for biennium, $1,742,770.

H. B. 400, Tice—Health department for biennium—totals $1,316,642.

H. B. 401, Tice—Department of public works and buildings biennium appropriations.

H. B. 402, Tice—Department of purchases and construction appropriations.

H. B. 403, Noonan—Provides for sixty wards in Chicago—two year terms first election in 1933—referendum.

Among 44 bills introduced in the senate this evening were:

H. B. 145, Barr—Permits state share of gas tax to be for bond issue and federal aid roads; also for state highways in municipalities, belt line roads, grade separations, and widening of roads.

H. B. 152, Dunlap—Requires motorist making left turn at highway intersections to give right of way to vehicles approaching from opposite direction; also to signal his intention.

H. B. 154, Dunlap—Provides for distribution of gas tax semi-annually, July 1 and Jan. 1, instead of annually.

H. B. 155, Dunlap—Appropriates $2,500,000 for refunds to counties under road and bridge act.

H. B. 169, Lantz—Levies tax for general revenue fund for 1931 and 1932. Authorizes reduction of levy by estimated amount from income tax 1932 if enacted.

H. B. 174, Mendel—Makes pari-mutuel or certificate method of wagering illegal under horse racing act in any county where there is a United States army or navy base hospital, United States military post, or a United States naval training station of first class.

H. B. 175, Mendel—Excludes from horse racing act the certificate method of wagering at licensed racing meetings.

H. B. 185, Macauley—Film censorship act department may reject films or views which are immoral.

LOS ANGELES IS UPSET BY SCARE OF DAM FAILING

Los Angeles, Cal., March 3.—[Special.]—Reports of continued seepage and suspected settling of one end of Fairmont dam, ninety miles northeast of here, created excitement today. Groups of investigators raced across country to the isolated site of the dam, on the edge of the Mojave desert, while officials of Los Angeles water system, of which the dam is a part, issued denials that a disaster threatened.

The dam is one of the reservoirs which stores Owens valley water for distribution to the nearer sections of Los Angeles on the city aqueduct system. The dam stores 65,000 square feet of water and is located about 15 miles farther north of the aqueduct line than the St. Francis dam which failed, with loss of 411 lives, in 1928.

Two thousand sacks of cement, and several hundred workers were rushed to the scene, water bureau officials admitted today, but W. W. Hurlbut, engineer of the system said:

Policeman Fights Gun Battle with 4 Robbers

Four men last night robbed Edward A. Horwitz, proprietor of a drug store at 4958 Chicago avenue, of $390 and escaped in an automobile after exchanging shots with Policeman John Daley, who was walking on the opposite side of the street. Daley says he saw one of the bandits stagger. Police began a search of nearby hospitals.

SENATOR PROPOSES INQUIRY INTO FAILURES OF ILLINOIS BANKS

Springfield, Ill., March 3.—[Special.]—Investigation of bank failures in Illinois is called for in a joint resolution introduced in the senate this evening by Senator Epler C. Mills of Virginia [Rep.].

It calls for the appointment of a commission of three senators and four representatives to "investigate the causes or factors which have aided in or caused the numerous bank failures in this state, the misuse of moneys deposited in such banks if there was such misuse, and the curtailment of credit.

"Such commission shall also investigate branch banking and chain banking, their financial system and operation with a view to ascertaining the feasibility of legislation pertaining to such bank and banking practices in general."

Cermak Urges Speed on Poor Relief Bond Bill

An appeal for speed in the adoption of house bill 83, now pending in the legislature, which would provide a bond issue of $2,000,000 for the county board for poor relief, was made last night by President Cermak. In telegrams to members of the legislature Cermak warned that unless assurance is given of an early passage of the bill the county will have to stop aiding the needy at once.

Easiest Way To Break Up a Cold

Millions Say of This Proved Way

Works Fast—Makes You Feel Like a New Person Before You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas or remedies. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to take chances on.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a fifty, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too,—that's all. Soon those mean, aching pains in head and body begin to go; the cold breaks up; poisons leave your system. Almost before you know it, you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now, you'll be surprised at the speed with which it works. Costs only a few cents.

"Come Back to the Station!"

You may be driving with your family some Sunday when suddenly a motorcycle policeman appears and orders you over to the side. "Turn around and come back to the station with me," is the command. "What in the world have I been doing now?" you wonder. He tells you quickly enough and you realize you have been guilty of a traffic violation.

At the station a fifty dollar cash bail is demanded. You are able to produce only twenty-five. After much frantic telephoning to friends and relatives, a friend finally is found at home.

One hundred thousand motorists travel in the sixty-two counties of Illinois and northern Indiana, comprising the territory of the Chicago Motor Club, free from the worry of not being able to supply bail in cases of alleged traffic violation. Their membership card is a bail bond.

Present your membership card to any officer in this territory, and if the bail demanded is not in excess of $100, it may be used to secure your release.

In addition to bail bond service, the club provides members with such services as these:

Free mechanical first aid and towing service at any hour of the day or night.

Travel service, which provides you with maps, logs and the most complete and up to the minute advice on road conditions.

Accident prevention work, which seeks to cut accidents, especially among school children, by means of safety posters and by fostering school boy patrols.

Home district service, which attends to special conditions around your home, such as seeing to it that refuse is promptly removed.

Insurance service, which provides the following features: The valued form policy, which in the event of total loss pays the face value of the policy. Accessories are covered without additional charge. Last year the "exchange" returned cash savings to subscribers amounting to $798,030.12. Automobile insurance sales amounted to $3,989,791.62. The policy issued covers you anywhere in the United States or Canada.

NEWSPAPER circulation can be barren or fertile or it can be a combination of both—a blend of good and bad—especially right now. But in the circulation of every newspaper there must be fertile spots, just as there are oases in the scorching desert.

But The New York Sun is all oasis, all responsive, all fertile circulation. For The Sun is read by those with sufficient income, sufficient inclination and sufficient intelligence to buy.

It is that kind of newspaper. It neither panders to the moronic emotions of the mass nor does it attempt to cater to the whims of the so-called elect. The Sun is a complete newspaper—impartial, even-tempered, well-bred, never screaming, never ranting, but always calm, judicial, constructive.

Little wonder then that the circulation of The Sun is all oasis, all fertile, all responsive. If it weren't The Sun could not print more department store advertising month after month, year after year, than any other New York newspaper. For retail advertising and retail advertising mediums have no alibis. They must deliver, and immediately, every business day of the year.

What The Sun does and has done for years for the local merchant of New York, it can accomplish for the national advertiser in every classification and for the same reasons.

CONFERENCE TO FIGHT MEDDLING WITH ATHLETICS

BY ARCH WARD.

Possibility of a break between the Western conference and the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools became apparent yesterday when it was found that several Big Ten leaders resented the recent investigation of athletics by the North Central group.

The North Central association is an academic organization composed of practically every university, college, and secondary school between the Alleghenies and the Rocky mountains, and, while it was organized primarily for the standardization of scholarship requirements, it has undertaken in recent years to regulate, among other things, administrative and financial policies and athletics. When an institution fails to meet the association's standards, the association has the power to blacklist that school, making it mandatory upon the other members to refuse to recognize credits of students transferring from the blacklisted college.

Several Consider Withdrawal.

It has extended its powers in recent years to such an extent that many institutions have been penalized for matters entirely outside the realm of scholarship. Among those that have been removed from the accredited list are West Virginia university, on the ground of subsidizing athletes; Butler university because its endowment was cut below the standard required as a result of the erection of a new stadium and fieldhouse, and Iowa Wesleyan because of "unexpected debts" of $170,000 found in an audit of the school's accounts.

According to Western conference authorities, several members of the Big Ten are ready to consider withdrawal from the North Central association. While this action may not be taken immediately, there are indications that the conference is preparing to fight the issue of athletic control to a finish.

The conflict between the two organizations dates back to the abolition of the national interscholastic basketball tournament by the University of Chicago at the insistence of the North Central association. The latter group threatened to discipline any member conducting a national meet.

Friction was heightened shortly after representatives of the North Central invaded the Big Ten to investigate the administration of athletics at Northwestern, Illinois, Chicago, Minnesota, and Ohio State.

Investigators Ordered Out.

Northwestern ordered the investigators, C. W. Savage and B. L. Stradley, off the campus. The north shore officials are said to have coöperated willingly until it became obvious that the men had fixed opinions on the way the school was conducting athletics.

Admitting they could find no irregularities of major importance, the investigators are reported to have turned their attack on the conference as a whole. They told Northwestern sport leaders that the days of athletic conferences were about over—that they had outlived their usefulness.

The North Central association recently created an athletic committee composed of President H. M. Gage of Oberlin college, President George Zook of Akron university, C. W. Savage of Oberlin, T. Nelson Metcalfe of Iowa State college, and Prof. Gilmore of Colorado university.

Financed by an appropriation from the Carnegie Foundation, the committee is investigating athletics in the member colleges, including the Big Ten, Big Six, Missouri Valley, Indiana Intercollegiate, and the Buckeye conferences.

Report to Board of Review.

Their findings are reported to a board of review made up of the following educators: President Gage of Oberlin college, President Zook of Akron, Principal George Buck of Shurtridge high school, Indianapolis; Dean John R. Effinger, University of Michigan; President W. P. Morgan, Western Illinois State Teachers' college; the Rev. W. F. Cunningham, St. Thomas college, and Dean C. S. Boucher of the University of Chicago.

The latter group has the power to penalize schools which in the committee's estimation have not lived up to the standards of the association. The punishment usually is suspension from the list of accredited schools.

The North Central association will hold its annual meeting within the next few weeks and the board of review at this time will consider the evidence gathered by the investigators. Academic and athletic leaders in Western conference schools fear that disciplinary action by the North Central will eventually destroy the Big Ten. It will be reduced to a schedule-making body with no real power to handle internal problems. Its rulings would be superseded by the larger group.

The Problems Differ.

There is a growing opinion among Big Ten officials that there are within the organization men of sufficient courage, intelligence, and honesty of purpose to govern sport efficiently. They are unable to see the necessity of coming in men from small colleges whose problems are entirely different.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The big guns of amateur boxing boomed last night at the Coliseum in the battle for Golden Gloves.

With fast stepping welterweights and middleweights in a prelude, the 175 pounder and heavyweights laid down a barrage of knockout punches which had the amateurs tumbling in both rings.

Eight thousand five hundred watched the tournament of champions. This morning eight boys remain in each weight division. And tonight the quarter finals, the windup of the Coliseum show, will eliminate half of this number. The select 32 will conclude the 1931 tournament next Wednesday at the Stadium.

Knockouts End 22 Bouts.

Forty-one bouts, 22 of them ending in knockouts, was the tune Golden Glove amateurs from five states played for the cheering thousands. The rapidity of decision ran off the program in three hours, an hour quicker than Monday night when the first weight classes jabbed and socked in the race for championships and positions on the Chicago team which invades New York on March 30.

Perhaps the big boys lacked the technique of the lighter divisions. Certainly they did not possess the speed, but none could doubt their courage. Knocked down, some rose to crash through a rival's defense to victory. Others tried and failed. To winner and loser, the crowd paid its homage in crashing applause.

From the scores of fighters, country and city, the intercity team gradually is taking form. Chicago favorites, in the main, came through to the quarter finals. Downstate boxers, too, earned their portion of honors.

Smith Knocks Out Friel.

Adam Smith, the pudgy heavyweight from Rockford, a familiar figure at Golden Gloves tournaments, declared himself in on the division title race when he knocked out Jack Friel of Chicago. Adam wasted no time. He rushed in, loosed his heaviest weapon, and Friel collapsed.

Smith's victory was a repetition of a familiar story. Others had preceded, but no knockout blow had been more effective or better delivered.

Buzz Green, Davenport's heavyweight, rose to courageous heights unsuspected. Matched against Marion Youngstafel, Vincennes, Ind., the tallest fighter in the tournament, Buzz tried to reach his opponent's jaw. But Youngstafel, retreating with a nimbleness belying his ungainliness, countered with uppercuts and short jabs to win in the third round when the referee stopped the fight.

Then there was Merrill Tonn of the Belle Plaine A. C. Don't overlook him in the big boy division.

The 175-pounders offered several worthy candidates for diamond studded Golden Gloves. Pete Smagats, champion of the Western Electric, knocked out Gus Bobinski of Michigan City in one round, but Rowe Zehms, Central A. A. U. champion from the Summerdale A. C., won a stirring four round decision from him a bit later.

Parisian Race Fans Now Can Make a Four Cent Bet

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 3.—Pari-mutuel booths have been established in handy locations in Paris to purvey horse race tickets in denominations of as little as one franc, which is about four cents, and it is simply fascinating to imagine what a boon this would be if it were adopted in New York, Chicago, Louisville, Baltimore and a number of other American cities in which people habitually bet on the races with the sanction of the law, or just bet on the races anyway.

Strangely enough, New York is one of the cities in which the people just bet anyway, there being a law. This law holds the traffic down to a few hundred millions a year, a negligible sum by comparison with the colossal amount which conjecture has fixed as the probable turnover under some pari-mutuel arrangement. Of these few hundred millions a year, the bookmakers retain something between 20 and 25 per cent.

It's Legal at the Tracks.

In the other cities named, it is legal to wager in state pari-mutuels at the horse tracks, but illegal to wager in the handbooks on the same races outside the grounds. Notwithstanding this, the law being so frail, there is much unconventional betting in forbidden precincts and by forbidden means.

The French were aware of the same problem, but the French, they are a funny race, and when they noticed that the people would persist in wagering with handbooks in town it was decided to undersell the handbooks and put them out of business. Moreover, as it was the pleasure of the people to bet even though they could not afford the time and the money to visit the tracks, it seems to have been held that to deny them facilities for doing so would be something on the order of a class discrimination.

The bookmakers were taking their customary 20 or 25 per cent off the top, and the government regarded this as a loss of potential legitimate revenue for the state.

It's Very Easy Now.

Well, anyway, it is now as easy to buy a mutuel ticket for a four cent bet in Paris as it is to buy a few cracks of cognac at a place on the corner, and what I seem to be backing around to is the point that this appears to be quite a pleasant idea and very democratic.

It has often occurred to me that there was a social injustice in the system of betting which prevails in Chicago, for instance, where a poor washerwoman, bending over her tub, thinking of a fine parlay and wishing to invest the sum of 25 cents on the same, is by law prevented from playing, or at any rate forbidden, to play her pick. She cannot afford to leave the tub, hire a cab or buy a railroad ticket to the track, buy a ticket of admission, and buy a $2 ticket on her selection.

All this, including the loss of a day's work at, say, $3 a day, and including a few snaps at a sandwich costing 40 cents, would come to roughly $17.46002, whereas under the French system she could send her little boy down to the corner for a quarter's worth or possibly as little as a nickel's worth.

Recalls Hearse Driver.

It may be argued that this would tend to degrade the morals of the little boy, but that is just another of those beloved fallacies. I know an undertaker's driver in St. Louis, as fine a hearse driver, horse or motor, as any in the country and a credit to his profession and his family, who used to go down to the corner on washdays for his mother, not once but several times a day, for 2½ cents' worth of beer in a bucket.

They sold the beer by weight, and a nickel's worth was more than the little boys could carry home at one time, even in a bucket; so, in response to a rather general demand, the neighborhood grocers all over St. Louis, who commanded the family beer trade in those days, had their own coins or tokens made in the 2½ cent denomination. If a lady sent her little boy to the corner for a chip's worth of beer with a nickel to pay for it, he got about an imperial gallon of beer and a 2½ cent chip in change.

This undertaker's driver told me of many other little boys, contemporaries of his, who had rushed the growler for their mothers in those days and assured me that they had all grown up to be respectable citizens of the town. But if the same practice were to be pursued today, the Anti-Saloon league, the child welfare concerns, the

Cling to Chance at Playoff Berth.

The Chicago Shamrocks clung tenaciously to their outside chance for representation in the American Hockey league playoff last night when they defeated Minneapolis, 7 to 2, at the Stadium. The game was faster than the score indicates. Although the victory netted them two points, it did not lift the Shamrocks out of fourth place.

The Chicagoans held the upper hand throughout, much to the edification of 6,659 partisan rooters.

Gordie Brydson, the league's leading scorer, made further strides toward the championship when he fired in two of the Shamrocks' three goals in the first period. Four minutes after the face-off he took the puck at the side of the rink, where Goalie Mike Karakas had thrown it, and raced alone to the Roamers' net, where he pulled Goalie Levine out of position for an easy shot.

Roamers on the Run.

Minneapolis was on the run throughout the period, and Brydson's other goal, on a pass from McKenzie in 14:56, was not necessary to establish the Shamrocks' superiority. McKenzie got the other goal in 10:37 on a beautiful pass from McFayden.

Young Mike Karakas, making his first start of the season, was the star of the game up until the Roamers slipped one past him in the second period. The crowd cheered each of his spectacular saves with enthusiasm.

Finally Johnson fired one which Mike attempted to smear five feet out from the net. He missed the puck and as he lay prone Collings pommeled it in at 9:24.

Headley Scores in 15:03.

Curley Headley, Shamrock defense man, bounced a pass off the boards six minutes later, picked it up on the rebound in front of the net and pitched it past Levine in 15:03. The second Shamrock goal in this period, and the fifth of the game, resulted from a fine piece of dribbling by Wiseman, who skated the length of the ice. He approached the net at full tilt, pulled Levine out of position and passed to Bobby Burns, who scored with only eight seconds to go.

The Shamrocks turned loose a barrage on Levine and on the one occasion when he got into position for a stop, MacFadyen drove a long shot between his legs. It was the sixth Shamrock score of the game and came after two minutes of the third period had expired.

Chicagoans Pepper Levine.

The crowd having become sufficiently interested in the last period to do some whole hearted cheering, the Shamrocks started to pepper Mr. Levine with malice aforethought. Clayton bounced a shot off his chest and McFadyen pitched it in as it bounded out in front of the net. The time was 14:30.

Curly Kohlman, who beat his way to Chicago during the holidays seeking a professional hockey career, and succeeded in getting a berth with Minneapolis after tryouts with the Blackhawks and Shamrocks, got the visitors' second goal on a short pass from Oneill in 16:25. Karakas was somewhere in the middle of the rink on his back, the net was totally unprotected when he scored.

HACK CLOUTS 1ST HOMER AS GOOFS DOWN REGULARS

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 3.—Hack Wilson, from time to time referred to as the home run king of the majors, this afternoon propelled his first homer of the year. It had the dramatic element of coming in the last half of the ninth, but unfortunately Hack and his mates were greatly in arrears at the time and the smack was good for nothing more than a futile score. This second of the Regulars-Goofs contest ended 10 to 6 in favor of the Goofs.

Unlike the first game of the intraclub series, when the Goofs made six errors and the Regulars none, today's competition saw each side committing three errors, thus enabling the game to be worked out on an equitable basis of pitching and hitting.

Baecht Allows Ten Hits.

It is sad to relate that this year's alleged rookie sensation, Ed Baecht, wasn't altogether sensational in his chore of the day, being spanked for 10 hits and 7 runs during his five inning tenancy. His successor as the Regulars' pitcher, Les Sweetland, did right well for three innings, during which he allowed only one hit, but fell a victim to his old Philly environment in the ninth and allowed the Goofs three runs.

Lon Warneke, the wiry Arkansas mountaineer was the most impressive performer of the day, holding the cast that expects to win the National league pennant to three runs in five innings, including an unearned one rung up by Manager Hornsby, who, incidentally, went hitless throughout the game. Warneke was succeeded by Bud Teachout, who was pretty generous in his first inning but settled down later, throwing nothing accessible except the one which Mr. Wilson knocked over the right field fence, a distance which far exceeds anything he'll have to clear for a right field homer in the National league.

Three Hits for Hack.

The homer was the third hit made by Hack. After being called out on strikes in the first inning the pudgy

It's 9:15—Biff! Bang! 2 More Champions Win, 2 More Lose

BY FRENCH LANE.

Biff! Bang! It was 9:15 at The Tribune's Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions and the excitement had reached fever heat.

The crowd had been in an uproar for nearly two hours, but at fifteen minutes past 9 o'clock up came all those 8,500 spectators shouting and shrieking. For something had happened at the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions that has never taken place at another boxing show.

The "biff" came from the south ring. The "bang" came from the north ring and two boys were knocked out almost at the same tick of the clock.

Adam Smith, the fat baker boy from Rockford, had produced the "biff" in the south ring. Jack Friel, a tough, rough Chicago boy, was down on the canvas and the referee was tolling off the count of ten.

Anthony Sutton of Peoria, a light heavyweight, was responsible for the "bang" in the north ring. George Shields, Negro boy from Danville, was flat in the rosin slumbering away with Jack Friel in the south ring and the counts of "ten" ended at the same instant.

Smith won in such powerful fashion he became the leading candidate for heavyweight honors. He's taken several wrappers off his fat stomach since last year's tournament. His punches carried more power than last year and he had the nimble footwork of a lightweight.

It's going to take a mighty man to whip Adam Smith this year.

Buzz Green, the Davenport heavyweight, and another favorite from last year's tournament, tried to share honors with Adam Smith. But Buzz ran into a regular buzz saw in Marion Youngstafel, the giant from Old Vincennes. Buzz was chopped up pretty badly by the time the third round rolled around. To save him further punishment the referee stopped it and gave the Giant from Old Vincennes credit for a technical knockout. Buzz was in a bad way, but had enough fight left to threaten to whip the referee when the bout was stopped.

Billy Guida, "the patent leather kid" from Davenport, took a mental vacation in his second bout and when knocked down early in the engagement leaped right up, then decided he needed a rest and went down again to listen to the referee's count. It disqualified him from further competition and the Davenport fans groaned.

Even Quin Ryan, the radio veteran, became excited. "I've never seen anything like it in my life," he told his W-G-N audience. "Twenty-two knockouts in 41 bouts." But when the scheduled time came for the broadcast at 10:30 the rings had been cleared and the Coliseum was almost empty. Ryan gave the results to the fans back home.

W-G-N again broadcasts tonight at 10:30 and there will be plenty of bouts left, for 32 fights in one ring make up the program.

Benton Harbor's team was the first to be entirely eliminated from the tournament. When Ralph Carnegie, the Negro Benton Harbor welterweight, lost his fight soon after last night's program opened, the Benton Harbor boys started packing up for the sad trip back home.

John Burkhart, a relative of Ernie Burkhart, Michigan City middleweight, made the trip from San Francisco to Chicago by airplane yesterday and arrived in time to see Burkhart go into action.

After last night's battles ended the publishers, editors and sports writers of the fifteen newspapers which brought teams to the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions were entertained at a banquet in the Gold Room at the Congress hotel. Stars from Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book" were among the entertainers.

While the advance ticket sale is better than any other night for the program of 32 quarter-final battles, good tickets are still on sale at The Tribune Public Service office, Madison and Dearborn streets. Hundreds are expected for tonight's battles.

Star Eastern Colts to Run at Homewood

Twenty Grand, Equipoise, Mate and many other eastern horses which gained recognition on the turf last year as two year olds, are among the entries which will race in the American Derby at Washington Park in June. The Homewood oval will open May 25 and will continue for 30 days. Entries closed Monday.

Epithet, another eastern colt which was not entered in the Kentucky Derby or the Preakness, also will compete. Epithet, owned by Gifford Cochran, triumphed over Equipoise in the Kentucky Jockey Club stakes last year.

Sun Beau and Lady Broadcast head the entry list for the Francis S. Peabody Memorial handicap which has a value of $10,000. Many leading turfmen have applied for stable room at the historic track. They are: C. V. Whitney, E. R. Bradley, Valley Lake stable, A. C. Bostwick, Theodore Mueller, Joseph M. Madden, and Thomas D. Taggart.

SHEA KNOCKS OUT FORBES IN FIRST

Flint, Mich., March 2.—(AP)—Eddie Shea, Chicago featherweight, scored a one round knockout over Harry Forbes of Indianapolis in a scheduled ten round fight here tonight. Shea shook Forbes with a left hook to the jaw with the first blow of the fight and the Hoosier never recovered.

He was floored for a count of nine with a right hand punch to the chin, but came out of it only to be knocked down with another right hander.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

PEEVISH.

Friend Arch—I won't be able to come downtown today and then go to dinner and the Golden Gloves bouts with those out of town editors, who are coöperating with us in producing the greatest of all amateur shows, so I thought I better drop you a note.

You see, Arch, that old flu sneaked up on me again and I thought I was being careful. When the doctor came and took my temperature he said for me to go right to bed, with a nurse in attendance, and there I am dictating this note to you with a croup kettle beside the bed boiling out some strange aroma so I'll be moist and I don't want to be moist and every one has some different suggestions for my supposed betterment.

And I'm real discouraged and I don't see what I ever did that the old flu should pick on me. And everything is just contrary. I wanted to go to those bouts and the doctor said I couldn't. And he said I must go to bed and I don't want to go to bed. And he said I should take aspirin if it relieved me, and I don't want to take aspirin and be relieved, and he did concede that I could eat anything I wanted to, but I don't want to eat anything I want to.

Then Mrs. Wake says I should drink more orange juice and already I've taken enough to float a battle ship. And the nurse is interrupting right now to say I should have another sponge bath, and I don't want another sponge bath. I never liked sponges anyway. And I can't smoke and I want to smoke. And I think everybody is picking on me and that nobody loves me. But what I started to tell was why I couldn't come downtown and not how I was being abused. Will let you know how I progress.

HARVEY T. WOODRUFF.

of Henry Robinson, a colored champ from South Bend, Ind., put him in the preferred class. And Jack Kranz of Gary, Ind., a member of last year's Chicago varsity, whipped Ernie Evans of Milwaukee, Wis., in three rounds. It was Evans' second defeat in 36 fights.

Frankie Knauer, Milwaukee's welterweight and pre-tournament choice of the out of town entries to win the Golden Gloves, came through in a commanding fashion. Although knocked down himself for no count, Frankie battered Leo Boyer of Vincennes, Ind., so badly in the remaining minutes that the fight was stopped in the second round.

Georgie Keenan, Chicago's most popular bet for the same weight crown, knocked out Joe Meyers of Streator, Ill., in two rounds. What a fight it will be when these lads get together!

Joe Fontana of the CI-Mad A. C., with a one round knockout and a three round decision to his credit last night, is another of an excellent crop of welters, and Johnny Phagan of the Lawndale gym, won an all colored scrap from Heywood Story of Kid Howard's Arcade at the same weight.

Decision on Petrolle Case Is Postponed

New York, March 3.—(AP)—Billy Petrolle, the conqueror, and King Tut, the vanquished, had their day in court before the New York state athletic commission today, but failed to convince the fathers there was nothing wrong with their fight in Madison Square Garden last Friday night.

The meeting, with managers, promoters, and officials, as well as fighters called on to the carpet, officially ended in a draw. The commission withheld its decision on the question of the validity of Petrolle's four round knockout of the blonde Tut, but it refused to release the money due the warriors for their work.

Chairman James A. Farley would not discuss the matter. Although Farley did not attend the match, John J. Phelan, another member of the commission, ordered the purses of the fighters withheld immediately after the bout because of common gossip that Tut was going to be knocked out, a mysterious shift in betting odds, and the King's rather lackadaisical efforts to avoid the quietus. Tut scored a 34 seconds' knockout in a previous match in St. Paul.

KENTUCKY COURT UPHOLDS STATE LAW ON MUTUELS

Frankfort, Ky., March 3.—(AP)—The constitutionality of the statute permitting pari-mutuel betting at Kentucky race tracks was upheld by the State Court of Appeals today.

In the same opinion the state's highest tribunal held that insufficient evidence had been introduced to cause forfeiture of the charters of Churchill Downs and the Latonia Jockey club, or to allow the state to recover $1,000,000 as damages from the racing associations for alleged violation of statutes prohibiting corrupt practices and lobbying.

The opinion affirmed a ruling of Jefferson Circuit court in a case instituted by Attorney General Frank Daugherty in 1927 and continued by Attorney General J. W. Cammack after he took office in 1928.

Passing on the various questions raised by the state, all of the appellate judges held pari-mutuel betting does not constitute a lottery and therefore is not illegal under the statute permitting that form of wagering at Kentucky race tracks.

FRENCH RIDERS GO INTO LEAD IN 6 DAY BIKE RACE

New York, March 3.—[Special.]—The team of Letourner and Guimbretiere, conspicuous in the night's torrid pedalling in the six day bike race, went into the lead just before midnight, when a spill in which Grimm fell, rounding the 9th avenue end of the track, called a halt in the frenzied pace in Madison Square Garden.

Four teams were tied for second position, one lap behind the leading French pair. The deadlocked quartet consisted of McNamara and Beckman, Spencer and Hill, Walthour and Walthour, and Linari and Brocardo.

BATTING ORDER IS PROBLEM FACING WHITE SOX PILOT

Reynolds' Absence Cause of Uncertainty.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 3.—Among other troubles, Donie Bush, who pilots the White Sox, is going to have difficulty deciding how his batting order should be arranged for maximum results. He tried to do something along that line today for the initial exhibition tilts on the coming week-end, but after some fancy juggling of names declared he would have to experiment before coming to a final decision.

For the coming engagement against the local club at Houston Saturday and Sunday Bush's batting layout will be much the same as it was last fall. Cissell, again a second sacker, is going to lead off. Rip Radcliff, new first baseman, will swing second followed by Mel Simons, recently purchased center fielder. Fourth place is reserved for Jovial Smead Jolley, who is due to arrive tomorrow. Below this quartet, in the order named, will be Eichrodt, right fielder [pending the signing of Carl Reynolds], Appling, kid shortstop, Third Baseman Kamm and the catcher and pitcher.

Simons to Lead Off?

After training affairs become a bit more advanced and a few games give him a better idea of new talent, Bush undoubtedly will get around to experimenting with Simons in the leadoff role. As a matter of fact the move probably would be made right from the jump if it wasn't that Reynolds, who is a third place hitter, is not on the premises. Simons occupied top batting notch while with the Colonels. Of course, if he should prove a real slugger he'd be kept down in the middle with Reynolds and Jolley. Cissell can always take over the leadoff honors if advisable.

Club officials on the job profess to be disinterested in Reynolds' demand for more salary than has been offered him to date. They were interested, however, in determining just how newspapermen learned that the fly chaser had received $8,500 last season, had been offered $10,000 and had demanded $25,000. That remains the writers' secret.

Nothing More to Offer Reynolds.

Business Manager Harry Grabiner, in answer to a query as to what the club intended to do about satisfying the youngster, replied that nothing would be done to entice the .359 hitter into the fold. He is over at Austin working with the University of Texas team. Chances are that if Reynolds doesn't gallop into town in another week he may be requested to come over for the purpose of talking business. Mr. Bush, who realizes a man of Reynolds' hitting skill cannot be spared, would follow the latter course if he could have his way in the matter.

Bush is going to take about a half dozen of his pitching squad over to Houston for two exhibitions, but just how and when they'll work will be guided principally by circumstances. The only definite thing about them is that Vic Frasier will start in one of the games. Bush thinks the young man is going to come through and wishes to work him not only for observation purposes but also to keep the young man sufficiently interested to prevent him sneaking back home from Chicago as he did a year ago. McKain or Moore will start in the other battle.

Watwood at First Base.

In drill today, conducted under a scathing sun, the infield again came in for some undivided attention from Bush. It was noticeable, however, that the manager had Watwood doing as much as Radcliff around first base. This indicates that the manager is not exactly sure the latter is going to make the grade. Thus far he has displayed a tendency to drop balls for which he has to reach.

Big Ten and North Central Near Break to settle matters with which they have had little or no experience.

What is a desirable procedure for schools like Illinois Wesleyan, Oberlin, or Columbia college might not be necessary or proper for Michigan, Illinois, or Notre Dame. It is more reasonable, sport authorities contend, that conference schools will be able to solve their own problems better than an unwieldy organization like the North Central association, which embraces most of the colleges and high schools between the Alleghenies and the Rockies and north of the Mason and Dixon line. Government of athletics, experience shows, is best exercised by homogeneous groups.

The Big Ten feels that other conferences—there are 33 within North Central territory—also are ready to fight for their existence. Whatever definitive action the Western conference takes is certain to have an important bearing on the future conduct of athletics in the central states.

SHAMROCK HEAD MAY TAKE OVER OTTAWA SKATERS

Transfer of the Ottawa franchise in the National Hockey league to Chicago, presumably to be taken over by Tom Shaughnessy, president of the Chicago Shamrocks of the American league, was rumored yesterday. The Ottawa Senators have been losing money for two years, it was reported, and are losing favor with other National club owners.

Shaughnessy conferred with Frank Calder, president of the National league, at Montreal recently, but denied that he had discussed a proposal to transfer the Ottawa franchise to Shamrock interests. The Shamrocks now hold a five year lease on the Chicago Stadium for hockey games, and it is believed that if the Ottawa team comes here the American league franchise will be abandoned.

one became angry and later rapped a double and a single. Of the three runs off Warneke, Hack drove in two with two hits and scored the other himself. In the two intraclub games to date Hack has been at bat nine times, has made a homer, double, four singles and has struck out twice.

Johnny Moore and Clarence Blair, who probably won't be Goofs very long after the National league season gets under way, each came up with three hits. Johnny also had a sacrifice which paved the way for a successful double steal by Heathcote and Barton. Blair, who wound up the first intraclub game with a homer, carried on today with a single, double, and triple. He got home on the triple, Manager Hornsby drawing an error for a throw that enabled Clarence to keep on running after he reached third.

Zack Taylor in Uniform.

Zack Taylor got back in uniform and caught the last two innings. Just to show that the flu germs didn't find him a pleasing pasture, he caught Cuyler napping off second, which is a fine accomplishment for even a catcher who never had seen a hospital.

U. S. G. A. OUTLAWS UNCONVENTIONAL DESIGNS IN CLUBS

New York, March 3.—(AP)—The United States Golf association today made it plain that it will sanction no mechanical departure in the style of golf clubs.

Through its secretary, Prescott S. Bush, the association announced adoption of a rule barring all except the straight-faced clubs.

The rule said:

"Club faces shall not embody any degree of concavity or more than one angle of loft."

The rule is a clarification of the association's attitude as expressed at the annual meeting in December.

"Adoption of the rule is merely to clarify any misapprehension as to our attitude on further inventions of the type of the sand wedge," Herbert H. Ramsay, president of the U. S. G. A., said. "It is aimed at no particular club now being used."

The policy of the association, as expressed by Mr. Ramsay at the annual meeting, is not to encourage mechanical invention as applied to the implements of the game.

"What we do seek to encourage," Mr. Ramsay said at that time, "is the development of skill in the use of the accepted implements."

Ban Johnson Weaker; No Hope for Recovery

United States treasury, and the vice squad of the police department would waylay the little boy, confiscate his mother's bucket of beer, and take advantage of his innocence to make him turn state's evidence against her and send her to prison for a long time.

Suggests Boys Learn System.

It seems fair to assume that all the little boys of the present in the communities which permit pari-mutuel betting at the tracks will become potential patrons of the ticket booths upon reaching maturity, and just as the undertaker's driver in St. Louis learned about beer in a clean, wholesome way from his mother, so, I should think, it would be a very good thing if these little boys, or tots, were to learn the facts of horse betting from their mothers, too.

The chances are that they would arrive at maturity with a much better understanding of odds, past performances, the morning line and the reputations of the owners and trainers and make fewer mistakes than if they are allowed to pick up this information from chance associates, who would be likely to give false meanings to the beautiful mysteries of the parlay and the long shot sleeper.

It's a far cry from the cow country to Broadway. But what it takes to make the broncho buster "open up" about his cigarette is exactly what you want in your smoke. Good taste—and lots of it! And that is first a matter of tobacco quality, never forget it! What you taste in Chesterfield is riper, better tobaccos—not another thing—blended and "cross-blended" to a fragrant, satisfying mildness that is Chesterfield's own!

FOR NINETEEN years, our Research Department has kept intimate touch with every new development of Science that could be applied to the manufacture of cigarettes. During this period there has been no development of tested value or importance to the smoker which we have not incorporated into the making of Chesterfield cigarettes.

CHINA MAY DROP BATTLE TO OUST FOREIGN COURTS

Political Fight Hinges on Question.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEIPING, March 3. — The rapidly growing breach in the ranks of President Chiang Kai-shek's nationalist government may result in the temporary abandonment of China's efforts to secure the removal of extra territorial rights, under which foreign nations are permitted to dispense justice to their own citizens in consular courts.

The situation, which is nearing a crisis, has alarmed foreign diplomats, although Nelson T. Johnson, American minister to China, and Sir M. W. Lampson of Great Britain are still discussing the question of gradual relinquishment of extraterritorial rights.

Hu Han-min, who resigned as president of the legislative yuan yesterday, has expressed severe dislike for Gen. Chiang's views of governing China. Minister Hu, observers state, is particularly averse to Foreign Minister C. T. Wang's strenuous efforts to gain immediate removal of consular courts. He contends that much further political tutelage of the Chinese and court reform is first essential. In the meantime, political leaders are taking sides on the subject, some favoring the removal of foreign courts, others urging they be permitted to stay.

The controversy is reaching such proportions that the Koumintang people's convention to adopt a constitution, scheduled for May 5 is endangered. The legislative chief's resignation was accepted because of his opposition to proclaiming a provisional constitution which President Chiang is urging.

S. G. CLAWSON NEW ASSISTANT U. S. ATTORNEY

Samuel G. Clawson, former assistant state's attorney, recently assistant legislative counsel for the secretary of the treasury in Washington, was appointed an assistant to United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson yesterday. Mr. Clawson's appointment followed the resignation of Cassius Poust, Mr. Johnson's first assistant, who entered private practice. Mr. Clawson will work with Dwight H. Green and Jacob Grossman in the prosecution of income tax cases.

THREE ON TRIAL FOR SLAYING OF DETROIT RADIO CAMPAIGNER

Detroit, March 3.—(AP)—The state today opened its trial of three men indicted for the slaying of Gerald E. Buckley with charges that the radio political commentator was assassinated because of his crusades against organized crime and that his killers were members of a gang that had paid $11,000 into the campaign fund of former Mayor Charles Bowles.

The three defendants, Ted Pixzino, Angelo Livecchi, and Joe Bommarito, listened calmly as Prosecutor Harry S. Toy revealed the state's theory of why and how Buckley was killed.

Buckley was slain early on the morning of July 23 as he sat in the lobby of the Hotel La Salle reading a newspaper. A short time before he had been at the microphone in the city hall broadcasting election returns which recalled Bowles from office. For three weeks prior to that time Buckley had been making nightly radio talks in behalf of the recall movement.

FULL MILITARY FUNERAL GIVEN IRWIN, JADWIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, March 3.—Canal Zone flags flew at half staff and artillery guns on both coasts boomed at intervals of a half minute today during full military funeral services conducted over the flag draped caskets of Maj. Gen. George Le Roy Irwin and Lieut. Gen. Edgar Jadwin before their bodies were placed aboard the transport St. Mihiel for shipment to New York.

Maj. Gen. Irwin, former commander of the Panama Canal division, died aboard the Italian steamer Virgilio at Port of Spain, Trinidad, on Feb. 19. Lieut. Gen. Jadwin, chairman of the interoceanic canal board, died suddenly yesterday in the midst of his work on a report on the proposed Nicaraguan canal and plans for adding a third set of locks to the Panama canal.

Planes dropped roses as the transport sailed out through the breakwater. Honorary pallbearers included Gov. Harry Burgess and Gen. Andrew Moses. The 14th infantry, as well as units from the coast artillery, escorted the bodies of the generals to the Cristobal dock.

Judge Alone to Try Boyd on Home Liquor Charges

Hollywood, Cal., March 3.—[Special.]—William H. Boyd, 45, actor who was arrested at his home by raiding patrolmen last Saturday morning, today pleaded not guilty to liquor possession charges in Municipal court. He will be tried Friday, without a jury, by Judge Curtis. Boyd is out on $1,100 bonds. Charges of possessing gambling paraphernalia were dismissed. Walter Catlett and Pat O'Brien, actors arrested with Boyd, pleaded guilty to intoxication and were fined.

8,250,000 FARMS COLLECTIVIZED IN SOVIET RUSSIA

Show Increase in Land Under Cultivation.

MOSCOW, March 3.—(AP)—The communist government will announce to the all union soviet congress on March 5 what it considers one of the most important victories of its history when it will present figures showing that 8,250,000 peasant families have been collectivized up to Feb. 20.

A summary of the report, which will be read by the commissar of agriculture, Yakublev, was published today and disclosed the assertion of the soviet authorities that 33 per cent of all the poor and middle class peasantry of Russia had been converted to the collective farm movement, and that the campaign to eliminate individual landholders was gaining momentum daily.

Show Growth in Three Years.

The growth of the movement was shown by figures for the last three years. It was declared that in 1928 400,000 families had been collectivized, in 1929 there were 1,000,000, and in 1930, 6,000,000. According to the report the principal grain producing regions, the north Caucasus, the lower Volga river valley, the middle Volga, the Ukraine, and the Crimea, had been collectivized 67 per cent.

The report shows the increase of land under cultivation in proportion to collectivization, with 2,000,000 hectares [4,900,000 acres] cultivated in 1928, 6,500,000 hectares [15,000,000 acres] in 1929; and 43,000,000 hectares [106,200,000 acres] in 1930.

Short of Machinery.

In 1930, it asserts, the individual peasant family cultivated on the average 2.7 hectares, whereas the cultivation by individual families on collective farms averaged 5.7 hectares. This increased average was attributed to machinery and cooperation.

Two difficulties of the collective movement, the report admits, are proper distribution of the income in proportion to the labor done and the lack of organization. These difficulties the soviet authorities hope to overcome soon.

Another difficulty is the lack of machinery. With only 120,000 new tractors to be delivered in 1931, the report says, many collectives will be forced to continue with horses until the big soviet machine plants reach their expected working capacity.

HOOSIERS WANT THEIR CHICKEN COOKED JUST SO

New York, March 3.—[Special.]—The fried chicken came bravely to the table at the dinner of the Indiana club of New York tonight.

Mrs. Media G. Wager gave one look and marched walters and chickens back to the kitchen. There she made the chef scrape off the batter that encrusted the meat, sprinkle flour in its place, and drop the chicken into sizzling hot butter. The diners waited an hour.

Bandits Refuse 'Change'; Leave Dairy Minus Loot

Three robbers entered a branch office of the Union Dairy company at 2621 Wilcox avenue yesterday afternoon. After ordering John Lane, the manager, and five employés to lie on the floor the leader of the trio asked Lane where the money was. He replied that it had been in the safe until a few minutes earlier, when it was taken to the bank. Lane offered him $5 he had in his own pocket, but the robber, after examining the safe and finding it empty, informed the manager that he was not interested in small change. The bandit and his companions left without loot.

Round Michigan Avenue Corners to Aid Autoists

A NATION-WIDE MILK PRICE QUIZ ORDERED BY U. S.

Washington, D. C., March 3.—(AP)—An investigation of the price of milk throughout the United States is planned by the justice department.

This action has been determined upon as a result of the senate inquiry into food prices, which resulted in a finding that in some cases the lower cost of producing milk had not been extended to the consumer.

The department announced today the investigation would be begun immediately, but detailed plans were not made public. It said an investigation of bread started last summer had resulted in lower prices in Washington and other cities.

An inquiry into the retail price of meat products also has been made. Much of the information obtained was turned over to the senate food committee.

Six More Jamaica Ginger Victims in U. S. Hospital

Santa Monica, Cal., March 3.—[Special.]—Six new cases of Jamaica ginger poisoning among the inmates of the United States Soldiers' hospital at Sawtelle were reported to county and federal health authorities. The number of stricken and paralyzed veterans is now thirty. Both federal and county inquiries are under way as to the manner in which the poisoned men obtained the beverage.

Peter Niedzwski, 27 years old, who recently shot and wounded a policeman at La Salle, Ill., was arrested yesterday in the home of a relative at 2508 South Whipple street, where he was convalescing from a slight wound suffered in the battle. He was turned over to Sheriff Walter of La Salle county.

GOOD FELLOW FUND PASSES $100,000 MARK

A spurt, in contributions, amounting to $1,415.52, yesterday sent THE TRIBUNE Good Fellow fund above $100,000 with $295.38 to spare. This money is being used to support 307 families affected by unemployment, and to tide them over until better times.

A letter from one of these families was brought to the attention of the Good Fellow department yesterday. It was written by F. A. M., the head of a household receiving Good Fellow aid.

"I wish to send my heartfelt thanks to those wonderful people who so generously donated the fund that has carried myself and family through this siege of unemployment," the letter said. "Without their timely assistance I believe mine would have been just another broken home with little hope of ever reestablishing it. As things now stand, due to the Good Fellows, there are five happy children whose health and living standards have been fully protected."

FOSTER MOTHER OF 3 JOCKEYS AND AN ACTRESS DIES

Seattle, Wash., March 3.—(AP)—Ida Herriot, 97, who reared a noted English actress and three famous jockeys, though she had no children of her own, died here today.

Albert Gettings, another adopted son, who lived with Mrs. Herriot until her death, said she counted among her foster children Grace Bellinger, star of the English stage, who died three years ago.

Tod Sloan, Dave Madison, and Alfred Lyons were her adopted sons, well known on the American turf. Sloan once was king of American riders.

Mrs. Herriot was born in Illinois in 1833. Her husband died 30 years ago.

Rum Row "Mother Ship" and $450,000 Cargo Sink

New York, March 3.—(AP)—A $450,000 rum cargo went down to Davy Jones' locker when one of the mother ships of rum row, the John Manning of Halifax, foundered 100 miles southeast of Ambrose lightship over the week-end, coast guard officers said tonight. The crew, waist deep in water before aid arrived, were taken off by speed boats engaged in transporting the rum ashore. The John Manning sprang a leak when one of the contact boats was hurled against her side by a swell, staving in a plank.

Port of Havre Tied Up by Strike of Stevedores

HAVRE, France, March 3.—(AP)—Harbor work was practically paralyzed here today by a strike of stevedores and longshoremen. Seven freighters, some carrying perishable goods, were hove to in the roads unable to unload. Several steamers for which this is usually a port of call have been diverted to other ports.

WALES FINDS U. S. SALESMEN ALSO AT WORK IN CHILE

American Goods Greet Him Wherever He Goes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, March 3. — Now that Great Britain's traveling salesman, the prince of Wales, and his chief aid, Prince George, are in Argentina, they undoubtedly feel that their efforts in Chile came in the wake of other rather successful sales talks. Because wherever the royal drummers carried the good word about empire products, they were met with a familiar slogan. "Made in U. S. A."

Even while "on the road" from town to town in Chile the princes rode in American planes or were pulled by Westinghouse Electric and Mikado steam locomotives over American built railroads. And when the prince of Wales telephoned to King George in London, he talked over American operated telephone and telegraph systems.

While Chile may have more historical ties with England, she has made America her chief business associate. Chile sells more to America than to England and most other countries combined, and buys back proportionately. The United States has also made Chile her greatest financial and industrial investment in all of South America.

For years America has been forging ahead of England in influence in Chile, wresting control of electric and telephonic services which were once directed from London. The Chilean government has also preferred American rationalized control of her vast nitrate industry to the administration of a score or more British concerns.

Yanks Run Mining Camps.

American copper mining camps employ 100,000 Chileans at high wages, and almost 50 per cent of the resident Britishers owe their livelihood to American enterprise.

For these reasons, Americans had little to fear from the competitive activities of England's salesman prince, because while Chile entertains all foreign salesmen lavishly, there are business factors such as price, quality and delivery, which have no nationality.

The princes did, however, make one call where they met no competition. That was a call on the Chilean navy. During the last five years Chile has spent more than $100,000,000 in British shipyards.

In Buenos Aires Tomorrow.

BARILOCHE, Argentina, March 3. —(AP)—The prince of Wales and Prince George today resumed their journey from western Argentina toward Buenos Aires, which they expect to reach Thursday.

ANALYZES FEB. IMPROVEMENT IN STOCK VALUES

Total Appreciation Is 11.2 Per Cent.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Stock market prices came back with a rush last month. In fact, the advance was the sharpest that has occurred in any month since the market crash in the autumn of 1929. The upturn in February, added to the earlier rebound from the low level of December, has led to much argument as to whether or not stocks have been advancing too fast.

Some interesting data along this line have been compiled by Frazier, Jelke & Co. and the Standard American corporation. The Frazier-Jelke compilation shows the accentuated advance in prices last month. The market value of 100 representative stocks on Feb. 28 totaled $24,799,877,000, compared with $22,291,355,000 on Jan. 31 and with $19,356,310,000 on Dec. 17, 1930, when the market struck bottom.

Highest Since October.

Thus the appreciation in market value last month was $2,508,522,000, or 11.2 per cent; the appreciation in January was $1,557,092,000, or 7.5 per cent, and the total appreciation since Dec. 17 has been $5,413,567,000, or about 21 per cent. This swift advance brought the total value on Feb. 28 back to the highest level reached since Sept. 30, 1930.

On the other hand, these 100 stocks are still considerably below a year ago and have recovered only about half the decline in market value that they suffered during the last 8½ months of 1930. The same stocks on Feb. 28, 1930, were valued at $32,010,129,800, or $7,210,652,000 more than at present; while on March 31, 1930, which marked the apex of recovery from the 1929 crash, they were valued at $34,817,497,000, or $10,057,820,000 more than at present. Therefore, these stocks still average about 28 per cent below the peak of 1930.

All Groups Improve.

The uniformity of last month's advance is commented on in both analyses. All of the 13 sub-groups in the Frazier-Jelke index moved up. The largest gain was 34.4 per cent in the amusement issues; the mines appreciated 27.3 per cent; electrical manufacturing, 19.2 per cent; motors, 16.6 per cent; chemicals, 14.7 per cent; utilities, 14.5 per cent; merchandising, 12 per cent; steels, 10.7 per cent; industrials, 10.2 per cent; oils, 8.6 per cent; railway equipment, 5 per cent; food, 4.9 per cent; and rails, 2.7 per cent.

"The twenty-five most active stocks on the New York Stock exchange registered a gain of more than 21 per cent during February," the Standard American corporation says. "The increase in values in this one month was almost equivalent to the entire three months' rise that took place during the first quarter of 1930."

Reduce Oil Output.

General news of trade and industry was mixed yesterday. A sharp drop in petroleum production occurred last week, following several weeks of expansion. The daily average gross crude oil output totaled 2,100,900 barrels, a decline of 64,350 barrels a day from the preceding week, according to the American Petroleum institute.

Little change in general trade is evidenced in the movement of commodities by the railroads. Loading of revenue freight for the week ended Feb. 21 totaled 713,938 cars, a decline of 6,781 from the preceding week and also a decrease of 113,622 from the corresponding week in 1930.

Will Ask Trade Commission to Rescind Oil Code Order

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Following a recommendation by the marketing committee in closed session, the board of directors of the American Petroleum Institute yesterday voted unanimously to petition the federal trade commission to rescind its order to set aside the petroleum code of marketing practice. The trade commission's ruling is to take effect April 8.

E. B. REESER.

In the meantime the board of directors requested the 16,000 companies and individuals signing the code to continue their adherence pending the final action of the commission and the institute. Legal counsel assisting the nation's petroleum leaders, who are holding their meetings at the Stevens hotel, gave the opinion that the code in all substantial respects is lawful and that its observance involves no violation of the anti-trust laws.

Will Appoint Committee.

E. B. Reeser, president of the institute, today is to appoint a committee of five to discuss with the federal trade commission the retention of the code upon such terms as the commission may approve and subject to the approval of the institute. Should the commission refuse to rescind its order the institute will thereupon decide on a plan of action.

The marketing committee, which met under the chairmanship of Edward G. Seubert, president of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, cited a number of reasons why the existing code should be retained. It was pointed out that it is the purpose of the code to reduce the cost of distribution and the cost of petroleum products to the ultimate consumer.

In its report to the board of directors the committee stated that it costs more to deliver gasoline from the refiner to the consumer than it costs to produce the gasoline at the refinery. This is partly due, it is stated, to the multiplicity of outlets. For example, information shows that there are two and seven-tenths gasoline pumps to every mile if highway in the United States.

Cite Unfair Practices.

Further, the code was described as substituting open and honest competition for secret and unfair competition; preventing unfair price discrimination; preventing fraud through prohibiting misbranding, etc.

The marketing committee states that the code was filed with the federal trade commission prior to its adoption by the institute and that it was presented on Dec. 11, 1928, to the department of justice. The department of justice objected to only one rule, which was later withdrawn. At a conference in St. Louis on Feb. 11, 1928, called by the federal trade commission the code was approved. And on Aug. 31, 1929, the code was put into effect.

Watched with Interest.

It was stated that the federal trade commission has given no reason for withdrawing its approval of the code. The present discussions are being watched with interest as having an important bearing on the trade codes of other big industrial and business associations.

Among the members of the institute's board of directors who attended yesterday's meeting were the following: Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey; Edward G. Seubert; Henry M. Dawes, president of the Pure Oil company; K. R. Kingsbury, president of the Standard Oil Company of California; W. G. Skelly, president of the Skelly Oil company; J. C. Van Eck, president of the Shell Union Oil company; W. S. Farish, president of the Humble Oil and Refining company; E. B. Earheart, president of the White Star Refining company, etc.

INAUGURATE BONDED WHEAT FUTURES MART ON PRODUCE EXCHANGE

New York, March. 3.—(AP)—Spirited trading marked the inauguration of a bonded wheat futures market today by the New York Produce exchange and at the close of the market it was estimated nearly 1,000,000 bushels had changed hands.

May opened at 61½ cents and later sold up to 62⅝, strengthening in the late trading in sympathy with the stronger Winnipeg market. The low price reached was 61⅞ cents, and the May contract closed at the high for the day.

The opening of the new market was preceded by a formal ceremony presided over by H. L. Bodman, president of the produce exchange. Charles Kerrigan, assistant to Mayor James J. Walker, who was unable to attend, also spoke.

For the present trading will be confined to contracts for future delivery on the basis of delivery at Buffalo of bonded Canadian wheat.

Schwab to Defend His Steel Company's Bonus System

New York, March 3.—(AP)—Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, in a letter to stockholders today, announced he would ask them to approve his administration of the bonus system, which is being attacked in the courts, at the annual meeting April 14.

CHARLES M. SCHWAB. [Acme Photo.]

In a lengthy statement describing the profit sharing system under which Bethlehem has rewarded its executives since the present plan was approved by stockholders in 1917, the chairman of the second largest steel company in the world asserted that "the value of the incentive payment system had been justified by the results."

Details Payments.

His statement was accompanied by a detailed chart of bonus payments, which revealed that Eugene G. Grace, president, who Mr. Schwab has said is worth a million dollars a year, has received an average of $814,993 a year as a bonus since the plan was put into effect in 1918, or, roughly, $10,594,909 in the thirteen years, in addition to his annual salary of $12,000. In 1918, 1929, and 1930 he received more than a million dollars.

Average payments to other officers and department heads did not average more than $200,000 in any one year, says the chairman of the board, who was given the sole power to administer the bonus system. In 1930 fourteen men participated in the bonus.

Concerning Mr. Grace, whose bonus payments were attacked by the Eaton interests in the Youngstown Sheet and Tube injunction suit, Mr. Schwab says: "It is no disparagement to the others for me to say that Mr. Grace is the outstanding man among them, and that the principal factors in the success and prosperity of Bethlehem have been his genius, good judgment, and untiring energy."

Relation to Dividends.

Mr. Schwab contended in his statement to stockholders that there is no relation between compensation to executives and the payment of dividends. Comment has been made on the fact that bonus payments have been made in years when no dividends were paid.

"The payment of dividends is within the control of the board of directors, and not the executive officers. If dividends are paid the stockholders to that extent receive directly and immediately their share of the earnings.

"If, however, the board of directors, believing it to the best interest of the corporation, decided not to pay dividends, but to reinvest the earnings in the business, the amount so reinvested enhances the intrinsic value of the stock. No one can reasonably deny that the reinvestment of earnings in the business in lieu of paying out dividends increased the intrinsic value of the stock. Nor can any one seriously urge that the compensation of executives, which is based upon earnings, should be withheld from them merely because those earnings are thus reinvested."

Four stockholders are prosecuting a suit in Newark, N. J., protesting the bonus payments and asking the court fix reasonable sums as compensation in lieu of bonus payments, and order repayment to the corporation of the sums in excess of that allowed by the court.

May Delay Appeal Hearing.

Youngstown, O., March 3.—(AP)—Indications are that the appeal from the injunction against the merger of Bethlehem Steel corporation and Youngstown Sheet and Tube company will not be heard until June, Judge Louis D. Farr of the Appellate court said today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 3.—It was a gusty day on the stock exchange. Prices whipped about like a creaky weathervane as trading sentiment veered now this way and now that in response to a shifting mass of reports and rumors of more or less importance. The finish found figures considerably mixed, with the majority on the minus side of the line but still somewhat above their lows of the day.

About the best that can be said of the day's tug of war is that it served to check the reaction which began last Friday afternoon, gained momentum on Saturday, and got going full blast yesterday—even though it did not result in the rebound which many observers confidently expected to follow the two day shakeout.

Place Blame for Selling.

Much of the selling which came into the leaders today was blamed on the bear crowd, which skipped out to Florida in January after beating prices to

CRANE COMPANY REPORTS 1930 NET OF $2,734,406

The Crane company dipped into surplus to pay its full dividends on common stock last year. Surplus at the close year stood at $24,116,521 as compared with $27,491,499 at the end of 1929. Consolidated net earnings of the company in 1930 were $2,734,406, equivalent after preferred dividends to 71 cents a share on the outstanding common stock. In the preceding year the company earned net profits of $11,558,985, or $4.42 a share on common stock.

That the drastic reduction in earnings is not affecting the expansion program of the company is plainly shown in the report of President R. T. Crane, Jr. During the year the company expended $8,421,000 for increasing its manufacturing and distributing facilities. These expenditures were distributed as follows: Land, $178,000; buildings, $2,570,000; equipment and machinery, $3,571,000; new branches and plants, $2,102,000.

The first delivery of potatoes purchased on the future delivery market on the Chicago mercantile exchange was made yesterday. Four cars of Idaho russet standards, bought soon after the futures trading started, were delivered on March contracts. The cars sold at $1.80 and $1.90 per one hundred pounds in February and today the same grade of potatoes are quoted at $1.50 and $1.60.

NATION-WIDE SECURITIES

FIRST THINGS FIRST

Second only to sponsorship, what is by far the most important single consideration making for the relative success or failure of any non-trading—so-called fixed or semi-fixed—investment trust?

Its portfolio.

We believe that the 77 companies whose shares comprise the portfolio of Nation-Wide Securities Company represent the soundest and most progressive elements of American industry.

The portfolio is intelligently balanced. The amount invested in any one security has relation to its present investment quality, and the importance and prospects of the company.

Provisions exist to keep the portfolio always sound. No new company may be added except by reason of merger. Any may be eliminated whenever deemed advisable.

We urge you to ask your investment banker for details.

Why This Bank Believes In Life Insurance

REASON NUMBER SEVEN

As a member of a partnership or as a stockholder in a close corporation, it is possible for you, through the medium of insurance on the lives of yourself and your associates, to make sure that your survivors in the business will be able to pay your family in cash for your interest. Moreover, by placing this insurance in trust, you can make the purchase certain—and at a price which you, yourself, have had a hand in determining. This Bank, although it does not sell life insurance, does recommend the use of it as a means of perpetuating a going business and of guaranteeing to the owners themselves, as well as to their families, a full measure of protection

CONFUSED PRICE TRENDS FEATURE CHICAGO STOCKS

Closing Quotations Are About a Standoff.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Confused price movements marked trading on the Chicago exchange yesterday. The market was sensitive to every wind that blew and no agreement was reached as to just what way things were heading. As measured by the last quotations it was about an even break between those two conflicting and loosely organized factions, the bulls and the bears.

Perhaps the day's market reflected as accurately as is possible the difference of opinion which exists in the speculative community as to where the immediate future of the market lies. A few days ago it was generally felt that things were on the up and up and would probably continue that way. But it takes only a day or so of faltering prices to engender uneasiness in the less confident speculators. In the meantime the professionals are taking their profits where they find them with little scruple as to whether they are selling America short or buying for a bulge.

Utilize Price Fluctuations.

Most of the professional traders who are supposedly in the know are quite as much in the dark as the man in the street. And they admit it. An agility bred of experience usually enables them to utilize to their own end the major and minor turns. That not all of them are sufficiently nimble goes without saying.

The much publicized motors stocks were easier in most instances yesterday. Their losses did not, however, extend beyond a point. The trend among the utilities was much the same, although Insull Utility advanced a fraction on fairly active trade. Gains scattered throughout the list included 1¼ points for Merchants and Manufacturers and 2½ for Viking Pump.

Merchants and Manufacturers has acquired the automobile finance business of the Great Lakes Finance corporation, it was learned yesterday. The company's plans call for further expansion in this field, it is reported.

May Approve Issue.

Preference stockholders of the Construction Materials corporation will be asked to approve the issuance by the company of $1,500,000 in two year 6 per cent notes at a meeting to be held April 4. Approval of the issuance of $1,650,000 in twelve year mortgage bonds by the Sensibar Transportation company is also sought. Proceeds of the two issues would be used to retire obligations incurred in connection with improvements.

Bunte Brothers yesterday reported to the exchange that net earnings for 1930 were $302,921, equivalent after preferred dividends to $2.70 a share on the common stock. This compares with 1929 net earnings of $500,694, or $4.63 a share. Current assets of the company as of Dec. 31 were $2,116,334 and current liabilities amounted to $244,813.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, March 3.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Quiet today with the tone generally steady to firm because of the firmness in lard and the late strength in grains. Closing prices were net 1 to 7 points higher. Sales were 4,800 bls. Prime crude, 6.50c; prime summer yellow spot, 7.40c; March closed, 7.52c; May, 7.74c; July, 7.85c; September, 7.94c.

LOOKING AHEAD WITH BUSINESS

Evidence continues to pile up that a permanent improvement has manifested itself in the cotton textile industry and the time has passed when cotton goods can be had on a write-your-own-ticket basis, the bulletin of the Association of Cotton Textile merchants of New York says. Conditions which have added strength to the industry, the bulletin says, are increased efficiency in manufacturing methods, lower production costs, to meet the changed economic and competitive conditions; production brought into line with demand and a thorough liquidation of stocks.

Shipments of new Nash cars in February exceeded those of January by 64 per cent, it was announced today by C. H. Bliss, sales manager of the Nash Motors company. The factory orders received for Nash cars on March 1 revealed an increase of 53 per cent over orders for February shipments received Feb. 1, he added.

Kelvinator corporation reported that shipments for February showed an increase of 11 per cent over unit shipments for the like month of 1930.

Dodge Bros. entered March with the largest orders since May, 1930. Sales of passenger cars have been progressively larger each month since December, with more than 7,500 units sold last month. Chrysler corporation is reported to have scheduled 10,000 units for this month, against sales of about 6,000 cars in February.

Continental Construction company has awarded to the A. O. Smith corporation an additional order for 100 miles of 24 inch gas line pipe, amounting to 23,000 tons, for the Chicago Natural gas line. The order brings total pipe orders received by A. O. Smith Corp. for this line to 550 miles. When completed the line will be 900 miles long.

Steel ingot production in the Chicago territory is at 55 per cent of capacity, a gain of 2 to 3 per cent over the preceding week, Dow, Jones & Co. reports. Inland Steel Co. operations have been increased to 60 per cent, from 50 per cent, due to an accumulation of a large number of miscellaneous orders.

The Willys-Overland company entered March with the largest volume of orders for the start of any month since last May, President L. A. Miller announced last night. Car sales last month exceeded those in February, 1930, by 45 per cent.

Strength at Winnipeg Lifts New Crop Months.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Strength in Winnipeg was largely responsible for short covering yesterday in the Chicago wheat market which carried the new crop months up 1¾@1¾c after an early break, with the July down to 63¼c or within 1¾c of the lowest figures of the season.

The finish was ⅝@⅞c higher, with July, 64¾c, and September 64⅛@64⅜c. Old crop months held within narrow limits, closing unchanged to ⅛ higher, with March 79⅜c and May, 81⅛@81½c.

There was a sharp narrowing of the discount on contract grades of wheat in the sample market as the Farmers National Grain Corporation came in as a buyer of the carlots on tract, paying the price of the old style March delivery, which was about 2c under the May, compared with sales on Monday at 10¼¢ under the deferred future. Heretofore the government agencies have not been reported as buyers of cash grain on tract in the local market, although they have taken liberal quantities at Kansas City, St. Louis, Minneapolis and other markets.

Foreigners Buy Winnipeg.

The Winnipeg wheat market was very early, but turned strong later on being headed by houses with continental connections and the close was ⅝@⅞c higher, although the foreign demand for cash grain was reported as very disappointing. July there finished at 80⅜c. Liverpool cables reported the market there as easy with buyers afraid of what the farm board might do and the close was ⅞@1¼d lower, with July at 64¼c. Buenos Aires was ⅛@⅜c higher, with May at 51⅜c.

While the farm board was reported as having sold hard winter wheat for export via the gulf, the quantity was not given, and seaboard interests said that the grain had been taken by Antwerp at a price that figured around 12@12½c under Chicago May, the widest discount as compared with the future so far. Liverpool cabled that buyers there figured No. 1 hard was not worth over 74¾c, or about 4½c under what Antwerp was said to have paid, but at the same time the quotation was about 14c over the March delivery in the English market.

Short covering in corn, headed by leading local professionals caused a rally of around 1c after an early break that carried the May off to 62½c, a new low for the season. Reports that a cargo of cash corn had been sold for shipment to the east at the opening of lake navigation with further business in sight had some effect on sentiment, and the close was ⅛@1c higher with March, 60c; May, 63⅛@63¾c; July, 66⅛@⅜c, and September, 66⅛c.

Mixed Corn Easy.

Mixed corn showed an easy undertone in the sample market with a car of No. 2 sold at equal to 1⅛c under the March, while choice yellow and white gained ¼c as compared with the future. There was 75,000 bu cash grain booked to come here from other terminals, but country offerings as a whole were small. Buenos Aires closed unchanged to ⅛c lower. Broomhalls Argentine agent estimates the exportable surplus from the new crop at 275,000,000 bu.

Liquidation was on in March oats, with a break to 29c at the opening, a new low on the crop and the lowest at which any future has sold since August, 1926, when the September future sold at 28½c. Industries bought March and sold May at 2⅛c difference, and commission houses took the May on resting orders. The close was ⅛c lower to ⅛ higher, with March, 29⅞c; May, 31⅛c; July and September, 32¼c.

NEW YORK, March 3.—(AP)—COFFEE—Futures were lower today under some liquidation and trade selling prompted by the further decline in Rio Exchange No. 7 contracts closed net 4 to 10 lower. Sales, 21,750 bags. Santos contracts closed 5 to 14 lower. Sales, 61,000 bags. Closing quotations: Santos, March, 7.75c; May, 7.82c; July, 7.88c; September, 8.01c; December, 8.15c. Top yesterday, $8.20; average, $7.90.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 7,000; hogs, 16,000; sheep, 12,000.

Cattle and hogs moved slightly higher on short supplies yesterday, while lambs slumped 50@75c when 20,000 head arrived, the largest Tuesday sheep receipts since Jan. 20. Hog receipts at 16,000 were smallest for Tuesday since early last August and prices equaled the highest since early last week.

Abnormally small supplies for the time of the week were responsible for the upturn in hog prices yesterday rather than any improvement in the demand. Movement of stock was extremely slow at the 10@15c advance in spite of the strength reported in the wholesale market for fresh pork. Some of the local packers remained almost entirely out of the market.

Outside demand was fair, considering the small supply available, but 4,000 were estimated left at the close after orders had been filled. The extreme top and general average prices showed 10c gain at $7.50 and $7.10, respectively.

Hog Futures Higher.

Gains of 25c were scored on the hog futures market yesterday, although trading was slow at the higher quotations. May light weights sold at $8.25, against $8.00 on Monday's trade. April light were bid $8.00 and offered at $8.50, while mediums for that month were offered at $7.75 and bid $7.50. Contracts for light, mediums, and heavy were offered at $9.50 and bid $8.50. On the "to arrive" market light weights for today were bid $7.75, mediums $7.25, and heavy $7.00.

Salesmen held most of the advantage in the cattle market again yesterday and forced quotations slightly higher. Supplies at all leading points continue to run below normal for the time of year. The twenty market total for the first two days of this week at 83,000 shows a 25 per cent decrease compared with a year ago and 13 per cent decrease compared with two years ago.

The year to date total at the 20 points at 1,590,000 shows a decrease of 192,000 head or 11 per cent, compared with the corresponding period in 1930, and is 275,000 below the three year average for that period. Prevailing quotations show gains of mostly 50c since the low spot ten days ago. Prime 1,430 lb steers topped the market yesterday at $11.00, with the bulk of sales for the first two days of the week at $7.00@10.00, comparing with $7.00@9.00 a week ago.

Top Lambs Below $9.00.

Larger receipts enabled buyers to erase much of the gain scored on recent sessions and top prices dropped below the $9.00 line again yesterday. City butchers and shippers bought choice light at $8.90, while most of the 90@100 lb averages went to packers at $8.00@8.65. Aged sheep ruled weak to 25c lower, while yearlings were scarce and steady. Shearing lambs were firm, fleshy kinds bringing $8.25@8.50.

COTTON DRIVES STRONGER

American cotton markets, although opening lower in sympathy with the weakness in Liverpool, became stronger yesterday toward the last and finished around the best prices, gains on futures in Chicago being 4@7 points, with other markets up 1@9 points. Spot prices were unchanged, New York being 11.20c, New Orleans 10.85c, and Galveston and Houston 11.00c. Liverpool closed 1 point lower to 5 points higher, with spot sales 6,000 bales. Light rains fell over a good part of the middle belt and the eastern Carolinas. The Textile institute reports that 83 per cent of the cotton textile industry will discontinue night employment of women and children.

Meat stocks at eastern packing points increased 62,708,000 lbs last month, the largest gain for the period since 1928, when it was 83,971,000 lbs. With that exception the increase was the heaviest in 10 years or more. Total stocks are 320,140,000 lbs. against 257,434,000 lbs a month ago, 282,906,000 lbs a year ago, and 334,195,000 lbs two years ago, as compiled by Schwarz & Co. Lard stocks are 38,806,000 lbs, an increase of 4,860,000 lbs for the month. A year ago they were 63,380,000 lbs and two years ago 119,038,000 lbs. The increase in joints was 40,000,000 lbs for the month, with stocks of 240,000,000 lbs, against 214,000,000 lbs last year.

There was good support to the market for lard yesterday and it was said that eastern longs have about finished their liquidating. Offerings were not large and futures closed 5@7½c higher. Trade in bellies was small; with July up 17½c and September 8c. Cash trade was moderate. Liverpool lard advanced 6d. Exports of lard were 2,615,000 lbs and of bacon 401,000 lbs. Hog prices averaged higher, with supplies lighter than a week and a year ago. Prices follow:

Winchester Repeating Arms Company

(CONNECTICUT)

First Mortgage Twenty-Year Seven and One-Half Per Cent. Gold Bonds, due April 1, 1941.

Receivers for Winchester Repeating Arms Company were appointed January 22, 1931, and immediately thereafter announcement was made of the formation of the undersigned Committee. During the short time elapsed since then, just under one-half of the above Bonds have been deposited with the Committee. The Committee regards these deposits as very satisfactory, but Bondholders should understand that in order to enable the Committee to protect the interests of the Bondholders most effectively in the important questions growing out of the receivership and in the consideration of any reorganization plan, the Committee should be in a position to speak for substantially all of the Bonds. To accomplish this result it is essential, in view of the fact that the Bonds are widely held in small amounts throughout the country, that all holders of small amounts of Bonds, as well as the larger holders, should deposit their Bonds with the Committee. It is particularly important that as many Bonds as possible should be deposited before April 1, 1931, when the next coupon for interest on the Bonds will be due. The Committee has accordingly extended the time within which the Bonds may be deposited for thirty days. All Bondholders who have not already deposited their Bonds are urged in their own interest to do so promptly and in any event prior to April 1, 1931.

Deposits may be made with the Depositary or one of the Sub-Depositaries named below. Deposited Bonds must be in negotiable form and have all coupons maturing April 1, 1931, and subsequently attached. Transferable certificates of deposit will be issued in respect of deposited Bonds. Application has been made to list such certificates of deposit on the New York Stock Exchange.

Copies of the Deposit Agreement under which the deposits are made may be had on application to the Depositary or any Sub-Depositary, or to the Secretary of the Committee.

Dated New York, March 2, 1931.
